Slowdown in increase of retail prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Increases in retail prices were not as great in July as they had been the previous two months, due chiefly to a mid-summer drop in some grocery prices, the Labor Department said today.

The consumer price index, the best measure of changes in the cost of living, jumped 0.8 per cent last month.

Increases in automobile prices and the cost of restaurant meals, medical care and buying a home led the July advance but were partially offset by lower prices for clothing and such food items as fresh fruits and vegetables, beef and dairy products.

The July increase was smaller than a 1 per cent rise in June and 1.1 per cent in May. But it was still large by historical standards and offered no relief to President Ford in his search for ways to beat the nation's soaring inflation.

The Labor Department's report was released shortly after General Motors Corp. announced it was bowing to pressure from the White House and was trimming $54 from its planned $500 price hike on 1975 model cars and trucks.

The cost of living has increased by nearly 12 per cent in the past 12 months, the Labor Department said.

The price index in July stood at 148.3 compared to 100 in the 1967 base year. This means that a market basket of retail goods and services that cost $10 seven years ago had risen in price to $14.83 last month.

There was a modest dose of good news in another Labor Department report which showed real spendable earnings —what an average blue-collar worker has left on his weekly paycheck after payroll deductions —rose 0.2 per cent from June. However, this figure was still down 5.3 per cent over the past year.

Organized labor has cited this figure as evidence that workers' pay has not kept pace with inflation.

Both the seasonally adjusted consumer price index and the unadjusted index rose 0.8 per cent in July.

Grocery prices usually go up in July, on a seasonally adjusted basis, but prices on many items went down instead. Fruits and vegetables were off more than 2 per cent and meats, poultry, fish and dairy goods were down about 1.5 per cent.

The total index for food bought for home use was off about 1 per cent but the cost of eating out at a restaurant rose last month by about the same amount.

Retail prices for nonfood commodities —a broad range of such items as shoes, gasoline and home furnishings —rose 1 per cent last month or 1.3 per cent seasonally adjusted. This figure usually drops somewhat in July.

New car prices, for example, are customarily marked down in late summer so that dealers can clear their showrooms for fall delivery of new models but in July they rose instead.

Gasoline and motor oil prices slowed sharply from their fast rise of recent months but big increases still were noted for household durable goods, alcoholic beverages, tobacco products and fuel and coal.

SECONDS LATER--DEATH!

Bank camera picture shows teller Connie Adams, 19, an instant before she was shot to death by gunman at a bank robbery at Augusta, Mich., Tuesday. FBI and local officers are searching a wooded area nearby for two suspects.

Bomber suspect nabbed leaving his 'calling card'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police Tuesday arrested Muharem Kurbegovic, a Yugoslavian printer, and charged him with being the "alphabet bomber" who killed three persons and wounded 35 at the international airport Aug. 6.

"I'm convinced we have solved the airport bombing and the placing of a bomb at the Greyhound terminal," said Assistant Police Chief Daryl Gates. Kurbegovic, 31, was arrested in the men's room of a restaurant in Hollywood.

He was accused of being the "Isaac Rasim" who took responsibility for the airport bombing, claiming to be the "chief military officer of the Aliens of America."

He was to be charged today with murder for the deaths of two skycaps and a New Zealand passenger who were blasted apart by the bomb left in a public locker.

The FBI said it would bring a federal charge of destruction of an airport, which carries a possible life prison term.

Police said Kurbegovic had been under surveillance for several hours and was arrested after he dropped off a tape casette —the bomber's method of leaving messages —and officers felt the voice on the tape was the same as that of "Rasim."

"He was arrested on the basis of the voice on the tape," a police spokeuman said, and his apartment was then searched by bomb squad members with explosives-sniffing dogs and "there is incriminating evidence at the apartment ... explosive ingredients."

Kurbegovic, who entered the United States legally in 1967, stands 5-feet-11, weighs 200 pounds, and has short brown hair. He worked for a blueprint firm.

Police said he had been arrested once before, for an unspecified sex offense.

"We think he is one and the same" with "Rasim," the police spokesman said. Investigators believe there are probably no more members of the

The Board of Supervisors has decided to build a $161,183 heliport at Brackett Field in La Verne but it will probably be operated by the City of Los Angeles.

Under the proposed trade, the city would take over all of the county's airports and the county would acquire the city's beaches.

The county has been trying to get out of the airport business for at least six years. Supervisors claim Los Angeles, with its large airport system is better equipped to handle the operation.

Negotiations on the trade-off apparently have been going on for the past several weeks by county and city officials. They surfaced at the board meeting Tuesday when the heliport question came up on the agenda.

Supervisors held off action on the heliport in the morning but approved the proposal in the afternoon to beat an Aug. 31 deadline after which federal funds will not be available.

Under that proposal the federal government would appropriate $129,897, and the state and the county each would supply $15,643 for the construction of the facilities and adjoining aprons.

Although the heliport would be used both by governmental agencies and private industry, there was no application on file with the department of airports for the establishment of a heliport service, such as the one which served Pomona between Los Angeles and Riverside several years ago.

The downtown heliport pad which was used for that purpose still is vacant.

The trade-off would cover five of the county's small airports: Brackett, Fox Airfield in Lancaster, Whiteman Airport in Pacoima, and airports at Compton and El Monte.

In exchange, the county would acquire all beach operations of Los Angeles.

Supervisor Baxter Ward initiated a motion Tuesday to establish a committee to coordinate placement of the county airports under city authority.

Ward said county facilities would be transferred either by purchase or lease agreements.

GM bows to White House pressure; cuts price hike

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp., bowing to White House pressure, today announced a token reduction of $54 from its planned price hike of $500 for 1975 model cars and trucks.

GM said the reduction was in response to an appeal from President Ford to roll back the increase and help fight inflation.

The average increase on GM's 1975 model cars, which are being put on sale as soon as dealers receive them, is now $446, including $100 to $160 for emission control equipment, $20 for higher destination charges and the remainder to cover the higher costs of labor and materiels.

The move by the nation's No. 1 auto maker, the acknowledged price leader, was seen as a gesture to take off the pressure that has been building since Aug. 9 when it announced the 9.5 per cent increase.

President Ford was sharply critical of the hike and had called for a reduction.

"This reduction is our response to President Ford's appeal to all segments of the American public to help fight inflation," GM chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg said in a three-page news release.

Gerstenberg said the new increase would average six per cent for cars and 10 per cent for trucks. On cars, this would include between $100 and $160 to cover the cost of adding new emmission control equipment.

Ford Motor Co. president Lee A. Iacocca said Tuesday the No. 2 auto maker has little choice but to follow GM's lead on prices. Ford indicated in late July its increase on cars would average $418. But Iacocca said the hike now probably would be in the same range as GM increase.

Neither Chrysler Corp. nor American Motors has made any public disclosures on their pricing action for 1975 models.

Gerstenberg, complaining that GM will be absorbing about $100 per vehicle in unrecovered cost increases when the 1975s debut, said he shares the President's concern with inflation.

"The national problem does not yield to an easy solution, nor can it be solved by one segment of our society, one industry, or one company," Gerstenberg said. "We can say this—if every industry had a price record equal to that of the automobile industry, the nation's inflation problem would be solved."

Gerstenberg, who had resisted the White House's jawboning for just over one week, hinted there would be further increases if inflation pressures don't moderate.

"We feel that, in these extraordinary times, we are doing our part," the GM chief executive said. "Whether there will be further price increases on our products will depend on the extent to which others exercise similar restraint and the forces of inflation can be brought under control."

Crime-buster sheriff dies in car crash

SELMER, Tenn. (UPI) — Buford Pusser, a crime-busting sheriff made famous by the movie "Walking Tall," was killed today in a flaming traffic accident.

His death came less than 24 hours after he signed to star in a sequel to the smash boxoffice hit about his battles against gambling, moonshining and prostitution in McNairy County, Tenn.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol said the 36-year-old Pusser died when his 1974 red sports car careened off Highway 64, crashed into an embankment and burst into flames.

Pusser was thrown clear and died instantly. The Highway Patrol said there was no sign of foul play in the wreckage.

There were seven attempts on Pusser's life while he served as sheriff and one of them killed his wife and almost killed him. "Walking Tall" ended with Pusser lying in a hospital bed, half his face shot away by .30-caliber pistol bullets.

Fourteen plastic surgery operations gave him a new appearance, and he was wearing his hair longer than his crew cut of law enforcement days.

Petitions seek to void appointment of trustee

Circulation of petitions began here today to void the appointment of Mrs. Nancy Bennett of Walnut to the board of trustees of Mt. San Antonio College.

Mrs. Bennett was named to the post by the board last Thursday to fill the unexpired term of Lance D. Smith who died earlier this month. The term runs out in March.

But the appointment is being challenged by the MSAC Faculty Association, and a new organization known as Establishment of Committee for Open Government, who want an open election.

The two groups contend the board should have appointed the runner-up candidate who mustered the largest number of votes in the last election in this case, Charles Hall of Diamond Bar, who drew 7,000 votes.

Because the board did not follow that process, the two groups are now charging the trustees with "abuse of power"

Tot falls from bed, drowns in bucket of water

A 15-month-old baby boy apparently rolled off a bed at 13118 18th St. in Chino Tuesday night and drowned in a bucket of water, Chino police reported.

Little Pedro Reuben Perez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro R. Perez of the 18th Street address, was rushed to Chino General Hospital about 8:30 p.m. by his mother and a neighbor, but was pronounced dead on arrival. The baby had drowned in approximately seven inches of mop water in a bucket by his parents' bed.

According to police reports, Perez after eating dinner Tuesday night lay down on the double bed with his youngest son. About 7 p.m. Perez awoke, and left the house to help a friend with some work at 11th and B streets. At the time the baby was still sleeping on the bed.

Approximately 15 to 30 minutes later Mrs. Perez was talking on the telephone and directed another son Alberto, 9, to check on the baby, police said. Alberto told officers that he went into the bedroom and observed his little brother had fallen head first into the bucket of water.

Alberto yelled for his mother and removed the limp and lifeless baby from the bucket of water and put him on the bed. Alberto said he tried to give the baby mouth-to-mouth resuscitation with no success.

Lost one son in street gang violence

Mom in hiding after killing boy to protect son

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A North Philadelphia mother of seven, who has lost one son in street gang violence was in hiding today after fatally stabbing a 16-year-old youth to protect another son.

Police said Mrs. Bernice Rawls, 38, stabbed Curtis Jackson to death with a hunting knife Monday night as Jackson and two other known gang members chased her son, Joseph, 15, into the Rawls' home.

Mrs. Rawls, whose son, Vincent, 13, died in a gang stabbing in 1972, was forced to leave her home Tuesday and go into hiding after being threatened by a gang member.

"One of the dead boy's friends said he was coming back to kill us all and burn our house down," said Mrs. Rawls. "I've just got to find a new place, but don't know how I'm going to afford it."

Mrs. Rawls receives $234 a month in welfare assistance.

Police said the stabbing occurred as Mrs. Rawls and a neighbor sat on the front stoop. They saw a group of about 10 boys chasing her son and her brother, Kenneth Griffin, 16.

She told officers that three of the boys pushed past her into her living room, and when they refused to leave following a shoving match, she got the knife from the kitchen and thrust it into Jackson's stomach. Jackson, armed with a pocket knife, died a short time later.

"All I could see was my son's body lying in a pool of blood," said Mrs. Rawls, recalling the 1972 gang slaying. "All I was trying to do was protect my son and brother."

Gang related violence has claimed more than 20 lives in the city this year and more than 40 each of the last two years.

Ford: jobs for blacks program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford told black House members today he is considering a public service employment program to fight unemployment of blacks in major cities, a leader of the group said.

Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., head of the Black Caucus, told reporters the House members were "pleased" with the White House meeting found that Ford "recognizes that our concerns are his concerns."

Ford met with the House members in a friendly and conciliatory gesture aimed at improving relations between the executive branch and the black lawmakers.

Area man resigns Washington, D.C., committee post

The resignation of former Pomona resident Henry Miguel Ramirez as chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for Spanish-Speaking People was accepted "with deep regret" Tuesday by President Ford.

Ramirez could not be reached by telephone for comment at either his Maryland home or at his Washington office.

He had served almost three years as chairman of the committee and was also a special assistant to former President Richard M. Nixon.

The Senate Watergate Committee, in one of the main reports of its investigation into fraudulent campaign practices and related activities, linked Ramirez with the White House's Responsiveness Plan.

An alleged goal of this plan was to funnel federal grants, loans and contracts to friends of the Nixion administration, especially the Spanish minority.

Ramirez denied any illegal activities.

He visited Pomona in March of 1972 and the following October to talk about the federal government's efforts to place more Spanish-speaking persons in high governmental position, and to this end, observers say Ramirez' office compiled an impressive record.

During a talk at the Tropical Mexico restaurant here, Ramirez held up his hometown and state as bad examples:

"It would be great to say here in Pomona that one Mexican-American heads a big department. It is a terrible thing that it hasn't happened yet. I can say the same things about your government at the state level. Not one Mexican-American heads a single agency."

Born in Walnut, Ramirez moved to Pomona when he was six months old. His family at one time lived in a home provided by a railroad company in Pomona.

He held a number of key educational posts in the Whittier Union High School District and was director and chief of the Mexican-American Studies Division of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights before he was appointed chairman of the committee by President Nixon on Aug. 5, 1971.

His appointment was urged by thousands of letters of recommendation, including some locally from former Mayor Ben Lawing of Pomona, former Mayor Joe Montoya of La Puente, Pomona businessman Roy O. Day, and Mrylie Evers of the California Democratic State Central Committee.

Ramirez has a number of relatives in the Pomona Valley, including a sister, Inez Quintana, a Pomona city employe, and Chalo, with the League of United Latin American Citizens' Educational Center in Pomona.

HELD FOR $40,000 RANSOM

Caroline Pessers, 5, left, daughter of a millionaire Dutch cigar manufacturer, was kidnaped Tuesday as she rode her tricycle in the driveway at the family home, right, in Waalre, Holland. Police cars are shown outside the mansion after the girl's abduction. A man called the police station shortly after the kidnaping and said, "The girl is well." He also demanded a ransom of $40,000.

Valley man shot; burglary suspect

John E. Louderback, 30, of 445 W. 10th St., was wounded in his left side by one shot fired by Arcadia police Sgt. Maurice Farr. Louderback was undergoing surgery late this morning at County-USC Medical Center. His condition before surgery was termed fair.

Arcadia police Capt. Billy Oliver gave this account of the incident:

Sgt. Farr and Officer Charles Chapman were sent to the John Nelson residence at 326 Harvard St. shortly after 1:30 a.m. to investigate a possible burglary. A young woman, who lives nearby, had called, saying there was someone with a flashlight inside the place and the Nelsons were away on vacation.

Farr and Chapman arrived and found Louderback inside the garage. They ordered him out the same window through which he apparently had entered.

After climbing through the window, Louderback suddenly lunged at Farr, striking at him with an automobile jack handle. Farr fired a shot from his .38-caliber revolver, hitting Louderback in the side.

Louderback was taken to the jail ward of County-USC Medical Center where he was booked on suspicion of burglary and confined for treatment.

Five thugs rob man of watch

Kent N. Christensen, 46, said he was confronted by five young men at San Antonio Avenue and Hallwood Street shortly after 11 o'clock. They went through his wallet while holding him at knife-point and took his watch when they found no money. Then they told him to "run for your life."

The one with the knife was described as a Negro about 20, 5 feet 9, weighing 145 pounds. He wore two caps, a blue watch cap over a light-colored knit cap. He also wore a black polo shirt, dark brown pants and dark brown jacket.

Parent-faculty group planning swim party

Youth hit by bullet charged in burglary

A 17-year-old Pomona youth was wounded Tuesday evening while he and another young man were carrying a stolen color television set down the San Antonio Wash in west Pomona, police reported.

The youth, whose identity was not revealed because he was booked on suspicion of burglary, was struck in one arm by a shot which apparently ricocheted off the ground. He was reported in satisfactory condition today at the jail ward of County-USC Medical Center.

The teen-ager and a companion were challenged by Clifford Gibson, 30, as they were carrying the set along the wash, Officer Charles Heilman said. Gibson fired several shots into the air and into the ground in efforts to stop the pair, but they dropped the set and fled, the officer said. Gibson chased them but they outran him.

Later, however, a request was placed for an ambulance from a house about a half-mile from the scene of the shooting. The 17-year-old had gone to the residence at 355 Lombard St. seeking help after being wounded.

He was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, where Gibson later identified him as one of the pair seen carrying the set, officers said. He was arrested there and transferred to the county hospital jail ward for further treatment.

Police also booked Charles Edward Sharpley, 18, of 2564 Barjud Ave., in connection with the incident. He was arrested at the residence on Lombard Street.

Heilman said that the television set had been taken from 2649 Kellogg Park Drive. Gibson was in a house nearby when he saw the set being carried along the wash. He said the youths who were carrying it had been at the house where he was staying earlier and had acted suspiciously.

Case dismissed against woman in murder case

West Valley Superior Court Judge Henry Busch has dismissed a charge of accessory to murder against Mrs. Gloria Negrette, 21, of 623 W. Maitland St., Ontario, wife of Steven Jess Negrette recently convicted of second-degree murder in the death of an Upland woman.

The charge was dismissed by the judge last Friday just prior to the Ontario's woman's scheduled trial.

Ontario police investigating the stabbing death of Mrs. Mae Arlene DeFrenza, 38, an Upland real estate saleswoman in a vacant house at 646 E. Nocta St., Ontario, April 24, arrested Negrette, and later his wife. Negrette was originally charged with first-degree murder, and his wife accessory after the fact to murder.

Negrette, after a three-week trial in San Bernardino, was convicted of second-degree murder and is currently awaiting sentencing at the California Institution for Men's diagnostic center in Chino.

Bicycle crashes into side of car; rider, 14, injured

A 14-year-old bicyclist was injured Tuesday afternoon when his bicycle traveling at high rate of speed went through a stop sign and crashed into the side of a car at Campus Avenue and Princeton Street in Ontario, police reported.

Michael Charles Lopez of 8785 Center St., Cucamonga, was rushed to San Antonio Community Hospital for treatment of multiple minor injuries following the 3:44 p.m. accident. He was later released.

Police said the youth, riding his bicycle with two other youths westbound on Princeton Street, apparently could not stop at a stop sign and crashed into the side of a car driven north on Campus Avenue by Roy Jackson Biard, 72, of 627 E. Yale St., Ontario. Police said the driver of the car swerved in an attempt to avoid the accident. Police said the two other youths with Lopez managed to stop at the stop sign, but Lopez could not stop his bicycle because it was going too fast.

County will purchase 1,000-acre dump site

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors will purchase 1,060 acres in the Chino Hills east of Los Serranos for a new county refuse disposal site.

County Supervisor Robert O. Townsend reported as the board took action Monday that the county's present site on Milliken Avenue will be filled to capacity within two or three years.

The county began looking for a disposal site several months ago, considering physical factors, environmental concerns and economic considerations.

Of the 1,000 acres purchased, half will be used for general refuse landfill and half for manure disposal. The landfill area will accommodate 16.8 million cubic yards.

The county will pay $600 per acre for the land.

In other action taken by the board on Monday, a measure was passed providing for reduced tax payments on property damaged after the last tax assessment. Previously, property which decreased in value due to damage occurring after the March 1 lien date would pay taxes on the entire assessed value for the full year.

Such property will now be reassessed following the damage and taxes will be paid only on the remaining value for the year's balance.

Board of Supervisors Chairman Nancy E. Smith noted that the new provision will detract slightly from the county's tax base, but it is only fair to reduce the burden on persons whose property has sustained a significant decrease in value due to damage.

Students' families invited to meeting

Student's entire families may attend the first general meeting of the Walnut Avenue School PTA Thursday night at 7:30 at the Chino school.

A dime-a-dip ice cream social will follow the meeting.

The PTA will conduct a paper drive Aug. 31 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the school grounds.

Board approves new procedures

Procedures for monitoring impact of the year-round school calendar on student achievement levels were approved Tuesday by the Chino Board of Education.

In an amendment to the district's administrative guide, the board stipulated that achievement levels for grades 3-6 will be monitored by testing reading and mathematics. At grades 7-9, testing of mathematics and language arts will be done. Results of the testing will be compared to the previous year.

The board tabled three items related to completion of construction at Magnolia Junior High School. Plans presented by architects included a satellite kitchen which could serve elementary schools. The board requested that another plan be presented at the next meeting, not including the satellite kitchen.

The board also approved the appointment of Richard Barboza to vice principal at Richard Gird Elementary effective today. Presently, Barboza serves as bilingual coordinator for the school district.

Sadat to visit U.S. this year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat will visit the United States sometime this year, according to a joint communique issued in Cairo and Washington.

Sadat was invited to make the trip by former President Nixon during Nixon's last overseas tour. The communique said no date has been set for the trip, but that President Ford "is looking forward with pleasure to the visit."

Nixon subpoena

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The U.S. marshal who is to hand Richard Nixon the former President's first Watergaterelated subpoena says he is negotiating with Nixon's staff to do it privately, and he won't say when or where that will be.

"I will make a professional and discreet service on Mr. Nixon," Gaylord Campbell, marshal for the central district of California, said Monday.

The subpoena, from the court of U.S. District Judge John Sirica in Washington, D.C., arrived at Campbell's office Monday. He is expected to go to San Clemente, where the former President has been in seclusion since his resignation, to serve it on Nixon.

Campbell has already said that the subpoena must be handed to Nixon personally, not given to a lawyer.

Goldwater objects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson Rockefeller's nomination as vice president doesn't sit well with Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, who says it won't go over with rank-and-file Republicans and may deepen rather than heal party wounds.

"I can support it," Goldwater said in an interview Tuesday, shortly after Rockefeller's nomination was announced by President Ford.

"He's very well qualified. But I don't know what it's going to do to the Republican party ... he's not the one to put the party together."

The senator also suggested that if Ford runs for president in 1976 he should dump Rockefeller, now 66, in favor of "a younger man."

Kill for hire trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eloise Popeil, alleged co-conspirator in a murder-for-hire scheme to kill her millionaire husband, was described by her psychiatrist in court Tuesday as being a "passive, dependent personality ... " who "could not be motivated by money to enter into plans to participate in a murder."

In testimony Tuesday, Dr. George Chase, a Newport Beach psychiatrist, said Mrs. Popeil is capable of entertaining violent feelings, but can't express them, choosing rather to withdraw within herself.

"She doesn't have the emotional ability to fire a gun at another person," Chase said.

Connally quits bank

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally has resigned as a director of First City National Bank of Houston and First City National Bank of Floresville, Tex., a spokesman for his law firm said.

Connally has been indicted by a federal grand jury in Washington on charges of acepting an illegal payoff, conspiring to obstruct justice and perjury in connection with government action in 1971 to raise milk price supports.

"Since the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency can request an indicted bank director to resign, the voluntary resignations were submitted to avoid possible embarrassment to the banks," the spokesman said.

Eyewitness to Davies' death; slain ambassador's body home

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Marilyn Burlison knelt by the ambassador and tried to stop the blood from pouring out of a wound in his chest. Bullets cracked in the hallway. Smoke and tear gas seeped in under the door.

Moments afer the first burst of gunfire ripped into the U.S. Embassy, Lowell Citron ducked the bullets, crawled to a telephone and called for help.

Citron said he heard U.S. Ambassador Rodger Davies cry out during the Monday morning attack and "then I saw him falling."

As Davies lay mortally wounded, Marilyn Burlsion, his personal secretary, tried to stop the bleeding and Citron tried desperately to get help.

"The man on the other end (of the telephone) couldn't hear me," Citron said. "I kept shouting to send an ambulance to the embassy and he kept shouting to ask where, the idiot."

Two ambulances could not get through the thick tear gas and thousands of angry demonstrators outside the embassy. An American newsman covering the protest ran to the nearby Hilton Hotel to get medical help from the local Red Cross.

Red Cross workers refused, however, to move when they learned the injured were Americans, a government official said.

The Cypriot leader, who dashed from a news conference across town, donned a mask to protect agaisnt the lingering tear gas, but pushed it aside when he saw Davies.

"My God, he's been shot," Clerides said. "Take him to my car."

U.S. officials quickly carried the dying envoy down to a side entrance and commandered a fire engine called earlier to extinquish burning automobiles in the embassy parking lot. Davis was taken to a clinic two blocks away.

"He was still alive when they left the embassy," Citron said. "But he was dead when he arrived at the hospital."

Hours later, Marilyn Burlison boarded a special U.S. Air Force plane carrying the body of the ambassador back to his home in California.

"I will not come back to Cyprus ever again," the Minneapolis secretary said as she followed the coffin onto the plane.

Davies' body was flown to Washington today where President Gerald Ford attended a brief memorial service for the career diplomat at Andrews Air Force Base accompanied by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The body then was flown to San Francisco. Services will be later this week in Berkeley where Davies lived.

Turkish invasion forces have ordered United Nations peacekeeping troops out of the recently captured eastern Cyprus port of Famagusta, a U.N. spokesman said today.

The Turkish order recalled one last month for U.N. forces to get out of the north coast port of Kyrenia. The U.N. troops refused to leave Kyrenia so the Turks, vastly outnumbering them, simply confined them to their camps. Then the Turks launched a series of attacks to enlarge their north coast beachhead.

The island was generally calm today though UPI Correspndent John Lawton reported some firing across the United Nations "Green Line" dividing the Greek and Turkish quarters of Nicosia, the capital city.

More beef, but tougher

WASHINGTON (UPI) Consumers will find more beef on grocery shelves than they did last September, but most of it will be a leaner, tougher grade of beef than they are accustomed to, the Agriculture Department said today.

Supplies of tender, grain-fed beef next month will about equal to the low levels of a year earlier, officials said in a monthly "Food Marketing Alert". But there will be a step-up in production of grass-fed cattle which yield tougher beef because they have less of the "marbling" fat developed when cattle are finished on grain.

Signs of declining production of grain-fed beef have been apparent for several months in government reports showing a decline in the number of cattle being stuffed with grain in feedlots. It began with an economic pinch on feedlot operators who found themselves losing up to $200 a head at times this year because of a squeeze between high feed prices and low prices for slaughter cattle.

The drop was expected to be aggravated by a smaller-than-expected 1974 corn crop forecast. Next year, the predictions are for even shorter supplies.

The food alert for September said pork supplies should be bigger than last year but below the 1970-72 average. Chicken supplies will be down 2 to 4 per cent from last year and 4 to 6 per cent under the 1971-73 average, and egg supplies will be "slightly" below a year ago and 4 to 6 per cent below 1971-73.

The report also predicted that, in September:

—Fluid milk, butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk will be "adequate."

—Supplies of apples and California grapes will be "ample," and citrus juices will be "plentiful," but canned non-citrus fruits will remain "tight."

—Consumers will find plenty of fresh and frozen vegetables, but canned vegetable supplies will be only "generally adequate" —a term officials say indicates the possibility of some shortages.

Richard Todd, chairman of the board of trustees, denied there was any abuse of power and contended that the board was merely "'doing its job" in selecting a successor.

"We felt that with only a few months left of the term, it would not be in the best interest of our taxpayers to spend $55,000 on a special election," he declared. "We did what we thought was best for the district. If the faculty association is opposed to it, it can petition for the special election."

Mrs. Bennett's appointment can be voided and a special election can be forced if five per cent of those who voted in the last election sign petitions. Since approximately 30,000 persons voted in the 1973 MSAC elections, at least 1,500 signatures will be needed by the Sept. 14 deadline, according to Leonard Panish, county registrar of voters.

Donald Greeley, president of the MSAC faculty association, said the teachers were not spearheading the drive, but supporting it. He said the campaign for the special election was under the auspices of the newly formed organization, headed by Charles Ruggles of Diamond Bar.

Jerry Allen, a political science instructor at the college, who said he was not a member of the faculty association, serves as liaison officer between the teachers and the rest of the community.

"We regret that the election will cost our taxpayers between $45,000 and $55,000," he said. "But that's part of the democratic process. Watergate started with a simple burglary."

Bomber...

"Aliens of America" that Rasim claimed to speak for.

A series of firebombings at the homes of several police commissioners and a judge last year plus a rejected application for a permit from the police commission may have been the clues that led police Tuesday to the apprehension of the so-called "alphabet bomber."

Police investigators linked him to the firebombings last Nov. 9 of ex-police commissioners Marguerite Justice and Emmett C. McCaughey and Municipal Judge Alan G. Campbell.

In the tapes, a man identified himself as Isaac Rasim, and listed a number of demands from a group he called "Aliens of America." One of those demands called for the punishment of two police officers, now retired, who killed two illegal Mexican aliens four years ago in a raid. The officers were cleared of wrongdoing.

According to an unofficial police source, "Rasim" actually referred to the officers who were in charge of investigating the incident. One of these was McCaughey and the other was George Milemore, former captain of the police commission's investigative unit.

Officers investigated the firebombings at the homes of those involved in the 1970 raid, and linked those to other fire bombings involving the police commissioners and judge.

After the apprehension of Kurbegovic at a Los Angeles restaurant where police said he was attempting to drop another tape casette, a search at his apartment turned up several explosive ingredients.

An unofficial police source said among the evidence found were proponants for explosives, incendiary devices, pipe bombs and a small cache of weapons. Police refused to elaborate on the number or type of weapons found.

FINAL JOURNEY FOR SLAIN AMBASSADOR

U.N. Security troops carry flag-draped casket of U.S. Ambassador Rodger P. Davies to U.S. Air Force plane at Nicosia. The body was returned today and taken to San Francisco for burial later this week at Berkeley, Davies' home. Washington wrapup

Rockefeller confirmation within 8 weeks: Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, said today confirmation of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president should take no more than eight weeks —the same time it took to approve Gerald Ford for the job last year.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, a Michigan conservative, said he believes the confirmation process should be "relatively easy," despite questions raised about Rockefeller's enormous wealth.

"Admittedly he is a man of great personal wealth, but very clearly none of it was ever gained in public office," Hutchinson said.

"I would say since it took eight weeks to confirm Jerry Ford as vice president that if it takes longer than eight weeks to confirm Nelson Rockefeller, someone is going to be guilty of foot dragging."

Under provisions of the 25th Amendment, Rockefeller must be confirmed by both the House and Senate. The House Judiciary Committee and the Senate Rules Committee, chaired by Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., will conduct the confirmation hearings.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott today urged the Senate "to move as expeditiously as possible" in the confirmation and said he thought hearings would begin as soon as the Senate receives FBI reports on Rockefeller. Scott said the hearings could not begin until after Labor Day.

Hutchinson and Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., the judiciary chairman, were interviewed jointly on the NBC Today Show.

"I'm not going to set any time," he said. "It is too important, too serious, too grave."

The biggest issue during the confirmation process will be Rockefeller's wealth. He told reporters Tuesday he did not think his fortune will raise any great problem. He said he was prepared to do with his money what Congress deemed necessary.

Cannon indicated he would ask Rockefeller to provide copies of his tax returns.

HHH urges curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This year's drought-shortened harvest could mean $10-$20 billion in added costs to American consumers and taxpayers in 1975 unless the government acts to allocate scarce supplies fairly both domestically and abroad, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey warned President Ford Tuesday.

The Minnesota Democrat, in a letter to Ford, stressed he was not calling for "easy or simple solutions. . .such as immediate imposition of export controls, on corn, soybeans and other crops in tight supply.

Instead, he urged the President immediately to assemble a committee to review the food situation and develop "a balanced, rational national policy on food and agriculture." "To rely solely on market forces and prices as a rationing system for major crops could prove disastrous, not only in feeding the fires of inflation in the U.S. ahd other industrialized nations, but also to millions of people in the world who may very well die or suffer severe malnutrition in the absence of our sharing some of our food supply with them—however short it might be," Humphrey said.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, a consistent opponent of export controls on farm crops, had said in the wake of recent crop reports that normal market forces would effectively allocate supplies to domestic and foreign markets, and that the government could continue to meet "humanitarian needs" abroad.

Health insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Promising to complete the framework of a comprehensive national health insurance bill by today, House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills faced sharp disagreement from his panel on the critical issue of financing.

The issue is whether to set a payroll tax of 0.8 per cent on employers and workers or to draw from general revenues to pay for a health insurance plan covering virtually the entire population at an increased annual national expenditure of $6 billion.

Mills, D-Ark., repeatedly ran into narrow votes on financing and other issues as the committee tried to finish its first draft before the House adjourns at the close of business Thursday.

Pension bill okay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed a pension reform bill designed to give older workers peace of mind, knowing funds earned over a lifetime of work will be there when they retire.

The compromise bill is expected to win Senate passage and be signed by President Ford.

The bill would establish a series of "firsts" in the pension field:

—A new federal insurance agency to guarantee pension payments up to $750 a month if a company defaults on its obligation.

—Minimum federal standards on which workers must be included in a company's pension plan, how the scheme must be funded and managed, and how soon workers must be "vested" —entitled to benefits —even if they are fired or their company goes out of business.

—Individual retirement accounts would be allowed for workers in companies with no pension plan, authorizing them to set aside up to $1,500 a year tax-free.

Nothing in the bill would force a company to begin a pension plan, but any existing or new plan would have to meet all minimum standards.

Thousands of workers over the years have suffered when they found the pension they were promised would not be paid.

Transit measure

WASHINGTON (UII) — The House heard President Ford's call for economy and cut a mass transit bill down from $20 billion to $11 billion.

It then heard a warning from Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, that the voting motorist doesn't like trucks, and threw out a section that would have allowed heavier trucks on Interstate highways.

The new six-year transit bill passed 324 to 92 Tuesday and went to the Senate, where a similar bill is being considered in the Public Works Committee.

The bill provides federal matching funds for both transit operation and new construction and improvement. The Secretary of Transportation would decide, within limits, where and how the money would be spent.

The big-truck section of the bill, deleted 257 to 155 on an amendment by Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., would have increased maximum axle loadings for trucks and introduced a new maximum weight formula that would have allowed gross weights for some trucks to rise as high as 90,000 pounds, compared with the present 73,280 maximum.

Hays was offended by a remark about the hardships the 55 mph speed limit placed on truckers. He jumped to his feet and complained, "There's not a truck in the country that's obeying the 55 miles per hour speed limit."

Hays complained he had been stopped in Ohio for going 63 mph, while trucks and buses roared through at 80 mph.

"They're the worst law violators there are in the country," he said of the truckers.

More than half the money remaining in the bill — $5.9 billion — would go to nine cities that now have rail or subway systems or which are building them —Atlanta, Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and San Francisco.

Another $2.9 billion would be parceled out by the Transportation Secretary for selected construction and improvement projects in any urbanized area, while $1.7 billion would be available for urbanized areas other than the nine covered in the first section. Some $500 million would be available for rural transit projects.

When the money is used for projects such as new construction, the government would pay 75 per cent of the cost. When it is used for operating subsidies, the federal government would pay only one third of the cost with state or local authorities contributing the remainder.

Texas inmates break off talks

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — County officials said negotiations with five inmates holding a deputy hostage at knifepoint broke off today despite some agreements reached during an all-night talk session.

Sheriff's Capt. Arthur Fields said the inmates apparently were taking drugs and "they are out of sight and out of focus."

Fields said they no longer were demanding their freedom but he would not specify what agreements had been reached except to say that they involved each prisoners' individual case.

He said negotiations were stalled before dawn and were never resumed after breakfast. He said the inmates who seemed very disorganized and were apparently taking pills.

"We seem to have lost ground," Fields said. "We felt pretty good last night and were in almost continuous talks until about 5 a.m.

"We are digressing at this point. They're very edgy up there. They are out of sight and out of focus."

Fields said Darvin Meharg, the former police officer and ex-con speaking for the five, was in bed and "they're unable to even get him up now."

The unidentified drugs taken by the inmates apparently came from jail medical supplies.

The inmates relinquished their demand for freedom and switched to bargaining their cases. They asked for attorneys but none appeared today.

ILONA MASSEY

Ilona Massey, 62, dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ilona Massey, a popular film star and singer, died Tuesday at Bethesda Naval Hospital after a three month illness. She was 62.

Miss Massey starred in the film "New Wine," in which she used her singing talents in the role of composer Franz Shubert's sweetheart. Later, she costarred with the Marx Brothers in the 1949 film "Love Happy."

She had lived in the Washington area since 1955, when she married her fourth husband, retired Air Force Gen. Donald S. Dawson.

Miss Massey was active in demonstrations protesting the 1956 Soviet intervention in Hungary. She also worked for Hungarian refugee relief organizations.

A memorial service will be held here.

Work stops at Squaw Valley

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — The parent firm of the company that bought the state's holdings in Squaw Valley has placed itself in receivership and halted renovation work at the resort, site of the 1960 Winter Olympics.

Mainline Properties of America bought the state's holdings last February for $2.5 million. The parent company, Mainline Corporation Ltd., of Sydney, Australia, went into receivership Tuesday.

John R. Poimitroc, public relations official for Mainline, said the corporation's problems were caused by "astronomical inflation in Australia."

He said that Mainline has not defaulted on any payments to creditors.

Ted Kennedy backs Ford on amnesty

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., today told a convention of the Veterens of Foreign Wars he thought they were "narrow" for turning down President Ford's plea for cooperation on the issue of conditional amnesty for men who refused to serve in Vietnam.

The audience of veterans at one point shouted in disagreement to a rhetorical question: "No, no, no."

"It was wrong to turn him down without even hearing his proposal in full," Kennedy told the audience of veterans.

"I believe it was wrong for you to be the first great gathering to turn against him. In the action you took, I believe that you were narrow," Kennedy said.

Kennedy referred to a resolution the 1.8 million member organization passed on Tuesday restating its strong opposition to any form of amnesty. President Ford on Monday asked the VFW's help in seeing that the young draft evaders were treated with mercy.

Farmers can tell

A tensionmeter is a device that checks water levels in soils, although experienced farmers can tell water levels by squeezing the soil into a ball.

Nuclear plant normal again

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — The San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station returned to normal operations Tuesday after a 4 ½ hour shut down caused by a false signal in the primary coolant warning system.

The Southern California Edison Co. reported that the sensitive warning system was activated while tests were being conducted on one of three level monitoring channels.

Rivers in the conterminous United States discharged an average of about 1.3 million tons of sediment every day (491 million tons per year) into the sea. The Mississippi River alone discharges about 245 million tons of sediment every year into the Gulf of Mexico — almost as much as all the other U.S. rivers combined. The World Almanac notes.

For Thursday, Aug. 22

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Everything should go reasonably well until this evening. Then you'll have to be on guard in dealing with others socially.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make it a point to be extra-thoughtful where your mate is concerned or hurt feelings will result. Don't forget anniversaries or special events.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to finish any tasks that are important as early in the day as possible. Your attention span wanes toward afternoon.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep a tight control over your spending habits at this time. If you don't, your spurts of extravagance will lighten your wallet considerably.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You will not find the warm reception you're hoping for if you bring home some unexpected guests without first telling your mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're going to dilute a plan you've worked out in a logical fashion with some impractical twists. They'll reduce its effectivenss.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are apt to be a trifle too generous with a friend in order to make points. Later you will feel you acted foolishly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It won't become you if you put on false airs and act aloof around people to whom you feel a bit superior.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The easy outs you're looking for at this time will prove to be the hardest rows to hoe.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful when talking to a friend about another friend. What you say will be repeated. The party you criticized will be offended.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Some ground is going to be lost regarding a goal you're now pursuing. You're too indecisive about your course of action.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'd best follow through on something you've discussed in detail with another and promised to take care of. Excuses won't do.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 22, 1974

This year will see a marked improvement in your basic standard of living. More funds will be available. One precaution: You mustn't be extravagant.

Why marriage often fails

By ERMA BOMBECK

By ERMA BOMBECK

For years, the Ladies Home Journal has run a series called, "Can This Marriage Be Saved?"

My husband says it sounds like they're refrigerating a leftover, but I love the civilized way in which married people get a chance to express themselves without interruption from one another. So often, one member of the couple dominates the dialogue, thus denying the other mate the chance to speak. It's so healthy in a marriage to talk it out.

As an example of how it works, I'll relate a little situation that placed our marriage in jeopardy a few years ago . . the Alarm Clock Incident.

Erma talks first.

"Basically, I'm a light sleeper. I've had to be. Were it not for me, our babies would have floated out of the crib in the mornings. Dogs would have knocked our garbage cans over and made a mess. And the milk would have frozen into quart milk bars outside of our door.

"However, my husband and I planned a trip and he said, 'I'd better set the alarm. With out luck, you'll sack out and we'll miss the plane.'

"No sooner had my head hit the pillow than the alarm went off in my ear. I stumbled out of bed, half-crazed for sleep, went into the bathroom and began brushing my teeth. The lump in my husband's bed did not move a muscle. 'Aren't you going to get up?' I asked.

"Are you crazy? It's only 4:30," he said.

"But why did you set the alarm for 4:30?"

"It was 5 a.m. 'Are you some kind of a nut? I shouted. 'No,' he said, 'I just don't want to be shoved arcund by an alarm clock. I'll get up when I'm ready to get up.'

"When I was sure he was awake, I told him as gently as possible that I was going to put him in a home. We began to argue. We argued until we missed our flight. But I forgave and forgot."

Bill's turn to talk.

"There are a few discrepancies in Erma's story . . ."

Hearing for 4 in drug case is scheduled

VAN NUYS (UPI) — A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 22 for four persons arrested with $500,000 worth of heroin and cocaine.

One of those arrested, Ken Meines, 28, was a principal witness in a 1971 police department investigation that resulted in a sentence for possession of marijuana against a Hollywood Division detective.

Also arrested were Edward Perry, 38; Shelley Lowry, 22, and Judy Richardson, 20. All four were arraigned and released after posting $50,000 bond each, with the exception of Miss Richardson, whose bail was $5,000.

Police said they were tipped by a motel manager who said there was some possible narcotics activity going on.

Police said they found 10 ½ ounces of heroin and 7 ½ ounces of cocaine being sold in one ounce quantities. A .38-caliber revolver and $9,600 in cash were confiscated.

Bridge

Old Sherlock plays it safe

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Holmes and Watson did not distinguish themselves in their bidding of the last hand in the Gooden-Thomas book. Seven diamonds, the best final contract, makes easily while seven hearts and seven notrump would make against a 3-2 heart break. Suits break 3-2 some 68 per cent of the time at the table, although they tend to break badly in bridge books.

Perhaps if Watson had rebid four diamonds over Holmes three hearts, the great detective might have found some way to get Watson to the diamond grand slam.

Or when Watson made the rather peculiar bid of five spades, Holmes could have bid six clubs, whereupon Watson could surely have gone to seven diamonds. Anyway, Holmes found himself at six hearts. He won the spade lead and studied the whole hand before playing the next trick.

There wasn't much study needed. If trumps broke 3-2 he had 14 top tricks. Suppose they broke 4-1. The contract was six hearts. It wasn't important to make an overtrick and Holmes decided to play safe.

At trick two he led a low heart from his hand. East won that trick but could do nothing to keep Holmes from drawing trumps and making his slam.

Young women set nonstop go-cart mark

EL CAJON (UPI) — Eva Aquire, 17, and Toni Wilson, 19, claim the world women's record for nonstop go-cart driving. The men's record is claimed by Tyrone the Frog.

Eva and Toni rode around the El Cajon carting center for 75 hours and 20 minutes, accompanying Tyrone the Frog, a local radio personality whose real name is Ted Giannoulas. He rode six minutes longer than they did, bettering the mark in the Guinness Book of World Records, 74 hours and 19 minutes, set by Nancy Hagerman last year, also at the El Cajon carting center.

Officer finds snake coiled around grill

He placed the snake in a plastic bag and brought it to the Highland Park Zoo.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER

Rocky's pursuit of presidency

By United Press International

There are not too many worlds left to conquer for a Rockefeller.

"There's only one name of the game in American politics," he said.

That game was the pursuit of the presidency of the United States, a prize which eluded Rockefeller through three national campaigns. At the age of 66, he came next in rank to it through the fortunes of history.

Rockefeller, who changed the face and finances of New York State in 15 years as its governor, exudes a vitality belying his age. He is a hard-driving, energetic administrator who can leave younger aides exhausted.

His square jaw and piercing gray eyes lend themselves to caricature and his raspy voice is a delight to imitators. His 5-foot-9 height is sometimes a surprise to those meeting him for the first time because his broad shoulders and large head give the impression of a much taller man.

When he took office, his first state budget totaled $2.041 billion. By the 1973-74 fiscal year, the total had zoomed to $8.881 billion.

The New York State University system, carved out of glass and concrete by a $2 billion construction program, is one of his monuments. Six times larger than when Rockefeller took office, it consists of 72 campuses with a total enrollment of 384,899 and is second only to California's among state higher education systems.

Rockefeller also took stands on non-fiscal matters which gained him both friends and enemies.

He began pushing for liberalized abortion in New York state as early as 1969 and the eventual result was New York's "abortion on demand" law, one of the first in the nation.

He also was an early advocate of eliminating the death penalty who has given indications of rethinking his position recently. And one of his last accomplishments before leaving the governor's mansion early this year was to push through one of the toughtest drug abuse laws in the nation.

Rockefeller's most controversial decision came when convicts seized New York's Attica State Prison Sept. 9, 1971, in what became the bloodiest pental uprising in modern U.S. history.

Rockefeller refused to go along with demands for amnesty and refused to go to the prison himself.

On Sept. 13, helicopters swooped down in the morning drizzle to drop tear gas into the prison yard the inmates had made their fortress and police charged the prison.

Forty-three men died, 11 of them hostages. Most died from police fire.

Rockefeller's stand shattered his liberal image forever with many Americans but he said later, "I do not see how I could have done differently."

Personal problems have cut across his career. In March of 1962, just as he was to begin his campaign for the second of four terms as governor, Rockefeller was divorced by his wife of 32 years, Mary Todhunter Clark Rockefeller, a Philadelphia born railroad heiress. Less than 14 months later, Rockefeller married the former Margaretta Filter "Happy" Murphy, a divorced mother of four.

Rockefeller

The Rockefeller fortune was founded by John D. Rockefeller Sr., the son of a small trader at Richford, N.Y., who started a small company to enter the oil refining business in 1863, four years after the first American oil well was drilled in Titusville, Pa.

The company became the giant Standard Oil Co., which before it was broken up by antitrust rulings controlled 95 per cent of the oil refining in the United States and made Rockefeller the world's first billionaire.

The Rockefeller fortune is so vast that even today its full scope is not known. It was once estimated that John D. Sr. gave away half a billion dollars in his lifetime to charitable and philanthropic causes and his son, John D. Jr., nearly as much.

The philanthropic tradition was carried on to John D. Jr.'s sons, Nelson, Winthrop, David, John D. III and Laurance.

The Rockefeller family has holdings in more than a score of countries round the world and throughout his years as governor he remained active in family financial affairs. As governor, Nelson Rockefeller was more or less the head of the family, though he often shared that role with his brother, David, the head of Chase Manhattan Bank.

Rockefeller, who speaks Spanish fluently, is a frequent visitor to the huge family cattle ranches scattered throughout South America. The ranches were the main get-away for the New York Governor, who is an avid horseman.

The family also owns South America's largest chain of supermarkets.

Similar family holdings in Europe, particularly in France, and throughout the Middle East, are part of the Rockefeller family fortune. The family's total worth can only be estimated, and the nation's major business magazines have put the figure at over $1 billion.

Those who know the Rockefeller background find it hard to believe he has not already been tapped for a major cabinet post. He has been mentioned in the past for Secretary of State or Defense, but his political ambition —he always wanted to be number one —and his politics —a liberalism unacceptable to Republican conservatives — stood in the way.

Rockefeller was reportedly Lyndon Johnson's first choice for Secretary of State. But Johnson, a lifelong Rockefeller friend, told him candidly he would not give him the post because he feared the then governor would run against him in 1964.

When Johnson announced he would not seek reelection in 1968, he called Rockefeller to the White House and urged him to make a third bid for the presidency. Rockefeller, who had already announced he would not be a candidate, returned to Albany and said he had changed his mind.

But as with his two previous bids for the presidency, Rockefeller was again denied the Republican nomination.

Rockefeller's alienation of many of his fellow Republicans began with Richard Nixon in 1960. The then governor lost the nomination to Nixon, but was able to dictate the party's convention platform. In a somewhat humiliating scene, Nixon was forced to go to Rockefeller's New York apartment in the middle of the convention to accept Rockefeller's terms.

The rift widened in 1964 when Barry Goldwater was the nominee. Seeking his party's nod again, Rockefeller labeled Goldwater an "extremist" and preached his own liberal philosophy.

Goldwater Republicans never forgot. When Rockefeller appeared to make a conciliatory speech at the 1964 convention, he and his wife were booed by the delegates. Rockefeller went home to Albany and did not campaign for his party's candi-

Richardson not happy with Rocky

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Republican U.S. Senate nominee H. L. Richardson, a hard-line conservative, today charged President Ford with "throwing a Rockefeller wrench" into the California GOP.

Richardson, a state senator and former field executive of the John Birch Society, said the President's appointment of moderate Nelon Rockefeller as vice president would "hurt" his Senate campaign.

Richardson said the departure of Richard M. Nixon from the White House and the succession of Ford to the presidency was a boost for his campaign in California.

"We just had the shortest honeymoon in the world," Richardson told UPI. "The President threw a Rockefeller wrench into the Republican party ranks in California."

"Rockefeller is Pavlovian to the conservative Republican," he asserted. "My major thrust is fiscal solvency, so he appoints a vice president who is one of the biggest spenders in the business."

Asked whether Rockefeller's nomination would harm his campaign against incumbent Democrat Alan Cranston, Richardson replied: "Sure it's going to hurt."

"I'm not going to have Rockefeller campaigning for me, no way," he said.

Questioned whether he would invite Ford to campaign for him in California, Richardson replied: "No, I'm not going to ask him either."

He said he believed with Rockefeller's nomination, the President "is going to go the way of consensus, and if he does that we are going to continue to live with increasing inflation and all the problems that go with it."

"I'm not going to play the game anymore of footsie with liberals in my own party," he said.

Rockefeller

date in the election.

Too late, he began fence mending after that election. He also became more conservative at home, trimming his record state budgets, and cracking down on welfare cheating.

But somehow he never quite made peace with Nixon, and 10 months ago when he was mentioned for vice president, Nixon chose Gerald Ford instead.

Rockefeller's public life as governor is well known. He won election to the state house four times, upsetting Averell Harriman in 1958, and winning three landslide re-election victories. Last December he resigned to head the nationwide Commission on Critical Choices for America of which Gerald Ford was a member.

Few men in America have as much foreign policy experience as Rockefeller. A former assistant secretary of state under several presidents, he was a silent "hawk" on Vietnam who strongly supported the Johnson administration Southeast Asia policy.

For years Henry Kissinger was Rockefeller's personal foreign policy adviser, and when Kissinger joined the Nixon administration, it was a running joke in New York that he was "only on loan from Rockefeller."

The two have remained close friends. It was Rockefeller who announced Kissinger's marriage to a Rockefeller aide and Rockefeller who hosted the wedding party at his Pocantico Hills estate on the Hudson River.

Kissinger is only one of the Rockefeller "people" in the administration. Peter Brennan, who came to Washington toting a gun to become secretary of labor, was the key to Rockefeller's winning the political endorsement of New York's 1.8 million member AFL-CIO. The two are good friends.

Couple sues over lost egg, sperm

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Florida couple filed a suit in Manhattan Federal Court Tuesday alleging that a New York doctor destroyed a test tube culture from which the pair had hoped to have a child.

The $1.5 million suit was brought by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Del Zio of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., against Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital and its director of obstetrics and gynecology, Dr. Raymond L. Vande Wiele.

The Del Zios claimed Vande Wiele was "malicious" when he destroyed the culture of their sperm and egg last Sept. 13 after the egg have been removed by abdominal surgery.

The suit alleged that Vande Wiele opened the sealed test tube without authorization, thus destroying its sterile condition. He said the fertilization process, known as in vitro fertilization, was prohibited by the National Institute of Health, the suit said.

The couple said they later contacted the National Health Institute and found there was no such ban on the fertilization process, the suit said.

The Del Zios were married in 1968. Del Zio, 54, had two children by a previous marriage and his wife, Doris, 30, had one. Two years after their marriage, it was found that Mrs. Del Zio had developed a blockage in her fallopian tubes and could not have a baby naturally.

After a year's preparation, the operation, in which Mrs. Del Zio's ova were removed, was successful. The ova were placed in a sealed and sterile tube with Del Zio's sperm and put in an incubator.

The day following the operation, the suit said, Vande Wiele removed the "stopper" from the tube destroying the culture.

The suit said Mrs. Del Zio suffered shock, mental pain and anguish "at the destruction of her opportunity to have a child." Del Zio paid $15,000 in medical expenses, doctors' fees, hospital bills, travel and other expenses, the suit said.

Foreign policy problems cast a long shadow

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger remaining at his side and Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger patching up differences, President Ford has plenty of foreign policy problems that defy easy solution.

Ford's task of forging a long-term policy of his own is complicated by continued fighting in Southeast Asia, the weakening of NATO's southern flank by the Cyprus conflict and the stalemate in Middle East peace negotiations.

Without such distractions, Ford still would be hounded by domestic difficulties: Worsening inflation, a growing dispute within Congress over the proper size of the defense budget and congressional and public debate over the merits of detente with the Soviet Union and China.

East-West issue

In the balance is an issue of paramount importance in the dynamics of East versus West, whether Moscow and Washington can find a workable formula to limit offensive nuclear weapons. The answer to that question remains uncertain, even under Ford.

Nonetheless, Ford has a couple of things going for him that could help in dealing with the Soviet Union and China.

Both have indicated they welcome Ford's avowed intention to continue former President Nixon's policy of improving relations.

The Russians, in particular, are believed more willing to bargain seriously with Ford than they were with Nixon in Moscow last June when the prospect of impeachment undermined Nixon's effectiveness as a negotiator.

Those seeking good omens for future Soviet-American relations have found two during the Ford administration's first week:

—Ford and Kissinger appear to have won Soviet agreement to a formula for increased Jewish emigration from Russia that will end congressional opposition to trade concessions for the Soviets.

—During the Cyprus blow-up between Turkey and Greece, the Russians carefully refrained from meddling in a situation that might have proved irresistibly tempting in earlier times.

A quieter Kissinger?

Kissinger's ultimate role in the Ford administration has not been determined. It is likely, though, that he will remain at the State Department but with a somewhat lower profile than he enjoyed during the Nixon era. That would give Ford a chance to establish a name for himself in foreign affairs if he chooses to run for electio nin 1976.

Ford describes himself as a "reformed isolationist." He wants to follow the more liberal international policy that Nixon created, and the pressures of nuclear politics and world economics may leave him little choice but to do so.

Politically, his warnings to Congress about the sanctity of the military budget and to America's potential adversaries about his unyielding anticommunist stance align Ford with the more conservative wing of the GOP.

In any event, Ford can talk about his desire for a heavy defense budget knowing that congressional Democrats will reduce it by $5 billion or more no matter what he says.

New defense chief?

Before Nixon resigned, Ford let it slip that he would replace Schlesinger if he became President in the belief that Schlesinger was too academic and not aggressive enough in representing Pentagon interests before Congress.

Aides of both have stressed in recent days that their rift is healed, but even their apparent reconciliation will not be enough to overcome a dramatic shift of sentiment against the Pentagon on Capitol Hill.

Dissolved at least temporarily is the powerful coalition of House and Senate conservatives that could guarantee pretty much what the Pentagon requested. Fighting inflation is the name of the game in Congress these days, and that means cutting federal spending.

Hughes' ship seen threat to Hawaii shores

HONOLULU (UPI) — An alarmed state senator proposed Monday that Hawaii move quickly to stake out its own claim to several billion dollars worth of undersea minerals before "mining ships from throughout the world stop offshore and suck up" the valuable treasure.

Sen. Percy Mirikitani, the influential Republican minority leader, made his announcement hours after the mysterious mining ship of billionaire recluse Howard Hughes anchored off the islands and a Japanese exploration vessel steamed for Hawaii.

Billions of dollars worth of undersea minerals are located in deep undersea chasms among the Hawaiian Islands. The main treasure is vast deposits of manganese, which appears as rocks sitting on the bottom of ocean plateaus.

But Gov. John Burns' task force on oceanography has estimated the plateaus also contain $400,000 in silver, $26 million in palladium, $130 million in osmium, $8 million in iridium, in addition to some $130 million worth of manganese and titanium. All are rare undersea metals.

Mirikitani said the state "must move immediately to clarify its own rights" to the treasure under its ocean.

"I hope we do not have to wait until mining ships from throughout the world stop offshore and suck up our valuable mineral resources before we recognize what a valuable ocean treasure we have," he said.

Noting many South American countries claim 200 mile territorial rights, Mirikitani said "Hawaii is in danger of losing billions of dollars unless it stands up for its undersea mineral and fishing rights."

The ship, Glomar Explorer, belongs to Hughes' Summa Mining Corp. and is anchored off the island of Maui. Sailors from the mystery ship in the town of Lahaina refused to talk about their mission or anything connected with the trip.

The ship is believed to be the only vessel in the world able to scoop up oceanbed minerals on a commercial scale.

As the vessel lay offshore, a Japanese mining exploration ship, "Hakurei Maru" headed for the islands with a crew of 50 men and 20 scientists.

now recognize that to deny liberals their cherished but costly social programs, conservatives must bargain for liberal votes by agreeding to cut back on military spending.

That is why Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and his powerful defense appropriations subcommittee were hard at work last week slashing $5.1 billion out of the Pentagon's proposed $87.1 billion budget request even as Schlesinger was pleading for approval of the full amount.

Even if liberals like Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., succeed in cutting the defense budget further to a planned $81 billion ceiling, the Pentagon still would be getting $7 billion more than it got last year — and in a year when the United States was not at war anywhere in the world for the first time in 14 years.

To Ford, the poker game he is now beginning to play with Congress over the defense budget may yield crucial chips for the next stage of the high-stakes game with the Russians over nuclear arms controls.

City's property tax rate is $1.75

The Chino City Council set the official total property tax rate for the current year at $1.75 per $100 of assessed valuation Tuesday night.

The tax rate, not including the voter approved 25-cent tax override for the new civic center, is 4 cents less than last year's $1.54 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The final city budget for the current year, approved July 3 by the council, totals $4,837,854.

In other action, the council gave first reading approval to a $500 per acre storm drain fee on property under development. The fee will be used to finance the construction of major storm drains throughout the city and will be assessed on property at the time of development.

Earlier in the day, the Chino school board voted to oppose the measure due to its possible major impact on the district's 16 school sites. Al Searfoss, assistant superintendent for business for the school district, was present at the meeting to inform the council of the school board's position.

On the advice of the staff, however, the council went ahead with first reading approval of the measure and directed the city attorney's office to determine whether the school district is legally exempted from the fee.

If the school district is found to be liable for the fee, the council will then have the option of exempting the school district by amendment.

John Gerardi, director of public works, told the council that the new ordinance would raise approximately $3.6 million over a 25-year period, or about one third of the total funds necessary for anticipated storm-drain needs. The balance of the funds for storm-drain projects would come from federal funds.

The council approved a request by Paul's Yellow Cab Co. to raise taxicab fares. The new fares, which have been approved by three other valley cities, are 80 cents for the first one-eighth mile, 20 cents for each additional one-fourth mile and $6 per hour waiting time.

The council turned down the company's request for a fuel surcharge that would have passed on a portion of increased fuel costs above a base price of 39 cents per gallon.

The council also approved a staff recommendation for hiring four new city employes under the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

Under the program, the city will receive $40,000. City Manager Bob Fast recommended that the city hire a community services officer, who will work with the police department, a code and license enforcement officer, who will work with planning and finance department, and two maintenance men for the water department.

The council voted to send a protest to the Army Corps of Engineers, which is holding a public hearing today in San Bernardino, over the Corps' plans to raise the height of Prado Dam near Corona.

Fast told the council that a voluminous report concerning the project has been received on such short notice that the staff was in no position to make any recommendation on the matter.

Fast said that one of the corps' multiple options would raise the height of the dam to a point that, in the event of flood, the city's water treatment plant south of Chino would be inundated.

The council decided to protest the corps' handling of the matter on the grounds that it had not allowed enough time for considered public reaction.

Neighbor complaints pay; house will be demolished

This letter concerns a run-down, abandoned house next door to me.

It is a fire hazard, health hazard and an eyesore. Two fires have been set in this house already.

We have had rats and cockroaches in our homes because of the house.

My neighbors and I have made complaints to the health department, building and safety office, fire department and Chino City Hall. Still no action has been taken.

We try to keep our neighborhood pretty but can't with this public eyesore.—Mrs. P. M., Chino.

You and your neighbors were more influential than you realized.

The house you write about has been scheduled for demolition.

If the owner doesn't take care of it within the allotted 60 days, the City of Chino will.

Will you find out why my Social Security check didn't arrive on June 3?

The people there informed me that a hundred or more inquiries about Social Security checks had been received.

They said they might have been sent to Pomona, N.Y., or Ramona, Calif., or any place. They also told me to contact the local Social Security office.

This I did and after a two-hour wait was told the office wouldn't investigate until after the sixth of the month.

We can, I think, make allowances for marginal errors but it is a tragedy when so many people who are totally dependent on their checks are affected.

I believe the fault is with the postal service as I have never been missed before by Social Security. — S.S., Pomona.

We wrote to the U. S. treasury Department.

You followed up your suspicion that the post office made a mistake. You were right. The check had been returned to the sender because of a mixup although you have lived at the same address for more than 20 years.

Still another check failed to reach you before the problem was straightened out but now you have your money.

In the process we learned of a distressing quirk in regulations.

The recipient of Supplemental Security Income (welfare) whose check is delayed through no fault of his own can obtain an emergency loan from the welfare office. The person whose Social Security check is delayed cannot.

Thank you very much for trying to help me get the money owed me by Joseph Breck & Sons Corp.

Enclosed is a letter in answer to one I sent. — Mrs. L.R., Pomona

You wrote to us two months ago saying you had received a catalogue from Breck's of Boston announcing "Breck's Dutch Bulb Sweepstakes."

You asked how the company could have a sweepstakes when it had gone bankrupt.

We learned that certain assets of the company, including the Dutch bulb mail order business using the trade name of Breck's of Boston, had been purchased from the referee in bankruptcy by Foster Gallagher, Inc., early in 1973.

We told you that claims against the former company are in the hands of Paul W. Glennon, Referee in Bankruptcy, 1128 John W. McCormick, Post Office and Court House, Boston, 02109.

You now have learned that a dividend probably will be paid to creditors but not earlier than December 1974.

Gerald D. Rosen, attorney, has written to you that the dividend you will receive will be very small since total claims are in the millions and the amount of the estate is $450,000.

OLD-TIME ACTORS ON LOCATION HERE

Old-time actors Pat O'Brien, Ben Blue, Lloyd Nolan and Richard Arlen, from left, visited La Verne College briefly Tuesday when Disney Studios filmed scenes for a two-part TV movie titled "Ragwing." Scenes shot show the star, a boy named Ike Eisenmann, in his dormitory room in the basement of Founder's Hall (which the film crew converted into Wakefield Academy) and walking and talking with his headmaster in front of Founders Hall. O'Brien plays the boy's grandfather. The other actors are his cronies. The movie will be shown on The Wonderful World of Disney next February. It tells the story of a boy's escapades with his grandfather. Together they build, fly and crash an airplane.

The Rotary Club's real strength is in its uniqueness, Barney Ingram, governor of Rotary District 530, told members of Pomona Rotary Club on Tuesday in the Elks Lodge.

Not only was Rotary the first service club formed anywhere, but it is oriented to vocational classifications, stresses participation by its membership and fosters a program of international service unlike any other service group, Ingram stated.

"If everyone would dedicate himself to the principles of Rotary, it could be one of the strongest forces for good in this world," he said.

Ingram referred to the international president's theme this year "renewing the spirit of Rotary," and suggested that at the local level it could be done by sharing Rotary membership with young men, forming new clubs, studying the needs of local youth organizations, and working with youth. "Young people need our money, but they need our involvement more," Ingram declared.

Ingram was accompanied to Pomona Rotary by Dale Stewart of Ontario, a governor's representative, and members of the Covina Rotary Club of which Ingram is a past president.

Station leasing to get more study

The Pomona City Council will wait for a report from a study committee before taking action on a proposal that the city lease the vacant Union Pacific Station for use by nonprofit civic organizations.

The committee will include two members of the council, the chairmen of the Cultural Arts Commission and Bicentennial Committee and the president of the Pomona Valley Art Association and possibly other interested parties.

According to a proposed lease agreement, the Union Pacific Railroad Co. has offered to lease the building to the city for $100 a year plus taxes.

Fred Sharp, executive director of the Community Redevelopment Agency, said he has been unable to determine the exact taxes involved, "since the arrangement between the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railroads includes a much larger area than that which the city is considering leasing."

The UP station, at First and Thomas streets, is on property belonging to the Southern Pacific Co.

Sharp recommended that the council authorize funds for a lease-purchase agreement but Gonce asked for the information of the committee to look into such things as use, insurance, and maintenance that would be involved.

The council considered the proposal Monday.

Councilman Bnenjamin Ochoa Sr. said he wants to know where the city would get the money for the lease, taxes and maintenance, while Councilman Charles W. Bader objected to "dipping into the public till" to pay for projects which could otherwise be financed.

Bader expressed his admiration for Sharp but said he has consistently disagreed with redevelopment recommendations for the use of taxpayers-funds for activities Bader questions as being appropriate governmental functions.

In a letter to the council, Alphonse Fages, chairman of the association's facilities committee, said the PVAA's present quarters in the 100 block of Pomona Mall East were inadequate as a gallery and to conduct art shows, exhibits and other programs.

Fages said that if the city will sublease the station for $1 a year, the association will make space available to the bi-centennial committee, pay all utilities, make all minor repairs and put on certain programs for the public.

Opinion

Modest proposal

There are a rather large number of Americans who are outspoken in their desire to see this nation cut its standard of living in order to save grain for the hungry abroad. It is a laudable ideal. Not, however, always thought out carefully.

Making this point, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz suggested recently a variation on Jonathan Swift's classic "Modest Proposal." Butz said "fuzzy thinking crusaders in this country might start their program by killing half of America's 62 million pet dogs, cats and horses."

The Secretary hastened to explain to non-whimsical listeners that he was not seriously proposing such a slaughter. He explained that he was just wondering whether those advocating that Americans eat less meat in order to save grain really are serious.

Although Butz did not cite him by name, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey has been quoted as saying that Americans might think about eating one less hamburger a week so that some grain now fed to cattle could be available to combat starvation abroad. So far as is generally known, Humphrey did not offer assurance that such a sacrifice would automatically cut down the production of cattle, and hence the need for domestic use of grain.

Butz put the whole fuzzy thinking proposal into focus by pointing out it takes a lot of grain products to keep "alive, sleek and contented" some 32 million dogs and 22 million cats, as well as about eight million horses, mules and asses "which no longer pull the plow or dray." He wondered aloud how the hamburger-sacrificers feel about their pets.

The feeding of the world is no joke. And Secretary Butz did not mean it as such. It is the strange, emotional thinking of those who tend, like Stephen Leacock's humorously legendary cowboy, to mount their horse and rode off in all directions who unfortunately make somewhat ludicrous a thoroughly worthy aim.

Japan-U.S.A. again

U.S. investment in foreign countries is looked on as a good and prestigious achievement.

Foreign investment in the United States is looked on with a bit of suspicion, and creates a small worry that the U.S. may be going to pot (in the old-fashioned sense).

There are pluses and minuses in all financial activities, naturally. In recent years the Japanese have been investing heavily in the United States, both in property and commercial and plant acquisition. It has raised a few hackles.

The facts are, however, that U.S. investment in Japan, and Japanese investment in the U.S. are mutually profitable. This is not to single in on just the two countries, as the same can be said of other such situations.

Some weeks ago a San Franciso Chamber of Commerce group of specialists traveled to Japan to encourage investment in the U.S. Led by Milton M. Gilmore, chairman of the Chamber's Executive Headquarters group and senior partner of Touche Ross & Co., the Chamber task force returned with the expectation that substantial new investment will be forthcoming on the part of the Japanese.

All of this, of course, is at the heart of whether the U.S. has balance of trade deficits or surpluses and whether economic activity stagnates or is healthy. Gilmore's group is adding to the U.S. pluses. It is this type of healthy economic interchange which benefits both nations and should be encouraged.

And it is in the classic mold of U.S. efforts to help foreign nations, friends or former enemies, repair their economics for our mutual benefit, and the benefit of the world, today and tomorrow.

Drake's gusher

When E. L. Drake brought in the first commercial oil well on August 27, 1859, in Titusville, Pennsylvania, he couldn't have realized fully what he had wrought.

He hadn't just launched a new fuel supply; he had sparked an industry whose dollar signs are counted in astronomical quantities; whose dollars reach millions of investors, large and small; whose product propels and maintains, large and small; whose product propels and maintains, heats, lights, generates . . . and unfortunately sometimes defiles.

Oil is essential to the world, therefore it causes world crises. It fuels more than the literary Lamps of China. It fuels man at home and en route, his industries. It is in finite supply, therefore expensive to find, extract and put to use . . . and therefore a heated subject for politico-economic debate.

That was quite a gusher Drake brought in 115 years ago.

Overlooking the people's choice

Unhappily, I was not surprised by your report that the MSAC Board of Trustees had made another appointment to its ranks rather than leaving the choice to the people. The fact that it was a woman gave you the opportunity to make the appointment appear as if there had been a significant change of policy on the board.

One can only suppose that this implies a tremendous reform in that the members of the board are no longer sexist bigots. Perhaps you see this as progress. It is rather tokenism of the most disgusting sort. If the board were really concerned about "reaffirming their dedication to affirmative action," they could have chosen the second runner-up in the last election who happened to be a black woman.

The fact that they chose to look outside the ranks of those individuals who had demonstrated an interest in the college by running for the board, in past elections shows that they are really concerned with using (abusing!) the concept of affirmative action in order to perpetuate their own political machine.

Beyond this, affirmative action is fine when qualified members of minorities can be found to be seated in these positions, but the board has not demonstrated that they looked for excellence, but rather settled for mediocrity in hopes that they could use this person as their puppet. The qualifications of a Citrus Municipal Judge, who sent a resume to the board indicating his interest in the position, were outstanding to say the least. Highest academic as well as professional honors mean nothing to the Mt. SAC Board of "Education."

One can only conclude that by first overlooking the people's choice by not taking the last election as their guide in order to "reaffirm" their commitment to affirmative action and then secondly, to ignore academic and professional qualifications in their choice, that the board is afraid of the people, i.e., the community of taxpayers which support Mt. SAC, as well as having any qualified person sit on the board since to do so would surely demonstrate their own mediocrity. The fact that half the board does not even possess a college education should be frightening to the students and parents of students who expect the college to provide them with an adequate education. With the new appointment it is now 3-5ths of the board without a four-year degree. With this kind of a governing board running MSAC we better all consider whether or not it isn't worth the extra sacrifice to send our children to state colleges. — Joan Barone, Covina.

U.S. breaks own and U.S.'s law

WASHINGTON — Day in and day out, the U.S. government is defying the United States and its own law by permitting American firms to do business with the white minority regime of Southern Rhodesia.

Scores of travel agents, for example, are given permits for tour groups to Victoria Falls. American franchisers are allowed to operate in Southern Rhodesia. Until a few weeks ago, U.S. airlines worked hand-in-glove with Rhodesia's government airline.

Yet, according to the law, all such activities are illegal.

In May, 1968, the United Nations took the unprecedented step of declaring mandatory economic sanctions against Rhodesia. President Lyndon Johnson quickly issued an executive order backing up the UN. He banned any Americans from giving "funds or other financial or economic" support to Rhodesia.

Despite these explicit orders, however, the Treasury Department has winked at travel agents and others for years. A Treasury spokesman said since travel cannot be banned, the travel agents are free to carry on their business.

At the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), the cooperation between U.S airlines with Air Rhodesia has also been permitted. Only in the last few months has the FAA investigated and given out a few warnings.

The most persistent efforts to get the United States to conform to international and U.S. law have been made by the Center for Social Action of the United Church of Christ. There, the Rev. Don Morton has sent written notices to more than a thousand travel agents to remind them they are breaking the law.

Some of the travel agents have taken a disdainful view of Morton's missionary work, however. David Grover, president of Percival Tours of Los Angeles, said people like the preacher were "children in a man's world."

Even such industrial giants as the Ford Motor Company (FMC) have flouted the law. Two years ago, FMC arranged two "incentive" tours to Rhodesia for its dealers. The dealers, moreover, tried to violate another section of the law by bringing in the trophies they had bagged. The trophies, however, were held up by U.S. Customs.

American franchisers, too, operate openly in Rhodesia, though the Treasury Department holds they are not covered by the law. For instance, a Holiday Inn in Bulawayo was opened last December, with the granddaddy of all Rhodesian racists, Prime Minister Ian Smith, personally cutting the ribbon.

The fashionable inn's manager was trained in Memphis, Tenn., and Holiday Inn inspectors from the United States regularly visit the inn to make sure it's up to American standards.

Footnote: The House of Representatives will vote this week on whether to continue the importation of Rhodesian chrome to the United States. At present, it is brought in under a special exemption.

PHARMACEUTICAL FESTS: Pfizer, the pharmaceutical giant, used to offer deep freezes and other expensive items to doctors to encourage them to prescribe Pfizer drugs. Now, it's back to free food and booze.

But the new twist on Pfizer's "After Hours" program is that Pfizer's 700 salesmen get "points" and big bonuses for roping doctors into meals. They get extra points if they show films to the doctors, manage to finagle Pfizer displays into hospitals, or entertain a "federal account."

Top Pfizer "hosts" were offered as much as $600 for winning their district and regional contests in a recently concluded Vibramycin promotion. And the district manager who goaded his salesman-hosts into the most points got a $400 prize.

The losers in these contests, of course, are the elderly and the poor who must pay more for prescription drugs. It is they and the ordinary citizen who must pick up the tab for "Vibramycin After Hours."

At Pfizer, a spokesman denied to my reporter Chris Torem that the contest was solely designed to sell Vibramycin. Its purpose was chiefly "informational," he said.

The great seat belt war

In case news from the frontlines escaped you last week, the House overwhelmingly passed an amendment sponsored by Congressman Louis Wyman (R.-N.H.) to put an end to the federal bureaucracy's invastion of motorist rights — i.e., the starter — interlock-buzzer system installed in all 1974 models to protect us from ourselves.

The Wyman amendment came in response to an equally overwhelming public reaction against the idiotic Rube Goldberg apparatus foisted on car owners by resident road-safety geniuses at the Department of Transportation.

No need to go into the details of the starter-interlock system again. If you haven't yet tried to travel in a late model without strapping up, some special providence is looking after your cardiovascular system.

Most of us have gone through the mandatory strap-up ritual, however, and would just as soon be allowed to look after our own and our neighbor's safety without Big Mother-in-Washington's interfering hand. Which, as I say, we'll be able to, provided the Senate concurs with the House action making seat-belting optional. In other words, American motorists are about to be liberated from mandatory seat belts if . . .

The "if" depends on the extent of the Big Mother bureaucracy's influence over a joint Senate-House conference that is to consider the future of seat-belting sometime in September or October.

Last year the Senate passed a bill to continue the mandatory system. Now two Senators—James Buckley (R.-N.Y.) and Thomas Eagleton (D.-Mo.)—want to amend that bill. The Buckley-Eagleton plan, like Wyman's, would give drivers an option to use seat belts, relying on persuasion rather than coercion to effect highway safety.

If Buckley and Eagleton succeed with their amendment, the mandatory seat-belt war will be over. But if they fail, then the battle will turn on whether the House conferees can get their Senate colleagues to go along with the Wyman amendment.

A key figure here is Sen. Warren Magnuson (D.-Wash.), chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee and one of Congress's most powerful members. Magnuson, who'll either head up or exert strong influence on the Senate conferees, has been inclined over the years to go along with the seat-belt lobby. Should he decide to dig in on the issue of mandatory belting, the liberation of American motorists could be a long time coming.

Understand, the issue that separates the parties here—the House majority on one side and the mandatory seat-belt bureaucracy on the other—isn't safety on the roads.

The question is how far government regulation should be permitted to interfere arbitrarily in the lives of private citizens. And the answer, now as always, lies with you, fellow motorists.

This is an election year. Keep the pressure on your Senators to support the Buckley-Eagleton amendment or the Wyman bill. Though these two versions of motorist liberation differ, they have one thing in common: an end to Big Mother bureaucracy's strap-buzzer plot to drive us, literally, out of our collective minds.

Just in jest

Let's give credit where credit is due! Our State Senators and Assemblymen have certainly been keeping their noses to the grindstone here lately in order to make certain we the people get all that's coming to us in the way of governmental cooperation and assistance.

A bill making it legal to sell pornographic material if it is kept from public view and out of the hands of children, has been passed by our California Assemblymen.

Another bill making it legal to sell prophylactics at any retail business outlet has been passed by our State Senators.

And after all that effort, our legislators sat back and looked upon their handiwork and, seeing that it was good, decided it was certainly worthy of special recognition. So the Senate then passed legislation giving high state officials a 20 percent raise in pay.

However, it isn't only high state officials who are being rewarded for their untiring efforts in the public's behalf. Under new federal fair labor standards a state government clerical employe can now collect overtime pay if he or she answers the telephone during a lunch break.

But what taxpayer would dare complain about 20 percent pay raises and overtime pay when he stops to consider all the above named benefits he is getting for his tax dollars! After all there's an inflation on, and government of the people, by the people and for the people is bound to cost a little more.

RAY CROMLEY

Reason for hope in South Vietnam

WASHINGTON — In a guerrilla war, there is a time for friendly foreign military troops to leave. The local government and its military must then clean house, get rid of its corrupt generals and inefficient bureaucrats.

A State Department expert on Southeast Asia once told this reporter with some amazement of the improved performance of the Laotians after the U.S. pullout. Years ago, Vietnamese experienced in war and politics anticipated the South would surprise us in the years after the last U.S. troops departed. And these were men deeply appreciative of the role the United States and its troops played in the crucial years when South Vietnam had its back against the wall.

China's Mao Tse-tung, probably the world's greatest expert on unconventional war, has said repeatedly that in the long pull of a guerrilla war, except for arms, money and diplomacy a country must depend on its own troops and its own people, not on foreign intervention.

The time then has come to evaluate the situation in Vietnam, a year and a half after the final American military pullout.

The word from friends in Saigon is that South Vietnam is not collapsing, economically, politically or militarily.

The U.S. has not kept up one-for-one replacement of Saigon's equipment. North Vietnam has built its forces in the South to their highest level since the war began and improved their equipment in violation of the accords. But there seems little doubt the South could hold against another big Hanoi push.

The Russians and the Chinese have cut their military aid to Hanoi markedly. If North Vietnam does attempt another all-out attack it may find replacing its arms a very difficult task. The heavy troop levels in the South may thus be more of a burden than an asset unless the North Vietnamese find it easier to feed these men in the South than in the homeland.

Both the North and the South are having their economic problems. While cutting military aid the Russians and Chinese have recently more than doubled their annual economic assistance to the North to roughly $1.3 billion, almost three times what it is estimated Congress will vote to send the South this coming year. Despite this advantage, visitors to the North report the administrative setup is dreadfully weak for handling economic aid and translating that assistance into improvements in the economy.

The French, who have sent aid men to Hanoi, have estimated it would take at least $7 billion and some years to put North Vietnamese agriculture alone on its feet, so badly has that area been handled. It's less the war than bad management that is responsible for Hanoi's troubles.

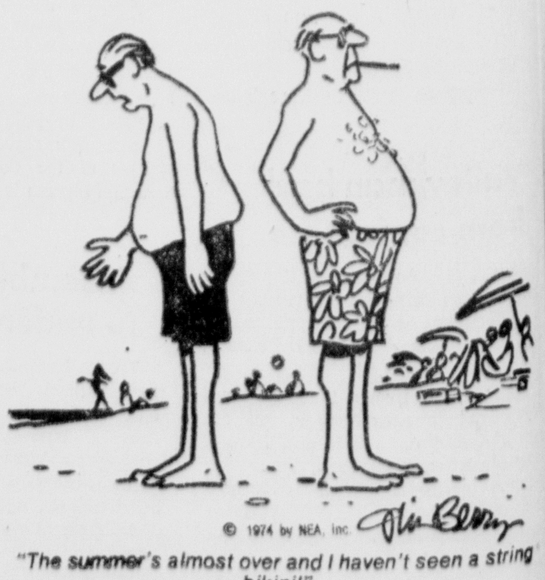

With rough financial problems, lowered military support from its allies and a stronger than expected South, it's calculated by Americans on the spot that the North's strategy will be limited to nibbling and stirring trouble on a low key for the indefinite future, while waiting for some more promising opportunity.

Economically, the South is plugging along slowly. The outlook for the next two years is continued struggle, with unemployment high, especially among trained men. But there's a great deal of optimism for the future, once the fighting settles down.

A half dozen western oil companies are dickering for offshore petroleum drilling rights. Firms from Japan, the United States and several European nations are making advances for business investment. The estimate, possibly over-enthusiastic, is that once there's a reasonable amount of peace, South Vietnam may take off economically as spectacularly as South Korea and Taiwan did in the past.

Though Americans this reporter has talked to are depressed by the low quality of much of the South Vietnamese top bureaucracy, largely inherited from the French colonial days, they are deeply impressed by the high caliber of the young economic men, many trained in the United States, who are moving up in the South Vietnamese government.

WILD WEST — Cheaters don't prosper seems to be what the Chino Gunfighters are trying to prove in this simulation of an Old West card game. The gunfighters' group staged three shows Sunday at festivities sponsored by Color Tile & Carpet Supermart, 921 E. Holt Ave., Pomona. In addition to the gunfighters' shows, KKAR radio originated a live broadcast from the store's location and music was provided by a live country band. School district is seeking funds for bilingual classes

Chaffey High School District will apply for $148,0000 in federal and state funds to finance bilingual programs in the district and federal funds to finance vocational programs.

Information on the applications was presented to Chaffey board members in a report Monday from administrators.

Federal funds applications will be made under the Vocational Education Act and the Elementary-Secondary Education Act which is basically for disadvantaged students and will finance bilingual education. State funds are being requested for additional bilingual education.

VEA applications include three programs for disadvantaged students, two programs for cooperative education and a work-study program. Disadvantaged programs include the Program for Employment of Disadvantaged Students, Job Opportunity Placement Service and Billingual-Bicultural Teacher Aide and Child Care Training Program.

Cooperative education programs, both at Montclair High School, will be the Voccational Welding Program and the Allied Health Occupation Program.

ESEA Title 7 funds in the amount of $106,414.95 will be requested to fund a bilingual program at Alta Loma and Ontario high schools in the 1974-75 year. If granted, the funds will be renewable for five years and the program wauld be expanded to more schools in the district.

A planning and development phase with in-service training for teachers at the two participating high schools will precede a phase of bilingual classroom instruction for all students with a language problem. Under restrictions of the federal program one-third of the students involved in the program must be English speaking only.

State funds in the amount of $42,000 will be requested for a Chaffey High School bilingual program which will involve approximately 120 students in the 1974-75 school year.

Goals of the Chaffey program will be to reduce the disparity in grade averages of minorities and increase regular attendance by increasing the interest level of students.

A planning and development phase will begin in October should funds be granted and continue through the first semester. Insturction will begin in February and continue through early June in such subjects as English, math, science, social studies and driver's education. The program will be evaluated in June and July.

Council warmer to store proposal

The La Verne City Council apparently disagrees with two of its commissions which don't want to see a K-Mart regional center located at the southeast corner of B Street and Foothill Boulevard.

The Planning Commission and the Commission on Environmental Quality object to the location, claiming that it would require a zone change and an amendment to the recently adopted general plan.

But Mayor Mike Morales said Monday that the general plan was "no sacred cow. I'm not in favor of driving away any new business. If K-Mart wants to put a quality store there, I see no problem."

The question was opened up by Councilman Harrison Sanborn who observed that a 92,000-square-foot K-Mart store, probably the largest this side of Los Angeles, would provide "a lot of sales tax income for the city."

"I, for one, can't see closing the door to any such income," he said. "If the chain is serious, let's put things into motion to accommodate them."

City Manager George Caswell told the council that his office already has been contacted by an architect for the chain, who inquired about parking and landscaping requirements as well as water and sewer facilities.

"He said he has also received a letter from the company inquiring about the possibility of changing the zone at that location from residential to commercial.

According to the city manager, the K-Mart company expressed interest in building toward the Stater Brothers supermarket at Foothill and D Street, with the hope of eventually filling in the area between the two stores with smaller shops.

"I think it's a pretty good idea," Councilman Frank Johnson commented. "Espcially since part of the project would mean that B Street would be opened up to the boulevard."

There was some concern by the council as to the quality of building K-Mart would put up. But Morales said the staff would have control over the type of construction that was acceptable to the city.

Sober toaster

The toastmaster's glass was an English invention, about the size of an ordinary drinking glass, but with only a quarter of its capacity. The glass created the illusion of being full by means of a depression in its bowl, which in fact was almost solid. It originated in the 18th-century clubs of England, where the toastmaster had to remain sober enough to carry out his office.

When care means everything

Rose Hills is more than a mortuary. It is people. People who care... who understand the problems and needs of their fellow man when care and understanding really matter.

Rose Hills people cared enough more than a half century ago to create the world's most naturally beautiful memorial park.

Those same people have cared enough over those past years to endow Rose Hills with every needed service. In addition to the mortuary in the cemetery, there are chapels, flower shops, mausoleums and crematory... all at one convenient location.

Rose Hills people cared yesterday. And they will care tomorrow. Because they are dedicated to constant care. As long as there are people who care... there will be Rose Hills.

To quench a thirst

What sort of drink actually works best to quench your thirst? That's what the science boys wanted to know. So they proved first that the quench-quotient depends on high water content. Plain water itself, therefore, ranks No. 1. Their ranking of other beverages: Club soda, No. 2. Iced tea, No. 3. Coffee, No. 4. Diet Cola, No. 5 Pre-sweetened Kool-Aid, No. 6. Beer, No. 7. Ginger ale, No. 8. Milk, No. 9.

ONE RECENT Federal study purports to show that a third of all first-born children nationwide are conceived out of wedlock. Interesting, if true. That's somewhat higher a proportion than experts previously had reported.

DID YOU KNOW all the baseballs used in the major leagues here are sewn up in Haiti?

NARWHAL

Q — "What does a narwhal use its tusks for?"

A — Nothing. They're useless. But let me get it right. The male narwhal ordinarily has but one tusk. It sticks out of the left side of its head. The female ordinarily has no tusks. Now comes the exception. Some females have two tusks but not one. And if you find a two-tusked narwhal in your bathtub, you can be fairly certain it's a female without looking any further.

WILL YOU BUY the claim that the average American grownup has 50 headaches a year? Neither will I. But the aspirin makers say so.

GET IT RIGHT

Did I say numerous deer have died after eating the disposable portion of self-developing film? That's wrong, evidently. Spokesmen for the Polaroid Corporation, the National Park Service, and lo, even the Sierra Club are circulating reports to the contrary. They say extensive tests prove that film backing is tasty, but non-toxic to beasts.

IT IS PROPER and official to call all Icelanders by their first names only.

NEVER SERVE a thick steak from the frying pan directly to the table. Let it stand a few minutes. As for a big roast, it should wait up to an hour before the carving. Or such be the claim of a renowned chef. Cooking draws the juices to the center he says. That rest away from the heat disburses them. Makes for tenderer tastier cuts.

Drug sought to counter heroin

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — Development of a drug that could block the effects of heroin is part of a University of the Pacific research project that is funded by the federal government.

Dr. David S. Fries, assistant professor at the school of pharmacy, said the goals of the research are to develop a compound that will block the effects of heroin and to develop a drug with the pain-killing benefits of morphine without the addition liability of morphine.

GOP gains in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Despite the Republican scandal of Watergate, Republicans picked up more new voters in Florida over the past two years than the Democrats.

In one of the smallest increases in modern Florida history, the Democratic registration between 1972 and 1974 increased by a slim 1,426.

Republicans added 44,074 and independents 21,880.

"Well, well, how's Mr. Beamish this morning . . ."

". . . or is it MRS. Beamish?"

Aluminum wiring may present fire hazards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission said Monday it has taken the first steps toward what could lead to a ban on household aluminum wiring, and possible repairs for the 2 million American homes believed equipped with it.

The fire hazards associated with the wire, which came into wide use in the last decade due to a copper shortage, have been under study by the agency for some time.

Commission Chairmn Richard O. Simpson said the panel has now asked its staff to prepare a notice banning use of the wire in light switches and other connection points. The commission then will decide which direction to go, Simpson said, but the fact that it asked for such a proposal shows "our thinking is that it probably needs to be banned."

The staff report, he added, will also look toward "corrective action" —advising the industry what it must do to correct existing house and apartment wiring systems. This area is more complex, he added, because there are several possible solutions, some of which would be very expensive.

To completely re-wire all 2 million homes with copper wire might cost up to $1,000 per home, Simpson said. Just replacing switches in each house might cost $100 to $200 per house while even just tightening of each connection could run $50 to $100 per house.

It might be a matter of improving the level of safety rather than completely eliminating the problem, he added.

The hazard involves aluminum's tendency to work loose as current passes through it, causing oxidation and a bad connection between the wire and outlet or switch. Eventually it can heat up starting a fire in the wall, even though nothing is plugged in or the switch is off.

Commission officials have advised home owners in doubt to have an electrician check their wiring, and to feel the wall areas around switch plates and other connections to see if heat is present.

Female lawyers earn $10,000 less than men

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women lawyers make more than women judges and both make about $10,000 per year less than male lawyers, according to data prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

For men, the law profession and medical profession dominate the top ranking jobs in terms of pay with physicians leading the way. Next in income ranking come dentists, judges, lawyers, law professors, health professors, optometrists, airplane pilots, veterinarians and actuaries.

For women, engineering professions dominate the higher pay brackets, although "sales engineers" are the No. 1 paying jobs for women in terms of median annual earnings.

Next come mechanical, locomotive, aeronautical and astronautical, chemical, electrical and electronic engineers. These are followed by physicians, millwrights, physics professors and more engineers.

The BLS data is based on 1969 median earnings when women lawyers had median annual earnings of $8,980 and women judges, $8,883.

In 1969, only 5 per cent of all judges were women and only 4.8 per cent of lawyers were women. But while the median age for men judges was 56.8, the median age for women judges was 51.2. The median age for lady lawyers was 44.5; for men, 42.8.

The BLS scored 423 occupations. The last, below newsboys, were child care workers in private households. Males earned a median annual pay of $687 at a median age of 19.8. Even in this job category, annual pay was $16 less for women, whose median age in the occupation was 32.1.

Black day back at work

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The longest — and worst — day of the working stiff's year, is the day he returns to work after his vacation.

He hated to face that alarm clock in the morning after two weeks of sleeping late in his tent in the mountains. He is not aroused from his slumbers by the smell of frying trout, but by the raucous brrrang of that expletive deleted clock.

He had to shave. He had to worm into shirt and tie, rough on the sunburn, hot, uncomfortable after his glorious hiatus of sport shirts or naked to the waist. The leather shoes are hard on feet that have walked bare for two weeks.

"Hey, Eddie! Welcome back! How was the vacation? Say, you look great. Nice to be back, ha ha? Say, Eddie, some problems came up while you were gone. Could you stay a couple hours tonight and see if we can work out . . . "

Brrr! Eddie, his ears still ringing with the song of wild birds, his nostrils remembering pine forests and grilled venison, peers blearily at the work piled up on his desk. No one has touched a thing since he left. Telegrams and letters marked urgent — postmarked the day he went on vacation — are stacked in piles. On the spindle are a dozen notices of important telephone calls he should have made one hour after he departed. It's going to be a long day.

"Hello, Mr. Davidson, welcome back! Have a nice vacation? That's nice. Oh, Chalmers & Co. called and wanted to know why the order wasn't delivered. And that woman from the society was in again — says she is going to bring suit if you don't — oh, and the Big Boss has been calling all morning. He said the minute you come in . . . "

"Hi, Eddie, you old sonofagun, welcome back. How's it feel to slip into the harness again, ha, ha. Say what did you do with the Masterson invoices? The Old Man has been going crazy trying to . . . "

"Well, Davidson, welcome back. Great to have you back with us. We need your help with that Strathmore account, and Biggins Associated says we screwed up the whole — oh, and you've got to get the Goldsworth layout finished by tonight."

Eddie slumps at his desk, his glazed eyes full of mountain waterfalls and snow-capped peaks. Was it really only last week?

"Mr. Davidson, you have two urgent calls waiting. And you MUST get those letters off to Murcheson to catch the noon mail. Jenny from Accounting is coming over to help you with the — and Towers, Inc. called to say that — and Mr. Archmore says to call the minute you . . . "

License OKd for convicts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill giving rehabilitated lawbreakers a chance to obtain a state professional license was approved by the Senate on a 23-9 vote and sent to the assembly.

Although the measure (SB1967) says a state board may deny a license on the grounds an applicant has been convicted of a crime, it also states a license may be denied only if the crime is related to the profession in question.

The measure by Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, says each professional license board shall develop criteria to evaluate the rehabilitation of an applicant or a license holder when a license has been revoked or denied.

Mideast oil profits hurt money flow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Middle East oil profits poured into American financial markets between April and June, contributing to a $5.5 billion deterioration in the U.S. balance of payments.

The Commerce Department said recently the official reserve transactions balance, one of several ways the government measures trends in international capital flows, swung from a $1 billion surplus in the first quarter to a $4.5 billion deficit in the second quarter.

A major impact on the official balance has resulted from the tremendous shift in capital from the industrialized nations to the oil producing countries, primarily in the Middle East, as a result of the four-fold hike in petroleum export prices last fall.

These profits are just beginning to "recycle" back to the West, in the form of investments, and are being reflected in the negative swing in the payments balance.

The negative second quarter shift reflected a big deficit swing in the merchandise trade balance and a sharp rise in net outflows of non-liquid, short-term capital reported by U.S. banks.

In addition, the department said the net liquidity balance, which includes government and private capital flows, swung from a modest $900 million first quarter deficit to $5.4 billion in the red in the second quarter.

In the past, the "official" balance has been a reliable barometer of the strength of the dollar, since it calculates the change in dollar holdings of foreign central banks.

But under the current system of floating exchange rates governments have only a limited obligation to support their currencies and thus the balance has diminshed in importance as an analytical tool. "It's a very limited use right now," a Commerce Department economist said.

Crib firm to repurchase bad models

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission reported recently that thousands of full-size baby cribs manufactured by the Simmons Co. this year did not meet federal safety standards and the firm will repurchase them on request.

According to the commission announcement the cribs were found to have spacing between the side spindles or slats that exceeded the federal safety minimum of 2 and 3/8 inches established to make sure babies could not slip between them.

The commission said it also found sharp corners and rough edges on metal brackets which hold the foot release mechanism, and the defects could cause injuries.

The Simmons Company, of New London, Wisc., will refund the purchase price and reasonable shipping charges through its dealers to consumers who request it, the commission said.

The cribs, manufactured between February and June, bear a notation that they comply with federal standards, the commission said. They were manufactured in 23 different model numbers.

The model numbers, which appear at the head end of the crib on the inside bottom rail painted in blue on white, were: 1423, 1504, 1504 A.N.D., 1513, 1561, 1589, 1596, 2029, 2026, 2406, 2436, 2407, 2449, 2707, 2727, 2747, 2867, 2869, 3206, 3207, 3469, 3627, and 3629. The commission operates a toll free telephone line which consumers may call for further information. The number is 800-638-2666. (For Maryland residents, 800-492-2937.)

1st Kentucky Derby

The first Kentucky Derby was run on a Monday, May 17, 1875, and attracted 10,000 people to the 100 acres of land leased by Henry and John Churchill. That area and track has since been named Churchill Downs.

Arnholt Smith wins contempt appeal

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Financier C. Arnholt Smith, long-time friend and campaign contributor to former President Nixon, will not have to serve time in jail for refusing to testify in a criminal trial.

California's Fourth District Court of Appeal has annulled the indefinite jail term Superior Judge Paul E. Overton imposed on Smith June 14.

Smith was an election eve companion of the former President in 1968 He has aided Nixon since his first campaign for Congress in California.

Smith was called to testify in the trial of Robert Daggett, 49, who was accused of trying to extort money from him.

"Any answers Smith might give might conceivably strike a link in a chain of potentially incriminating evidence to be used against him," his attorney, Robert Hinerfeld, argued at the time.

The judge disagreed even though it was known a federal grand jury was investigating Smith's financial dealings at the time.

That grand jury later indicted Smith on charges including conspiracy, misapplication of funds of a national bank, making false statements to bank officers and making false entries in books of a national bank.

Judge Overton imposed the contempt sentence after responding that the questions posed could "be answered without violation of the attorney-client privilege and without his giving evidence against himself."

Smith's appeal precluded his having to serve any jail time for contempt. The appeals court said it could not find "that any prospective answer to the questions propounded could not possibly incriminate or form a link in the chain (of evidence against Smith)."

The indictment against Smith involved the largest bank failure in United States history, that of U.S. National Bank.

Smith bought control of the bank in 1933 and saw it blossom from one office to more than 60 with $1 billion in assets.

The indictment accused Smith and Philip A. Toft, a former Westgate president, of taking $27.5 million through manipulation tn funds.

The collapse of the bank came months after government agencies initiated action against Westgate, which went into bankruptcy last March.

Smith, Toft and their associates were removed from control of the conglomerate and the bank when the empire began to collapse.

The doctor comments

Preparation makes retirement workable

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has just celebrated his 52nd birthday, and since he turned 50, I noticed he has seemed depressed. He is in good health with a good head of black hair, no gray yet. He seems to get headaches across his forehead.

It seems to me he is going through the menopause. He refuses to see our doctor saying he is not sick, just under the weather. I try to cheer him up, but feel helpless when he is so depressed and won't even take aspirin.

I think he also worries about retirement in about eight years time. He is an accountant and in recent years quite a few of his colleagues collapsed and died shortly after retirement. I reckon one cannot run away from retirement, but rather prepare for it. Could you please recommend literature on 101 ways to occupy one's self in retirement?

DEAR READER — You are very wise. Most people go to great lengths preparing for death. They have insurance for death, estate planning for their heirs and even plan where they are going to be buried, but all too few plan for living. You are absolutely right, the best way to survive and enjoy retirement is to plan for it properly.

You may be interested in my book, "Stay Youthful and Fit," (Harper and Row). It provides a complete guide of what changes occur as you get older, and what we know about how to prevent such problems. That most definitely includes plans for keeping occupied.

Your husband is probably having a true middle-aged depression. If it is any worse, he may need some professional counseling or even some medicine to perk him up. Men do get depressed when they realize that the major span of their supposedly productive years is behind them. Our society isn't very helpful here because the retirement system often makes people quit being useful members of society.

In fact, many people in their 60s and older have the best years of their lives before them, if they use them properly. I pointed out in my book that the Abkhasians often are working in the fields from age 90 to 100. And, they keep a vigorous interest in community affairs and family affairs. In short, they continue to feel needed.

It is important to increase social contacts. Get into organizations that will keep you active and involved. Each person has to choose his own area of interest, but the point is to choose something. It may be a garden club-type activity and learning to raise your own food. That might come in very handy after retirement or, the way things are going, even sooner.

Good hobbies are great for maintaining interest and promoting social contact. Making small furniture and photography turn some people on and may turn into a second career with good financial return.

You may think I'm just dreaming, but that is important. Part of depression and aging is simply losing your dreams. Having something to look forward to or to strive for is important in the psychological aspects of staying youthful and enjoying every year of it. So, dream the impossible dream and then set out to make it come true. Youth is often a state of mind.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

Trial ordered for suspect in kidnaping

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Jack C. Sharp, 45, was ordered to stand trial Sept. 30 after pleading innocent Tuesday to charges of kidnaping two young girls.

Sharp is accused of kidnaping 5-year-old Karen J. Huber, of Los Angeles last Nov. 13 and taking her to San Diego where he passed her off as his daughter.

Sharp had told police the Huber girl was his daughter when he was arrested on auto theft charges. She was placed in a foster home and was reunited with her mother June 27.

Four-year-old Michelle Booher was taken from her Long Beach home in June and also found in San Diego with Sharp, who had been released

Chewing can provide exercise for puppy

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Some well-meaning friends have given me a puppy for companionship. But because I'm crippled with bad hips I can't give him the amount of running around exercise I think he should have. Fortunately, he's a small mixed breed dog, and the neighbors' child gives him a good workout occasionally, but aside from this, what more can I do for Spunky to keep him in shape? — C.B.

Dear C.B.: Encourage him to be a chewer: a chewer only of safe items such as hard food bones and the safe types of chew toys — products made specifically for gnawing. Chewing is an energy-releaser and it does have an energy-releasing, pacifying effect on the dog.

Teach him to fetch so that by bringing the ball back to you quickly he will be kept moving fast enough to give him all the exercise he needs.

Finally, don't train to overeat. To show your affection by feeding him more than he needs and-or more frequently than he needs is an easy trap to fall into. Don't continually give him goodies. Make his meals small enough so the hard biscuits you give him for chewing exercise will simply bring his calories up to what he requires but won't be enough to add on extra pounds.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Hermes, my featherweight finch, is losing so many of his feathers I fear he'll soon be bald. He seems in no particular distress or certainly doesn't act sick; not even — so far — embarrassed. Need I worry about him?

Dear G.A.: A heavy molt may simply be the way Hermes handles the new-feather problem, or it could indicate after effects of shock or a current illness. Heavy molting plus correspondingly heavy feather growth exert a tremendous strain on his system. Consequently, it's wise to protect him from added stresses during this critical period.

If he continues to act reasonably well, stress protection plus good nutrition — which would include proper minerals and adequate protein — may be all that's necessary. As long as Hermes is bereft of feathers, he'll be particularly subject to chilling, with consequent further lowering of resistance and complications often including pneumonia. Your plucky pinfeathered partner couldn't handle much in the way of infection at this point. Be continually on guard to see that he doesn't become chilled.

Author stresses bicycle safety

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

NEW YORK (NEA) — In "The New Complete Book of Bicycling" by Eugene A. Sloane, you will discover:

—that the Wright Brothers manufactured bicycles at one time;

—that 65-85 pedal strokes a minute is the most easily maintained pace for long trips;

—that in 1896 one John Kendrick Bangs wrote a farce called "The Bicyclers;"

—that American Airlines will send you a plastic bag, for $3, to put your bike in for the flight;

—how to choose, equip, repair and dress for your bicycle; and more than you could ever possibly want to know about gear ratios.

What Sloane is stressing in the book, however, and in a current transcontinental promotion tour (pedaling into metropolitan areas from the airport) is bicycle safety.

Smartly outfitted in a blue-and-white striped seersucker jumpsuit, orange jacket—the better to be seen with—and double-padded mittens (for comfort and to brush broken glass from bicycle tires) the former public relations man expresses strong feelings on the subject.

"The Department of Consumer Education of HEW thinks it's really doing something for safety by legislating for reflectors on bikes. Reflectors are fine," he says, "but most people don't ride bikes at night.

"Forty thousand people are killed every year on bicycles, mostly kids between six to twelve, and accidents will increase because no one's teaching them how to ride safely."

Sloane, for example, always wears a crash helmet. "I have 50 different makes of crash helmets in my own private bike laboratory at home in Chicago."

The miniature rear-view mirror attached to his glasses allows him to know what his "options are all the time. The drawback with it, and I only discovered this after the book was published, is that because it's only good for one eye, you don't have the depth perception and you can't gauge the speed of cars behind you."

"You insist that a 16-year-old get a license to drive a car," he says heatedly, "but you let him and younger children out in traffic on a bike with no training.

"I went to textbook publishers with a whole course designed to go into school systems: visual aids, test materials, etc., and no one would touch it. We can't sell what we're publishing now, they told me. Well, you can't depend on parents or police departments to teach kids about bicycle safety, or even to check bikes for safety."

Though the hazards exist and he admits that "the more you expose yourself, the more likely you are to 'get it,' the fun and exercise aspects of bike riding are worth the risk.

"I try to do 20 miles a day to keep in shape," he says, his blue eyes and tan skin clearly reflecting good health, "and I average five to six thousand miles a year. I've ridden in every western European country and in September we're going to France, to bike from Avignon to Nice."

At 58, looking 40, Sloane stopped riding a bike, like veryone else, when he got into high school because it was considered childish. "I only got on again when I was 40," he says, "to commute to work in Detroit." He rapidly became addicted to bicycling as a way of life. At the time, such behavior was considered eccentric at best.

Then, inexplicably, bike sales "just took off in '70. It was an epidemic effect and after it became the in thing for adults to do, it filtered down to teen-agers."

Now, the Bicycle Institute of America, a trade association which promotes safety, estimates that there are 15.8 million Americans on bicycles. The industry itself is valued at $900 million.

Little wonder, then, that Sloane's book has sold 25,000 copies since publication in May, earning him $35,000 so far. His 1970 "Complete Book of Bicycling," which this edition updates, sold 125,000 copies from which he pocketed $250,000.

He rides a $900 bike—which accompanies him everwhere—much of it handmade, with a leather saddle that has 50,000 miles on it.

The "end's" the thing in bicycling and Sloane advocates a leather saddle rather than nylon because, he says, "it will shape itself to your bottom, whereas plastic or nylon won't."

News in brief

Ford informal--Butz

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says President Ford is an informal man who will be able to draw on congressional and Cabinet support in tackling the country's problems.

"He's a great President," Butz said recently. "He's taken it all in great shape."

In New Orleans to address the World Poultry Congress, Butz praised Ford as "just what we need right now. He's Mr. Clean, he's honest, he's sincere, he's a man of the people. The Cabinet will be right behind him. I don't think President Ford has an enemy in the world. It may be so difficult to stop being just plain Jerry Ford he may have some difficulty in being Mr. President."

Portugal takes first step to free colony

Antunes, 41, a member of the Coordinating Commitee of the Armed Forces Movement which carried out the April 25 army coup in Lisbon, will be sworn in today by Portuguese President Antonio de Spinola.

Portugal said last week it would end 350 years of colonial rule in Africa by handing over the reins of government to Mozambique, Angola, and Guinea-Bissau.

Highway death toll drop not due to 55 mph

CHICAGO (UPI) — Reduced speed limits, triggered by the energy shortage, are getting more credit than they deserve for the reduction of highway deaths in the nation, according to the American Medical Association.

"We hope, of course, that the nationwide downward trend continues, but we believe that the savings in lives cannot honestly be attributed to any great extent to the reduction in the speed limit," Lee N. Hames, AMA director of safety education, said in an editorial in the current edition of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

While speed limits have been reduced to 55 miles per hour, Hames said that most traffic deaths occur at speeds under 55.

Hames noted that the energy shortage also resulted in car pools and other resorts to alternate transportation reducing the number of miles driven by motorists. He also cited increased use of seatbelts because of warning and interlock systems on newer cars as contributing factors to the decrease in traffic deaths. The National Safety Council reported during the weekend that the nation's traffic death toll for 1973 was about 800 below the 1972 figure.

The council said 55,800 persons died in traffic accidents during 1973 compared to 56,600 in 1972.

Most of the decrease came in the last two months of 1973 when the gasoline shortage hit the nation, the council said in its "Accident Facts 1974."

N. Viet offensive almost unnoticed

SAIGON (LENS — Vietnam's biggest battle since the ceasefire in February, 1973, passed almost unnoticed by the outside world.

It started on July 17, when communist forces overran two South Vietnamese Ranger bases near the district capital of Duc Duc, in the northern province of Quang Nam.

The South Vietnamese threw in some 3,000 extra troops as reinforcements and launched large-scale bombing strikes. The fighting still continues with some 10,000 North Vietnamese troops massed around Duc Duc.

The battle matters for two reasons, apart from its scale. The first is that the North Vietnamese appears to see Duc Duc (and the neighboring town of Dai Loc) as a stepping-stone on the way to Danang, South Vietnam's second largest city, 12 miles to the north-east.

From Duc Duc they can shell Danang —a city swollen with war refugees, where the huge former American air base lies almost unused — with their Chinese-built 130mm guns. They could also strike at Highway 1, the main road between Saigon and the north.

Second, offensives of this kind swallow up South Vietnam's strategic reserve and its dwindling economic resources. North Vietnam is staking a great deal on the hope that the economic crisis in the south will erode support for President Thieu's war policy.

The South Vietnamese announced the second devaluation of the piastre in a fortnight on July 19. The 20-30 per cent pay rises for soldiers and civil servants earlier this year did not enable them to catch up with the soaring cost of living, and food is in short supply.

Although Saigon radio has been making great play with the idea that North Vietnam is suffering from an economic crisis of its own, and even graver leadership problems, this seems to be wishful thinking.

The eclipse of General Giap, North Vietnam's defense minister since 1946 (with one brief intermission, now seems to be complete. According to American sources, he is suffering from the form of cancer called Hodgkin's disease. But his role in North Vietnam's remarkably durable system of collective leadership has probably been exaggerated by western observers.

The conduct of the war in recent years has been at least as much in the hands of Le Duan, the first secretary of North Vietnam's communist party, and General Van Tien Dung, the chief of staff, who was made a full member of the politburo in September, 1972. General Giap's political demise is not likely to affect North Vietnam's present strategy of waging a war of attrition in preparation for a major offensive in 1975 or 1976.

'Slow Motion Shorty' now No. 1 hobo

BRITT, Iowa (UPI) — Delegates to the 1974 National Hobo Convention have named "Slow Motion Shorty" Parker to succeed "Steam Train Maury" Graham as king of the drifters.

"Shorty", also known as Arthur William Parker, achieved his new status Sunday by drawing the loudest applause from the 6,000 convention delegates who had spent a weekend feasting on 450 gallons of mulligan stew and swapping tales.

"Steam Train Maury," evaluating his past one-year term as king, told the assembled hobos he visited 34,000 veterans —a duty of every hobo king — and said he got to every Veterans' hospital in the country.

Thanking the crowd for the "most adventurous year of my life," the ex-king said he plans to "work steady for the next six months to pay back my travel debts."

"Every man should get to be king. I'd like to see a new one for every year for the next five years," Graham told the crowd and 11 competing hobos.

Graham lamented that the ranks of the hobos have been depleted because most of the regulars such as "Hark Rock Kid," "Big Town" Gorman and the "Pennsylvania Kid" are getting on in years.

In addition to a new king the hobos also elected a queen, "Long Looker Mic" Senfeld of Rockwell City,

Only 20 ounces at birth

Baby survives against all odds

SCHERTZ, Tex. (UPI) — Tasha LaShay Hudson, irritable from a morning vaccination, whimpered slightly and nuzzled closer to her mother's bosom.

Then she let out a howl that brought a smile to the face of her mother, Olivian Hudson.

"She was one of the smallest in the world to survive," Mrs. Hudson said.

Tasha weighs a little more than 8 pounds in the fifth month of her life. When she was born March 15, she weighed 20 ounces —1-¼ pounds.

Mrs. Judson talks proudly of her daughter, who now is able to eat regular baby food and drink her mother's milk.

Tasha, the subject of an upcoming Army Medical Journal article by one of the doctors who helped save her life, was given little chance to live at birth.

Not only was she 3-½ months premature —she had been expected to arrive about June 28 —but Tasha had to undergo open chest surgery the first few critical days of her life.

Col. Robert Treasure, chief of thoracic surgery at Brooke Army Medical Center who headed a team of surgeons performing the operation in nearby San Antonio, said it was the first time in his memory that such a delicate operation was performed on such a tiny patient.

In all, Tasha spent 85 days incubating under 24-hour care at the Army hospital before Mrs. Hudson, an elementary school teacher, and her husband, S.Sgt. Alfonso Hudson, 31, stationed at the military personnel center of Randolph Air Force Base, walked proudly out with her in their arms.

Mrs. Hudson had daily delivered mother's milk to the hospital to be fed to the tiny infant.

"I believe we lucked out," Mrs. Hudson said of her first child. "I wouldn't give anything for that highly skilled staff. They were concerned about us, as well as the baby. We were fortunate to be in an area with so many hospitals."

Doctors said the operation to close a fetal channel connecting the aorta with the pulmonary artery of the infant's heart was successful and tiny Tasha — now weighing a little more than 8 pounds —can lead a normal life.

"From what I can see, she's about normal," Mrs. Hudson, 29, said. "She's keeping us up at night. She tends to let us know when she's hungry. She's got her nights and days mixed up.

"Right now she's small. A little later, you won't be able to tell the difference (between Tasha and other children the same age). As far as we know, they think she has a chance of becoming a whole, normal individual."

Mrs. Hudson, a native of West Hollywood, Fla., whose husband comes from Jacksonville, Fla., said she selected the name Tasha, shortened from the Russian Natasha, and completely invented the middle name LaShay.

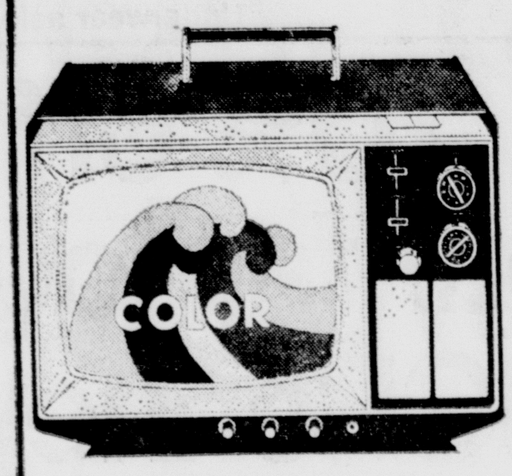

"I wanted something different," she said.

But the mother said she and her husband of six years agreed on the unusual name one week before the unexpected arrival of the baby —whose premature birth itself was distinctive.

"The moment you were to say she was the smallest, someone would come along and disprove it," she said.

MIT prof says universe eternal

BOSTON (UPI) -- Most scientists believe the universe began with a bang and has been growing ever since.

Prof. I.E. Segal, a mathematician at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, believes it never began at all. The sun and earth were born, he says, but the universe itself has always existed, and is not getting any bigger.

Segal, whose theory challenges some of the longstanding laws of physics, estimates the circumference of the universe at the distance light would travel in a billion years. (It takes light about eight minutes to go the 93 million miles from the sun to us.)

The universe as Segal sees it is like the surface of a very big ball, except it has an extra dimension. If one could travel through the universe in any direction, eventually one would come back to where one started, from the opposite direction.

If his theory is correct, there are two kinds of time, flat time and curved time; and two kinds of energy, flat energy and curved energy.

Men are too small and deal in too short distances to know anything but flat energy and time, Segal says. We can't see that space is curved any more than we can see, without the help of spacecraft, that the earth is round.

But over very large distances, time and energy are affected by the curvature of space. And they behave in odd ways.

Segal's theory contradicts the "big bang" or expansion theory widely held for the past 40 years.

The expansionists say that in the beginning the entire universe was contained in a single point. The point exploded sending matter into space.

That matter became the sun, the moon, the earth and the stars. According to the expansionists, it is still shooting into space, pushing back the outer reaches of the universe.

The argument hinges on the interpretation of a phenomenon called the "redshift".

Light from very distance objects outside our galaxy shifts towards the red end of the spectrum as it travels to earth. The more distant the object, the greater the redshift.

The expansionists believe that this redshift takes place because the objects are moving away from us as the universe expands, just as a car moving away from us makes a lower sound than a car moving towards us.

To Segal, this is "science fiction in a ather technical form." He argues that it would require some objects to "move at more than nine-tenths the velocity of light, and to be 10,000 times as bright as the Milky Way."

The expansionists have based their theory on what he says is the false assumption that the redshift is directly proportionate to the distance of the object. "It's more the square," he says.

Segal believes that the redshift is caused not by an expansion of the universe, but by a loss of energy in the redshifted light.

This would seem to violate the law of conservation which says that the amount of energy in the universe stays the same. But if Segal's theory is correct, some of the physical laws thought to govern the universe aren't true.

Segal discussed his ideas in a paper published in a recent issue of the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences and he says he will go into more detail in a book to be published within the year.

Government presses crackdown against illegal Mexican laborers

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- High Justice Department officials, spurred by hints of scandal among their border patrolmen, are pressing for a legislative crackdown on the tidal wave of cheap Mexican labor illegally crossing into the United States.

The answer, said Gen. Leonard F. Chapman, head of the U.S. Immigration and Nationalization Service, is not to seal off the Mexican border but to "turn off the magnet" of jobs on Southwestern farms and ranches.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe says the "keystone" of the attack would be a long-stalled bill sponsored by Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., that would make it a federal crime to knowingly hire an "illegal alien."

Southwestern farmers are understandably opposed, and Saxbe knows it. "There are a number of people in Congress and in the United States who don't want to keep these people out. They say it is the only work force they can get," he told reporters recently.

Chapman, the retired Marine Corps commandant, estimates there are 6 million to 8 million illegal aliens in the United States, about 85 per cent of them Mexican.

Although the U.S. border patrol arrests nearly one million a year for deportation, Saxbe believes as many as five times that many Mexicans manage to slip through the border net and find jobs.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., says illegal aliens "constitute a tremendous drain on our economy. They inundate the job market and are responsible for a great deal of unemployment. They send their children to public schools. Often they go on welfare rolls. And they crowd the market for low-cost housing."

Tunney estimates the federal government loses $100 million a year, and the states $15 million, in potential income tax revenues from the Mexicans, who simply carry their pay envelopes back across the border for their families and never file tax returns.

The problem drew renewed attention recently when evidence surfaced that some U.S. border patrolmen were accepting bribes to look the other way or were actually smuggling in Mexican labor. Seven patrolmen have been indicted, and five convicted.

Saxbe, who is personally in charge of the investigation, said that "so far, we have found minor corruption -nothing on a grand scale." But he is more concerned with the possibility of a pervasive cover-up by higher officials within the immigration service that is hindering his inquiry.

He said he had warned President Ford it is "becoming a national scandal."

In an interview with UPI, Chapman supported the Justice Department's bid to Congress for enough money to hire 500 reinforcements for the present 1,700-member border patrol. But Chapman said a bigger budget is not the final answer.

"I just think it is completely impractical to build INS size to enable us to physically bar the Mexican border," he said. "It would take 10,000 people. What has to be done is to turn off the magnet."

The legislation proposed by Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, would free U.S. employers of liability in hiring illegal aliens if they required job applicants to sign an oath certifying they entered the country legally.

The American Farm Bureau Federation opposes the bill, which has passed the House twice but is stalled in a Senate subcommittee.

"We do not of course support illegal entry of aliens or knowing employment of them," a bureau spokesman said.

Prop. 9 doesn't cover support by newspapers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) -- Newspaper endorsements of candidates, in the form of editorials, are not subject to the campaign disclosure requirements of the Political Reform Initiative Prop. 9, the legislative counsel said.

In an official opinion published Monday, George Murphy said newspapers would have to report as "campaign committees" only if the space used for an editorial endorsement normally was sold for advertising.

The total cost for such endorsements during a year would also have to exceed $5,000, said Murphy, the attorney for the legislature.

His opinion of the recently approved initiative was sought by Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Los Angeles. The opinion applied only to newspapers, not broadcast editorials.

Offshore oil and gas leasing plan criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., says an Administration plan for a threefold increase in offshore oil and gas leasing may "ride roughshod" over important environmental, fisheries and recreational goals.

Hollings, who chairs a special Senate panel that is studying national ocean policy, made the statement in a letter to Rep. Julia Butler Mansen, D-Wash.

The letter, released recently, praised Mrs. Hansen and the House appropriations subcommittee she heads for having expressed "grave reservations" about an Interior Department plan to lease 10 million acres of offshore lands in 1975.

"The testimony we have received in our hearings so far strongly raises considerable doubt as to whether a crash 10 million acre leasing program is a wise or prudent policy considering the absence of a proper understanding of its consequences," Hollings wrote Mrs. Hansen.

"Undoubtedly some hard questions must be answered before we allow the goal of "Project Independence" to run roughshod over such equally important national goals as a higher quality environment, improved production of ocean fisheries, and adequate coastal recreational opportunities."

The Administration plan, part of a program aimed at achieving greater self-sufficiency in energy, would increase offshore leasing from about 3 million acres this year to the 10 million acre target for 1975.

Mrs. Hansen's Interior appropriations subcommittee was critical of the proposal chiefly because of fears the oil and gas lands might be locked up by successful bidders without being developed.

"The committee does not want the United States to find itself in a situation, similar to the previous coal leasing program, where millions of acres are leased to companies which defer development on them in order to reap greater profits from future price increases," the committee report said.

Ford's a shrewd politician

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats who might be tempted to accept Lyndon Johnson's assessment of Gerald Ford as a man who played too much football without a helmet better take a new look —and listen —at the new President.

Ford demonstrated in his address to the joint session of Congress that he is a rather shrewd politician, and in the present circumstances not one willing to accept the conventional wisdom that says his party is going to take a bath in the November elections.

The President signalled his political know-how with two references in his speech to Congress. The first was his remark, almost an aside, that he wasn't going to give a State of the Union address because "God willing, I will have at least three chances to do that." The emphasis here is on "at least" —which means Ford may very well be seeking election in 1976, and which says to Republicans as well as Democrats "don't get any ideas about running over me."

The second was his "first specific request" —a call to voters to "Support your candidates, congressmen and Senators, Democrats or Republicans, conservative or liberal, who consistently vote for tough decisions to cut the cost of government, restrain federal spending and bring inflation under control."

It does not take deep meditation to realize that the President was not talking about Democrats and liberals when he urged support for budgetcutters. He was talking primarily about his own GOP, especially the band of orthodox Republicans loyalists he led in the House.

In the spate of mid-Watergate predictions about the prospects for this year's election, most of which foresaw heavy Republican losses in the House, it seemed obvious that the men who followed the party most faithfully would be in the most danger in November. These were the congressmen who consistently voted against establishing new domestic spending programs and fought hardest to keep appropriations bill from exceeding the President's budget. And, in the nature of things, they were the congressmen who stood by President Nixon the longest, opening themselves to attack in the campaign.

Ford also was in the House when the old Republican-Southern Democratic coalition was at its peak, able to mold legislation in a more conservative cast than dominant northern and western Democrats wanted and able to thwart the will of President Kennedy.

In urging election of nonspenders, Ford also was giving a boost to many Southern Democrats, who despite the dreams of many GOP theorists, have been able to hold the conservative side of the road in their districts and resist efforts to push them toward the liberal side. Ford is realist enough to know that the GOP is not going to win many of these seats, and that he can have these Democratic votes on many issues if he does not get too partisan in dealing with the South.

Finally, the Ford declaration of political war against spenders gets his Republican Party off the potentially embarrassing campaign theme planned by GOP leaders before the Nixon resignation. This was to blame Democratic-controlled Congress for the nation's woes, a reverse version of the line Harry Truman took in 1948. Truman won his presidential election but he made no friends in Capitol Hill with his "do nothing, good for nothing" Congress. He ended his presidency fighting bitterly with Congress, and that is something Gerald Ford does not want.

Reagan plans out-of-state trip Saturday

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan will travel to Maryland next Saturday for a Republican fundraising affair and Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke will be acting chief executive in his absence, it was announced Friday.

It will be the third time that Reagan has left California since Reinecke's July 27 conviction of perjury. Previously, Reagan attended political affairs in Seattle, Wash., and Stateline, Nev.

The governor will leave Friday for Baltimore to attend the annual "Bull Roast" picnic on the beach at Centerville on Saturday. It is a Republican fundraiser. He will return later in the day.

The governor's office said Reagan will be out of California for approximately 24 hours. Aides reported a "hot line" telephone will be set up between the state Capitol and Maryland in case of an emergency.

"If there are any emergencies or anything requiring a decision by the governor, we'll be in communication and he will return to the state and take whatever action is necessary," a spokesman said.

The same system was established when Reagan went to Seattle and Stateline last weekend. No situations requiring his personal attention occurred while Reinecke was acting governor.

Pelican baby boom claimed

This year, however, there have been 305 births, the state Fish and Game Department reported happily recently.

The count was made by teams of federal and state biologists on West Anacapa and Santa Cruz Islands off Southern California.

The insecticide DDT las blamed for disrupting the reproductive ability of the pelicans, threatening them one time with extinction. Use of the chemical has since been almost completely banned.

State officials said further "encouraging signs" of the pelican population's rebounding have been reported on is-

COOL VEGETABLE MOUSSE

For this luxury vegetable dish, dissolve 1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatin in cold water. Add 2 cups boiling consomme and 1¾ cups cold water. Cook 2 minced leek whites in 2 tablespoons butter until soft. Add 2 cups sliced potatoes and gelatin mixture and cook 20 minutes until potatoes are tender. Mix in blender. Add 4 tablespoons butter, 3 egg yolks, ½ cup heavy cream and choice of vegetables as listed. Blend again. Pour into a pan and heat, stirring constantly, until mixture coats a spoon. Pour into a bowl set in ice and beat with wire whisk. Whip 1 cup heavy cream and fold into mixture. Pour into individual dishes and garnish with whipped cream, parsley, tarragon or cucumber slices. Suggested vegetables: 2 teaspoons minced scallions and 3 teaspoons diced cucumbers; 2 tablespoons pureed spinach, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon curry powder; 2 tablespoons tomator puree, tarragon, paprika; 1 tablespoon diced carrots, 1 tablespoon chopped mushrooms and dash of parsley cooked in butter.

Consumer resistance cuts seafood prices

NEW YORK (UPI) Consumer resistance in the United States and Japan is helping cut the price of frozen fish and shrimp.

Wholesale prices already have dropped sharply on a wide variety of products. The savings are expected to show up at the retail level within the next month or two, say industry spokesmen.

We've never had such a big backlog before, says Henry R. McEvoy, marketing specialist for the National Marine Fisheries Service, Gloucester, Mass.

The 424 million pounds of frozen fish and seafood now in cold storage is 57 per cent greater than the 270 million pounds on hand a year ago, McEvoy added in an interview here.

Even king and snow crabmeat are in good supply, he said.

Per capita consumption of fish had shot up to twelve and a half pounds during the beef boycott last summer, after hovering around 11 pounds for many years.

This led to increased imports. But when the meat boycott succeeded and prices dropped, U. S. consumers went back to their old shopping habits and the supplies began to pile up in warehouses.

McEvoy said only 36 million pounds move out to stores, restaurants and institutions during the first six months this year, compared with 145 million pounds during the same period in 1973.

McEvoy also said retail prices have remained high partly because of the cost of doing business. Prices are up on everything from boat construction to fishing gear and insurance for fishermen and their vessels.

He emphasized that the decreases will apply only to frozen products. And they do not apply to such frozen items as lobsters, clams and the largest size shrimp, which are used primarily by restaurants and institutions.

He said all fresh fish and seafood remain scarce, and prices correspondingly high. But frozen fillets of flounder, Greenland turbot, whiting, ocean perch, cod and pollock are in good supply and breaded fish sticks are in very good supply. All should be comparatively better buys than they have been for quite a while, he added.

Home canning increasing, according to pectin sales

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pectin sales are running about 15 per cent above this time last year, a sure sign home preserving is increasing.

The manufacturer who first noted the increase last fall says it has held steady ever since. It is the first since the mid-1950s to early 1960s, when pectin sales slid to all time lows.

The price of sugar has increased dramatically since last summer but there is a way to use less of it and still enjoy the flavors of homemade spreads: go back to grandmother's preserving recipes, which used no commercial pectin.

Pectin is the substance in fruit that makes jam and jelly products set. It occurs naturally in all fruit, but the amount varies widely, depending on the variety of fruit, growing conditions and degree of ripeness.

Powdered and bottled pectins that were developed early this century cut cooking time drastically and produced higher yields, but they also led to sweeter spreads because more sugar is needed to make them work.

Old fashioned preserving recipes use less sugar and make fruitier tasting spreads because they use less sugar. Most fruits need only three quarters cup of sugar per cup of cooked fruit or syrup (for jelly) and those which are very low in pectin and acid content need a ratio of only two thirds cup of sugar per cup of fruit. Less sugar should not be used without special recipes and special packing methods to prevent spoilage.

Citrus fruit, sour apples, concord and wild grapes and sour plums are rich in both pectin and acid. They usually take equal amounts of sugar for each cup of cooked fruit or juice.

Testing for both pectin and acid content is quick and easy. Unsweetened juice should taste as tart as one part fresh lemon juice mixed with three parts water. If it does not, add from one to one and a half teaspoons to one tablespoan of lemon juice per cup of fruit or juice.

To test for pectin gently stir half a teaspoon of cooked, cooled, strained juice into one teaspoon of either grain alcohol (the basis for most liquors) or 70 per cent rubbing alcohol, which is poisonous. Let stand at least one minute, then pour into a saucer.

If the juice forms a solid mass of gelatin, pectin content is high, calling for equal amounts of fruit and sugar. If the flakes are large and broken, use three fourths cup sugar for each cup of fruit mixture.

If flakes are scanty and small, either boil the fruit mixture down for 10 to 20 minutes and retest, or add bottled liquid pectin this way: measure one cup of fruit into a small bowl. Stir in one tablespoon of pectin until well mixed. Retest for pectin. Continue adding pectin and retesting until mixture is as fortified as you wish. Then, fortify the remainder in the same ratio, add sugar, and cool in small batches—4 to 6 cups at a time—for best results.

Always discard test batches without tasting and never leave an open bottle of either alcohol near a stove or a lighted cigaret. Both are highly inflammable. And while grain alcohol is not poisonous like the rubbing variety, it is 190 proof, or 95 per cent alcohol.

Consumer gets break in new federal law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers will get new help in judging the freshness of packaged meat and poultry products under a new federal regulation announced Wednesday, Agriculture Department officials said.

The regulation will not require processors to put freshness dates on their products. But it lays down a simplified system which must be used by processors who voluntarily choose an "open dating" system designed to be read by consumers.

Officials said some processors already are using open-dating plans in place of older "code" systems intended to help stores rotate stock but not to be easily understood by consumers.

There tas been "some confusion" about the meaning of the new "open" dates but the new regulation should help clear it up, said Nancy Steorts, consumer affairs adviser to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

Under the new rule, officials said, freshness dates shown on meat package labels must be identified in one of three ways. They may be designated as:

—A "packing date" to tell the consumer when the product was packaged.

—Or a "use before" date to tell the consumer how long the product should be kept.

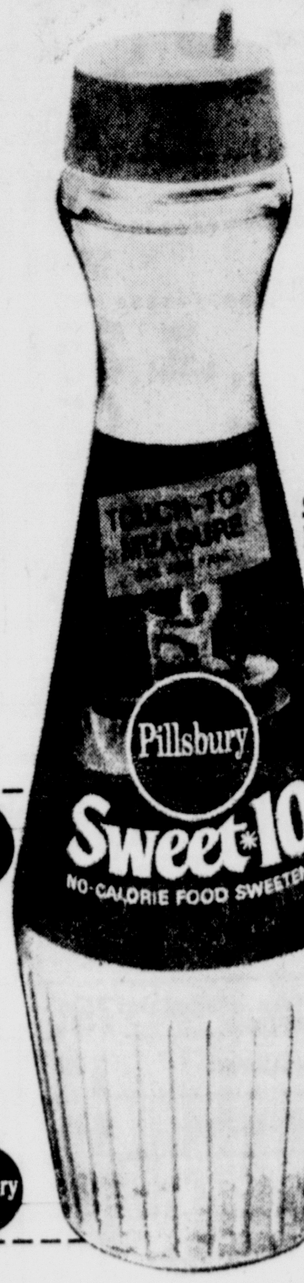

Also, officials said, the rule will permit the use of explanatory words like "for maximum freshness."

Mrs. Steorts told a news briefing the new regulation will be officially published Thursday and will take effect 30 days later. She said it will give consumers "significantly more information on the freshness of meat and poultry products."

But Francis J. Mulhern, head of an Agriculture Department agency which handles federal meat and poultry inspection, cautioned consumers that open dating "does not guarantee quality or wholesomeness."

"Only proper handling and storage from the processor to the dinner table" will do that, Mulhern said. Mrs. Steorts echoed that warning —a reflection, presumably, of a recent congressional study urging government agencies to step up programs aimed at reducing the presence of salmonella bacteria in meat and poultry.

MEATBALL PILAF

In a large bowl mix 1 pound ground beef, ½ cup milk, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce. Shape into 1-inch balls. Heat 1 tablespoon salad oil in skillet. Add meatballs and brown on all sides. Add ½ cup chopped onion and cook 5 minutes. Add 1 cup uncooked brown rice, 1 can condensed beef broth, 1 cup water, ¾ teaspoon thyme, 2 tablespoons wheat germ, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce. Cover and simmer 30 more minutes. Add ½ cup chopped, pared carrots and 2 cups fresh chopped broccoli. Cover and simmer 30 minutes longer. Serves 4.

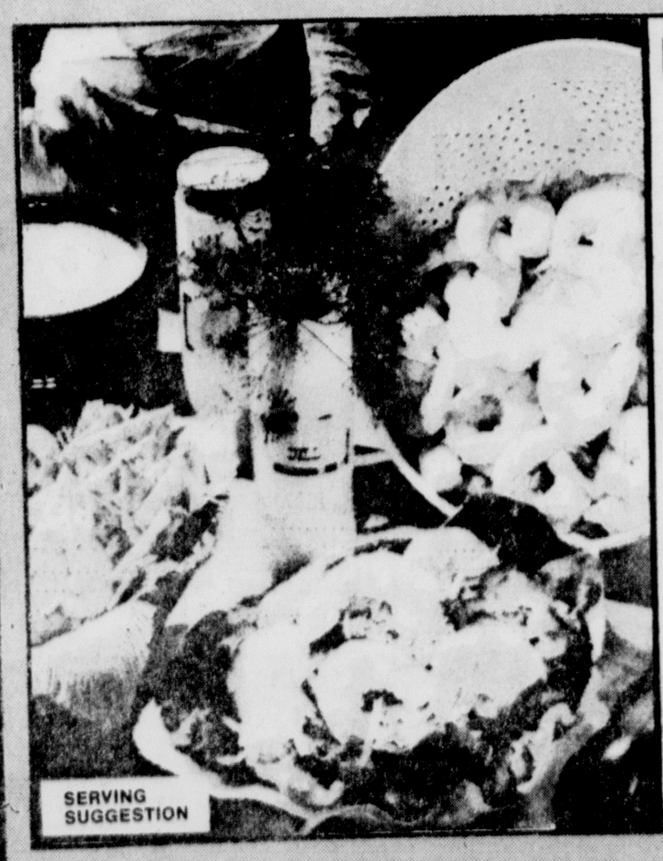

HAWAIIAN FROST

Whirl on a blender, or beat well, half of a 46-ounce can of unsweetened, chilled pineapple juice, half of a 6-ounce can of frozen mai-tai mix and half of a pint of pineapple sherbet until frosty. Add the remaining half of each and continue whirring or beating until frosty. Pour into large glasses. Top with fresh strawberries. Make teriyaki bites, also pictured, by dipping chunks of chicken breast and pineapple chunks into bottled teriyaki marinade. Insert on skewers and barbecue 5 minutes. This cooler is delicious as a lone refreshment or as accompaniment to almost any summer meal.

Peach freezer jam is a peachy idea

The peach crop is at its peak. Even though lovers of this tart-sweet fruit indulge themselves to the fullest while the fresh fruit is at its tasty best, it is always a pleasure to have a few jars of jams and jellies put up for the fall and winter months. A different approach to canning fresh peaches is to make jam and store the jams in the freezer. Peach freezer jam then can be removed from the freezer, placed in the refrigerator to thaw for use when needed. Recipes for peach freezer jam are for both powdered and liquid fruit pectin.

PEACH FREEZER JAM

- 2 pounds fully ripe peaches (about)
- 3 cups sugar
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ½ (6 ounce) bottle liquid fruit pectin

Rinse, peel and remove pits from peaches. Fully crush peaches, one layer at a time, to let juice flow freely. Measure 2 cups crushed fruit; turn into bowl. Add sugar and corn syrup; stir thoroughly. Mix lemon juice and pectin, pour over peach mixture; stir three minutes. Leaving ¼ to ½-inch headspaace, quickly ladle into washed and scalded jars or freezer containers (½ pint sizes are ideal. Do not use containers that hold more than one pint). Cover at once with tight lids (no paraffin needed). Let stand at room temperature until set (this may take up to 24 hours), then place in freezer for at least 24-hour period. Remove from freezer as needed and store in refrigerator. Once thawed eat whin three weeks. Makes 6 (½ pint) containers.

PEACH FREEZER JAM

- 3 pounds fully ripe peaches (about)
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 package (2 ounce) powdered jam and jelly pectin
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 4½ cups sugar

Rinse, peel and remove pits from peaches. Fully crush peaches, one layer at a time, to let juices flow freely. Measure 3-¼ cups crushed fruit; turn into large kettle. Stir in lemon juice Slowly sift in pectin, stirring virgorously. Set aside for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add corn syrup, stir well. Gradually stir in sugar. Warm to 100-degrees to speed up sugar dissolving time but do not heat any hotter than 100-degrees. Use food thermometer. When sugar has dissolved, the jam is ready. Leaving ¼-to ½-inch headspace, ladle into washed and scalded jars or freezer containers (½-pint sizes are ideal. Do not use containers that hold more than one pint). Cover at once with tight lids (no paraffin needed). Store in freezer. Remove from freezer as needed and store in refrigerator Once thawed eat within three weeks. Makes 7 (½ pint) containers.

These chicken wings are delicious treat

Looking very much like a basket of mini chicken legs, these enjoyable wheat germ coated morsels are actually thrifty chicken wings. Not only do they taste super delicious but they are easily prepared. The recipe was designed for carefrfee meals in the Kretschmer test kitchen in San Francisco by the bay.

Once you disjoint the chicken wings and cut each into two pieces at the joint the rest is practically effortless. The crunchy golden coating in flavorful ready to eat regular wheat germ tossed with grated parmesan cheese and a little salt and pepper. First dip the chicken pieces in an undercoating of equal parts soy sauce, catsup and vinegar, then into the wheat germ mix. Let them bake unattended in a moderately hot oven about half an hour, cover loosely and continue until chicken is appetizingly browned. Another noteworthy fact is that this crusty finger food can be served hot or cold with its sweet-sour dipping sauce.

A suggestion for finishing out the menu is potato salad, either homemade or some you pick up at the deli, crisp raw vegetables and thick slices of ice cold watermelon. On a hot summer day it is attempting picnic to enjoy at home. Or take it to a shady park or down by a cool stream. Keep the wheat germ chicken in mind for buffet suppers any time of year when you're looking for a nifty idea to add newness to your favorite menu.

If you have always considered wheat germ as health food—you're right. But if you think you have to go to a health food store to find it — you're wrong. Vacuum packed jars of nutritious — their labels tell all—toasted wheat germ have been around more than thirty years.

WHEAT GERM PICNIC CHICKEN

- 2 pounds chicken wings
- ½ cup vacuum-packed regular wheat germ
- ¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons catsup or chili sauce
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- Dipping Sauce

Remove and discard wing tips from chicken. Divide each wing at joint into two pieces. Mix wheat germ with parmesan cheese, pepper and salt in small bowl. Combine soy sauce, catsup and vinegar in shallow container. Dip each piece of chicken first into soy sauce mixture then into wheat germ mixture turning to coat well.

Place chicken in shallow baking pan lined with foil. Bake in 375-degree oven 40 to 45 minutes or until tender. Cover loosely last 10 minutes to prevent over browning. Serve hot or cold with Dipping Sauce if desired. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

DIPPING SAUCE: Mix ½ cup chili sauce with 1 tablespoon EACH brown sugar and cider vinegar.

Brown asks halt on salary increase bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund Brown Jr. recently called on the Assembly to kill legislation granting the governor and other top state officials a 20 per cent pay raise next year.

The Democratic gubernatorial nominee said it was "highly inappropriate" for a governor to receive a large salary boost when President Ford urged "the American people to tighten their belts and called for restraints on government spending."

The Senate-passed bill by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, would increase the governor's salary from $49,100 to $60,000 a year and the attorney general's from $42,500 to $51,155.

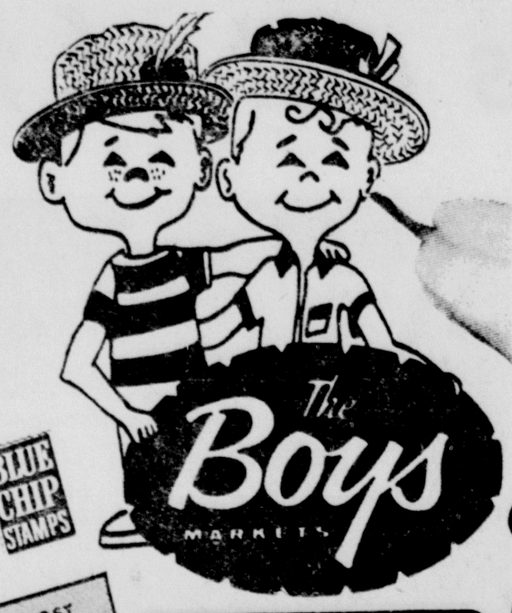

The $35,000 salaries of the secretary of state, controller, treasurer, lieutenant governor, controller, and superintendent of public instruction would climb to $42,500.

"A large salary hike for the governor would set a bad example in these inflationary times," Brown said.

He said when inflation is cutting into the income of Californians, top state officials "should not enjoy a 20 per cent salary increase."

Bumper plum crop is in markets now

If ever there was a time to fill the refrigerator with fresh, ripe plums, it is now. California plum growers are well stocked with this year's record-breaking crop.

Seasonal reports ranking 1974 plums as the second largest crop in history have proven to be incorrect. By Aug. 1, growers were just 91,000 packages short of reaching their early summer estimates. With harvesting continuing on Casselman—the second largest volume variety—growers expect the crop to well exceed earlier marks. Thus, it will become the largest plum crop in history.

Eating quality is exceptional, as is often true of a large crop. Size, often adversely affected by large volume, has been maintained and is comparable to last year's standards.

Ddue to the large quantity of plums on the market, prices are expected to drop considerably. So stock up on plums now. Try canning them, use them in jams and jellies. Their sweet-tart taste is a delightful change at mealtime.

Although shipping is concldued, the Kelsey variety can still be found in the market. The Kelsey as well as the Laroda, Nubiana and President is excellent for use in pies, cakes and tarts. The Queen Ann, Santa Rosa and Casselman are better suited for jams and jellies. All are especially good for eating out of hand.

When selecting plums, the best clue to ripeness is a slight softening at the tip. When plums yield to gentle pressure, they are ready to use. If not quite ripe when purchased, keep plums at room temperature a day or so, but watch closely. Plums can turn overripe very quickly. Ripe plums should be refrigerated.

For a mealtime treat, try roasted chicken with a plum stuffing. Top it with plum sauce. If you wish, you can substitute cornish hens for the roast chicken. The stuffing is an unusual change, using plums in place of the more traditional apples and raisins. And the plum sauce is a tangy topper for the fowl. Serve it on a bed of wild rice. Your family will love it!

ROAST CHICKEN AND PLUM STUFFING

½ cup butter
2 onions, finely chopped
½ cup chopped celery
6 slices stale bread
4 fresh plums, diced
1 egg, lightly beaten
1 cup chicken broth
1 roasting chicken

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In skillet melt butter; saute onions and celery until golden. Add bread and plums; stir mixture together. Cool. Beat egg and broth together; pour over bread mixture. Toss to blend. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Stuff chicken; close opening with skewers. Rub chicken with butter. Roast on rack for two hours or until leg moves easily.

PLUM SAUCE

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1-3rd cup sugar
1 cup water
4 plums, diced
2 tablespoons butter

Mix cornstarch and sugar together; stir in water. Add plums; cook, stirring constantly, until glaze bubbles and thickens. Simmer 5 more minutes. Add butter; stir until melted. Spoon glaze over hot chicken. Makes 6 servings.

Wood block strong

The National Forest Products Association estimates that a wood block one inch square and two and one half inches long can support 10,000 pounds.

PEANUT BUTTER PARTY LOAF — Combine ½ cup peanut butter and ¼ cup semisweet chocolate bits. Set aside. Cut a pound cake loaf into 3 slices horizontally. Spread bottom slice with strawberry jam and cover with well-drained canned peach slices. Cover with second layer of cake. Spread this with 2 tablespoons honey, then with peanut butter mixture. Spread 1 tablespoon honey on third slice of cake, then place this slice honey side down on the rest of the cake. Beat 4 egg whites until frothy. Gradually add ½ cup sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Spread over top and sides of cake. Cover and place in freezer 3 hours. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Slice and serve immediately. Dip knife in water between each slice to make serving easier.

Fish dishes and sake just naturally go together

Sea foods — whether the kind that swim or the kinds that come in shells — are becoming increasingly popular in America. For one thing, many of the good diets rely heavily on fish dishes. And fresh or frozen sea food, in interesting variety, is now readily available in most markets.

Sea foods are very often prepared with a bit of wine, which seems to enhance (without masking) their delicate flavors. Take a tip from the Japanese, who eat more fish than any other people in the world! They discovered long ago that their native rice wine, sake, is an essential ingredient in preparing fine fish dishes.

The distinctive flavor of sake brings out the best in any kind of sea food. It is more delicate than sherry, more robust than chablis, and slightly sweeter than a dry white wine. Actually, the taste of sake is utterly unique, probably because it is the only wine made from rice rather than grapes.

Sake is undoubtedly the most versatile of wines, too. As a drink, it is used in Japan both socially and ceremonially. The traditional wedding service, for example, includes the bride and groom sipping sake from the same cup. And because Sake goes so beautifully with food as well as in food, it is a most popular drink at both lunch and dinner.

The recipes shown here include a number of different kinds of sea food which should be available in your market. And when you serve them, try sake for the accompanying table wine, either warmed in the traditional Japanese manner, or over ice.

FILET OF SOLE AU GRATIN

Scrub the mussels well to remove all sand and dirt. Place them in a large kettle with the shallots, onions, parsley, salt and pepper, sake, butter, bay leaf and thyme. Cover and bring to a boil. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes, or until mussels have opened.

Strain the liquid through a double thickness of cheesecloth. Remove the mussels from their shells and save them for garnish.

Bring the liquid to a boil and add the cream. Return to the boil and remove from the heat. Add the beaten egg yolk and return to heat long enough for the soup to thicken slightly. Do not allow to boil. Can be served hot or cold. Makes 4 servings.

Heat control is key to creating sauces

Those delicate gourmet sauces that turn an ordinary dish into an extraordinary one are often frustrating for the best of cooks, but they need not be. That is the opinion of James Beard, author of several of the most popular cookbooks.

In fact, Mr. Beard believes that heat control is the key to making good sauces. When precise heat control is available, as with the smoothtop cooking surfaces that come with thermostatically controlled heating elements, there is no need to mess with double boilers, Beard said.

Using four sauce recipes, he stresses the importance of maintaining low or medium low settings in preparing the sauces. There is no heat buildup to scorch or burn these heat-sensitive mixtures, he says, if the thermostatically controlled heating elements are used at proper settings.

He advises using a 1½-quart saucepan or saucemaker, unless otherwise directed. Here are the sauces Beard lists among his favorites:

QUICK BROWN SAUCE: Saute three finely chopped shallots in three tablespoons of butter. Stir in one cup red wine and 10½-ounce can beef bouillon (not consomme) and bring to a boil. Season with a pinch of thyme and salt and pepper to taste. Cook down for a few minutes. Lower the heat to simmer setting. Thicken to taste with a beurre manie, (made with two tablespoons butter and four tablespoons flour, kneaded together and rolled into small balls), simmer a few moments and strain. Makes about 1½ cups.

WINE SHALLOT SAUCE: In a saucepan saute one cup chopped shallots or green onions in ¼ cup of butter. Add one cup dry white wine, one teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons white wine vinegar and one-half teaspoon freshly ground black pepper. Simmer about five minutes. Add one-fourth pound butter and heat just to melt. Spoon over meat or pass with meat.

GARLIC AND LEMON STEAK SAUCE: Use a 1½-quart saucepan. In it heat two cups red wine, one onion, finely chopped, and two minced garlic cloves to boiling. Let the mixture cook down by one half. Add two tablespoons each butter, olive oil and lemon juice, one tablespoon minced parsley, salt and freshly ground pepper to taste. Heat through and serve over steak.

BASIC WHITE SAUCE: Melt three tablespoons butter in a one or 1½-quart saucepan. Mix in three tablespoons flour and cook over low heat for two or three minutes, stirring with a wooden spoon or spatula. Meanwhile, heat 1½ cups liquid (light cream, milk, chicken broth, veal or beef stock, fish or vegetable stock) and gradually pour in the heated liquid, continuing to stir until the sauce thickens. Season to taste with salt, freshly ground white pepper and a dash of nutmeg. For an added touch, add a dash of tabasco.

There are variations for the basic white sauce. It becomes sauce supreme by making the basic sauce with chicken or veal stock and enriching it with one cup heavy cream and three egg yolks, and it is sauce mornay when one-half cup grated Parmesan cheese is added to the basic sauce.

Fish dishes and sake go together

- 1 cup chicken broth
- ¼ cup sake
- Fresh ground black pepper to taste

He got passing college grades without trying

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Peter Michael Mahone has found a new way to get by in college without even trying, according to the district attorney's office.

Mahone registered at San Diego State University in January. He was arrested a month later on suspicion of shooting two policemen and has been in jail ever since.

According to the district attorney, his grades were just released and showed one "F" for failure to attend class but three "C's."

Peanut butter a good choice nutritionally

There seems to be a period in every child's life when all he wants to eat is a peanut butter sandwich. Nutritionally, his choice could be worse. By varying the breads and adding little extras to the peanut butter spread, a pretty well-balanced meal can be had. So it seems fitting that his perennial favorite should have some special recognition during August — Sandwich Month.

One of the first tricks a sandwich maker learns is to spread peanut butter on one slice of bread and jelly or jam on the other and fit the two together. Pretty soon experimentation leads to the discovery of other pairings for peanut butter. One of the most popular is sliced bananas. A cool, crisp mound of shredded western iceberg lettuce is another. For Sandwich Month, try the two in combination—sliced bananas and iceberg lettuce with chunk-style peanut butter on whole-grain bread.

In making Sandwich Month Special, the peanut butter and mayonnaise are added to the shredded lettuce and placed on one slice of bread. Banana slices are placed on the other slice of bread which has been spread with mayonnaise, and the two slices then are fit together.

What a way to celebrate Sandwich Month! And what a way to guarantee that those on-the-run youngsters have a good, substantial lunch. Or to really delight the hungry hordes, serve this peanut surprise at breakfast with tall glasses of cold milk.

One special note. When you bring the lettuce home from the store, give it immediate attention. Core, rinse, drain and place it in plastic bag before storing it in the refrigerator. Bring it out just at the moment you're ready to shred it so that each shred will be super crisp. You'll find the texture contrast makes this peanut butter sandwich a snazzy spectacular!

SANDWICH MONTH SPECIAL

- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
- ½ cup real mayonnaise
- ½ cup chunk-style peanut butter
- 8 slices whole-grain bread
- 2 small bananas

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce; refrigerate in plastic crisper or disposable plastic bag. Shred lettuce to measure 2 cups and turn into small bowl; add ¼ cup mayonnaise and drop in peanut butter by small spoonfuls. Mix lightly. Spread remaining mayonnaise on bread slices. Cover half with sliced bananas and half with lettuce mixture. Put together, sandwich fashion. Press lightly and cut in half. Makes 4 salad-sandwiches.

Doughnut origin

Although the United States leads the world in doughnut consumption, with the average American eating more than 80 a year, the pastry is not American in origin. The Bible describes a forerunner of the doughnut in Leviticus, directing that "cakes mingled with oil . . . of fine flour, fired," be used in sacrifices.

School lunches still among consumer's best bargains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When children troop back to school this fall, they'll be returning to one of the few comparative bargains in today's economy —a daily meal priced at only about half its current real cost.

In the school year which ended last June, for example, youngsters at more than 87,000 schools participating in the National School Lunch program paid an average of about 42 cents for their meals.

The price was up about a nickel from the previous year. But officials of the Agriculture Department's child nutrition division —which handles federal aid to the lunch program — say the tab paid by youngsters was only about half the 84-cent total cost of the average school lunch.

Who paid the 42-cent difference?

About 24.5 cents of the gap, officials say, was paid by state and local governments in the form of cash or services such as warehousing, transportation and utilities. Another 10.5 cents came in the form of cash from the Agriculture Department which has been subsidizing school lunches since 1946.

Finally, a further 7 cents came in the form of Agriculture Department donations of commodities like hamburger, chicken and butter.

Food prices have risen since last year, which means that the total cost of the average school lunch this fall is expected to rise above the 84-cent level of the 1973-74 school year. But Agriculture officials say they don't expect any widespread hikes in the average of about 40 cents paid by elementary school pupils and 46 cents charged in many high schools.

The increase in costs, one expert said, should be mostly or entirely offset by increased federal aid being provided under several recent laws liberalizing government subsidies to the lunch program. The Agriculture Department's cash contribution, for example, went from 8 cents to 10.5 cents last November and will be up again to 11 cents in the new year. The agency's commodity contribution will rise from 7 to 10 cents per meal.

Besides, officials point out, all these figures on federal lunch aid apply only to middle and upper income children who pay "regular" prices for what is actually a heavily-subsidized meal. For needy children, the subsidy is much greater.

According to Agriculture estimates, about 9.3 million of the 24.1 million youngsters eating lunches under the National School Lunch Program this coming year will qualify as needy and will get their meals free or for token prices of about 20 cents. Almost all of the needy will be in the completely free category, since only about 1 per cent of all lunches served go to youngsters qualified for the token-price plan.

For free and reduced-price lunches, the federal cash contribution this coming school year will average 47 cents compared with 46 cents in the 1973-74 year.

In many ways, the meals children will get this fall will differ from the lunches their mothers and fathers ate under the lunch program a generation ago. New types of foods are being served, new methods of central preparation and corst-cutting service are being used —but one thing remains unchanged.

As it did back in 1946, the federally-subsized "Type A Lunch" must consist of four basic elements —milk, a protein food, fruits and vegetables, and bread with butter or margarine.

Today's youngsters, however, are getting some foods their parents never saw. Federal regulations, for example, now allow school cafeterias to mix up to 30 per cent textured vegetable protein (TVP) into hamburger to reduce the cost of meat without cutting protein content. Other new "engineered" foods approved for school use include fortified macaroni, and officials currently are considering possible approval of a "cheese alternate" made without butterfat.

Another change affects milk. When the mothers of today's first graders were in school, they got only whole milk. But regulations today permit schools to offer youngsters their choice of regular, low-fat or even skim milk —and more children are drinking milk under the new plan.

Total federal spending for the lunch program in the coming 1974-5 school year is estimated at $1.467 billion compared with $1.078 billion in the 1971-72 year.

Not all of the children eligible will participate if past patterns are followed. In past years, schools have reported that only about two-thirds of their pupils generally chose to eat the school meal, with others bringing their lunch or eating away from school.

Officials estimate, however, that about 86 per cent of all youngsters attending U.S. elementary and high schools — both public and private —are in schools where the lunch program is available.

Justice Dept. will assess crime fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department unit set up six years ago to help states fight crime is planning to spend $20 million to see how effective the effort has been.

The Law Enforcement assistance Adminstration, which has given state and local governments $3.2 billion in crimefighting aid since Congress created it in 1968, said recently the new program will assess widely implemented projects at state and local levels.

"It is time to take a hard look at crime control efforts to find out what really works in criminal justice and put that knowledge in the hands of state and local officials," said deputy LEAA administrator Charles R. Work.

The National Insitute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, LEAA's research center, will supervise with the help of National Conference of State Criminal Justice Planning Administrators, Work said.

Florida a big vegetable state

TALLAHASSEE, Florida (UPI) — Florida supplies 48 per cent of all fresh vegetables shipped in the nation, according to figures from the Division of Marketing of the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Stiles said Florida shipped 97 per cent of the nation's supply of endive and escarole, 89 per cent of the sweet corn, 80 per cent of the green beans, 77 per cent of the radishes, 52 per cent of the peppers, 49 per cent of the celery, 42 per cent of cucumbers, 41 per cent of the cabbage, 40 per cent of the squash, 39 per cent of the tomatoes, 37 per cent of the eggplant, 12 per cent of the strawberries, 10 per cent of the carrots and two per cent of the lettuce.

Little loaves are very big when it comes to nutrition

The true personality of this wheat germ little bread does not appear at first glance. It is only by tasting that you realize the marvelous combination of flavors and textures wrapped up in the simple, uncomplicated bread. The natural flavors are toasted wheat germ, coconut and banana. The whole effect somewhat tropical in format and delightful to eat. This is an excellent quick bread to slice and butter and enjoy with summer fruits and iced tea. Or serve with a combination fruit and cottage cheese or chefs salad.

One batch makes eight small loaves. To venture a little further into serving suggestions consider the possibility of slicing the bread lengthwise and toasting it. Hot with butter it is indeed a wholesome nourishing breakfast item. The breads can be enclosed in a plastic bag and stored in the freezer, ready to bring forth for instant meals or snacks.

Regular wheat germ and the three flavored wheat germ ready-to-eat cerals are vacuum packed for your convenience in glass jars. An ounce serving of them plus milk makes a nourishing light meal. Wheat germ has long been known as the world's most nutritious natural cereal.

Wheat germ with sugar and honey and regular wheat germ have both been around many years. Cinnamon raisin and caramel apple are the two newcomers to the flavored line this year. For optimum flavor all are lightly toasted before packing. Of course no preservatives are in either the regular or flavored wheat germ cereals. Shop the cereal section for them; they are usually displayed on shelves of most food stores at eye level.

TROPICAL WHEAT GERM BREAD

1¼ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
½ teaspoon almond extract
6 tablespoons butter, softened
2-3rds cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (2 medium)

Spread coconut in shallow pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 6 to 8 minutes, stirring twice, until toasted. Mix wheat germ, flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Combine milk, lemon juice, vanilla and almond extracts (will be slightly curdled). Beat butter with sugar until fluffy. Beat in eggs. Alternately mix in wheat germ and milk mixtures. Stir in bananas and coconut. Turn into 8 greased (4½x2½x1½-inch) miniature loaf pans or 6-ounce individual molds (about ½ cup each). Bake in 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes or until wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean. Remove from pans immediately. Cool on racks. Makes 8 individual loaves.

For something that answers the description of simplicity and elegance, choose a wedge of freshly cut Danablu Cheese. Stud each end of the delicious Danish Blue Cheese with thinly sliced walnuts. You'll find the walnuts stick more easily if you wet each end with a bit of brandy first.

Place a cheese knife nearby along with a stack of thin, crisp plain crackers and let each guest serve himself the pure white creamy cheese with blue viens. Replenish the crackers as needed on the cheese board.

Ebony black pitted prunes, soaked a few hours or overnight in a bit of rum, brandy or wine are delicious with a cube of cheese anchored into the fruit with a pick. Again, turn to the good Danes for a variety of cheese for cubing.

There are several flavorful, delicate yellow Danish cheeses to accompany any fruit you desire. Remember Danish cheeses are never artificially colored.

Natural cheeses from Denmark are made from pure cow's milk in modern sparkling clean dairies. After aging the cheeses, they are shipped all over the world. Dairy foods are Denmark's chief export products.

Choose mild, sweet nutlike flavored Samsoe and cut as desired for appetizers. Or, Havarti (Danish Tilsit) and Tybo. Quite popular now are the and 12-ounce rounds and half rounds of Creamy Havarti that come gaily wrapped in red or yellow. This marvelous new Danish Creamy Havarti is also being made as a bulk cheese to be purchased in desired amounts.

You'll always be prepared for unexpected guests if you'll keep Danish cheeses on hand in your refrigerator. Wrap cheese in foil or in plastic wrap and store at your finger tips.

PEACH CHARLOTTE

In a saucepan, combine 2 packages vanilla pudding and pie filling, 3 packages unflavored gelatin and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add 3 cups milk and cook, following pudding directions. Cool to room temperature, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, pare 5 fresh peaches and cut them in half, removing pits. Puree in blender. Stir 3½ cups peach puree into cooled pudding and chill until mixture is partially set. Fold in 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, and 1-3rd cup finely chopped candied ginger. Pour into 2-quart mold and chill until set. At serving time, unmold mousse onto platter. Garnish with peach slices and nuts.

PEANUT BREAKFAST BARS

You're not alone . . . if you have a sandwich today, that is. Over 200 million sandwiches will be munched on before the day is done. From the West Coast's 'Hawaiian Farmer' to the 'Raisinable Chicken Sandwich' to the East Coast's 'Vegetarian Delight,' today's sandwich has more variety, more nutritional appeal than ever before. In fact, sandwiches are so important that institutional chefs compete each August for the national sandwich crown! Let this year's contest inspire you to create your own sandwich specials.

Try a bite of a Sunsweet Salad Sandwich on pumpernickel bread. Prunes in a sandwich? Yes — for great taste, satisfaction and chew. Iron-rich pitted prunes mixed with cottage cheese complement orange sections and are moist enough to use straight from the package. And, what a way to balance the nutritional ticket. Prunes supply iron and vitamin A, cheese provides protein, bread gives vitamin B—to name just a few values.

Curry on down to the next intriguing sandwich—Raisinable Chicken. Top with a dollop of quick raisin curry sauce—a blend of raisins, sour cream, mayonnaise and curry powder. (Any other protein, turkey or cheese, for instance, can be raisinable, too!)

Hot off the grill comes a new kind of grilled cheese with a flavor surprise—chewy figs. Natural food fans will like this spruced up classic; it's easy to make, delicious to eat. Try the Blue Ribbon Sandwich on your family—it will sure win blue ribbons for you!

Native squash

Squash, a native to the Western Hemisphere, was first consumed by the Indians. The Narragansett Indians referred to the vegetable as "askutasquash" meaning "green-raw unripe", probably becasue they ate it raw.

Forgets $3,600 in clothing gift

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — A 26-year-old man wanted to give to the Salvation Army, but not that much.

"He was wringing his hands when I showed up," said Maj. David Riley, center director.

"He nearly fainted when we told him we had found the money. He had told us he would have lost his job and the business if the money had not been recovered," Riley said.

Fresh stocks often encourage specials

Hand picked or otherwise, wise shoppers may pack up some good buys in produce and proteins this month, when fresh crops and stocks could encourage price specials. Supplies in red meats and white—especially turkey—are larger than last August's, and there's an ample crop of "p's" besides proteins: from plums and dried prunes and peas, through peanuts, pecans, pears, new potatoes, and peaches. These are part of the projections for food-wise shoppers for summer spreads, sandwiches, salads, supper, snack and spectacular-events menus. Foods to watch follow.

FRUITS: Grapes, plums and nectarines, peaches tart cherries, pears, limes, oranges (fresh and canned packs), and citrus juices, including frozen, should all be in adequate or better supply. New canned packs in both fruit and vegetables will rise to new price levels.

A year-round surplus of dried fuits can add substance to fresh or canned fruits. A free recipe booklet, "California Gourmet," is available by stamped self-addressed envelope from Sunland Marketing, Inc., P. O. Box 2268, Menlo Park, Cal. 94025.

VEGETABLES: Potato supplies are up except for frozens; seasonal vegetables peak in home gardens. Canned vegetable stocks remain low because of light carryover, but frozens are 30 per cent over 1973 and about 20 per cent above the 1971-73 average. Corn is headed for a 12 per cent record over the 1973 crop. Dry peas should be another August "large crop". Eggplant, actually a fruit, is in good supply this month, too.

NON MEAT PROTEIN CATEGORY: Peanuts and walnuts should be ample or abundant and dry beans are up over last year's. Eggs and fluid milk are adequate; cheese and nonfat dry milk are adequate with commercial stocks well over last August's. (Hope for pass-along savings, or tempered price rises, anyway.) The rice harvest should be record and wheat ample, but heavy demand will affect price. Nutrition information and consumer recipe booklets for dry split peas are available from the Washington and Idaho Dry Pea and Lentil Commissions, P. O. Box 8566, Moscow, Idaho 83843.

MEAT, POULTRY, FISH CATEGORY: Supplies in beef will continue relatively large, and pork output should be up over last August's too. Turkey crops should be about 5 per cent over last August, while turkey in storage should be about 50 per cent over 1971-73 average. Bluefish and most frozen fish steaks are now at all-time records, too; watch for possible features.

Civilian dies in crash of police 'copter

HUNTINGTON BEACH (UPI) — The 29-year-old pilot of a police department helicopter remained in serious condition today after a helicopter crash Monday night in which a 35-year-old man was killed.

Kenneth Jensen was listed in serious condition at Pacifica Hospital after his helicopter struck high voltage wires and crashed in an unpopulated area near the Pacific Coast Higtway.

Dead was James F. Reynolds, 35, Fountain Valley, a civilian who was taking an orientation ride in the helicopter. Authorities said the helicopter was on a training flight in a designated training area when the crash occurred.

Dodgers thriving at Wrigley Field

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

CHICAGO — The Dodgers certainly agree with Ernie Banks that beautiful Wrigley Field is the ONLY place to play baseball.

Second baseman Davy Lopes, who's name isn't brought up in the same company with the likes of Babe Ruth or Hank Aaron in the power department, had himself a field day Tuesday in leading the Dodgers' 24-hit attack in a wild 18-8 rout over the hapless Cubs.

Would you belive Lopes hitting three home runs in one game? He did that and added a single and double in a 5-hit explosion.

On Monday, the Dodgers banged out 17 hits in an 8-7, 12-inning victory.

Is this the same team which had scored only 11 runs all week in losing six in-a-row to the Mets and Pirates before arriving in Chicago?

It's obvious the small dimensions in Wrigley field plus a favorable wind and the Cubs' putching staff—which has a team earned run average of 4.23 and climbing—was just the tonic the Dodgers needed.

Lopes, who doubled his season home run production to six in one afternoon, belted Tom Detorre's second pitch of the game into the left field seats. He followed that with homers in the second and sixth frames.

But a single in the fourth to drive in a run was Lopes' most satisfying hit.

Cubs' lefthander Dave LaRoche, who was quite aware that Lopes had homered twice and hit a long double, brushed the second baseman back with a high inside pitch.

Lopes glared at the pitcher, threw some dirt at him and started towards him but third base coach Tommy Lasorda stopped in and prevent a free-for-all as both teams emptied into the field but only words were exchanged.

"I am pretty sure the pitch was ordered from the bench," Lopes said. "I don't mind being thrown at but not at my head. Being hit in the head has ruined a lot of guys' careers."

Lopes than revealed he isn't particularly fond of Jim Marshall, the Cubs new manager. When Lopes was playing for Lasorda at Spokane, there were some bad incidences when they played Marshall's Tacoma club.

"I have no lost love for Marshall," Lopes said. "I don't know if he ordered that pitch but it's a good guess. He's that type of manager."

It was interesting listening to the reaction of the 19,736 fans at Wrigley Field. Their immediate reaction was to boo Lopes. But the second baseman received a standing ovation when he went to the plate in the eighth inning looking for his fourth homer and sixth hit of the afternoon.

"That was great," Lopes said, "And I appreciate the Chicago fans. It's the first time I've ever received an ovation like that for my hitting anywhere."

Lopes doesn't feel he is a slugger now. "I'm just a little guy," he commented. "It was one of those lucky days and I'm thankful for it. When I start thinking about home runs, I'll stop hitting."

"I was going for a home run," he said. "I wasn't going to take a walk in that situation."

Actually, the Dodgers rested after the sixth inning, doing all of their offensive damage by then. They scored four in the first, added three in the second, picked up four more in the fourth and capped it with a big seven runs in the sixth.

Jimmy Wynn hit a two-run shot—his 28th—in the first and Steve Garvey connected for a three-run shot—his 18th—in the sixth.

But Willie Crawford had the most exciting home run of the afternoon when he legged out an inside-the-park roundtripper in he sixth for his ninth of the year.

Besides Lopes' five hits, Crawford and Ron Cey had four apiece. Bill Buckner and Steve Yeager added three apiece.

Don Sutton was able to coast to his 11th win of the season and only his fourth victory in 19 decision against the Cubs. Sutton came out of the game after the seventh inning to rest for his next start.

DODGER DATA — Andy Messersmith (13-5) was slated to pitch against UCLA graduate Bill Bonham (10-15) in today's series finale. . .Tuesday's RBI totals raises Wynn to 88, Garvey to 87 and Cey to 80. . .Shortstop Don Kessinger was able to return to the Chicago lineup Tuesday but the Cubs are hurting without Billy Williams, who is on the disabled list for the first time in his 14-year career because of the spike wound suffered Monday.

Sun faces 'King'

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA — Tonight the Southern California Sun goes up against the "King" of the World Football League.

Corcoran and the rest of his Bellmates host the Sun at John F. Kennedy Stadium here at 5 p.m. (PDT) in a game which will be televised back to Southern California on KTTV (Channel 11).

Corcoran isn't the Sun's only concern, however.

Second of all, the Sun must find a way to put a little more scoring punch into its offense.

Johnson, the second-leading rusher in the league, has gained 407 yards on 110 carries for a 3.7 average. But last week against Houston, Johnson was knocked out early in the second half and did not return to the game.

"Kermit will not be traveling with the team," disclosed a team spokesman. "He suffered a concussion last week when he was kicked in the head. He didn't practice all week since the coaches dicided to give him a week's rest. Don McCall, a running back from USC has been activated to fill the vacancy."

In the last 10 quarters. Southern California has only scored 26 points—very low in the high-scoring World Football League.

The King not only leads the league in total passing yardage, but also is the completion percentage leader. The flashy NFL reject has completed 94 of 170 passes this season for a .553 percentage and 1168 yards.

So with that in mind, Philadelphia has been installed as a three-point favorite in the game.

With Johnson out of the lineup, the Sun may have to depend a little bit more on its passing game.

So that means Tony Adams will probably go to wide receiver Dave Williams or running back James McAlister.

Adams, the sixth leading passer in the league, has completed 66 of 130 passes for 872 yards and four touchdowns this season. Williams is the seventh leading receiver in the WFL, 18 passes for 371 yards (20.6 average) and three touchdowns.

McAlister, Johnson's running mate in the backfield, has caught 18 passes for 214 pards (11.9), but hasn't yet scored from the result of a reception.

A loss would really put Philadelphia in the hole, so the Bell will be trying even harder to knock off the Sun. The Bell holds the same seasonal record as the Sun (3-3), but instead of standing in first place is settled in third behind Florida and New York.

SUN SCRIPTS: There have been several changes for tonight's game in the Sun lineup. Tight end Al McMichael has been activated and will alternate with Ike Harris. . . .Defensive back Greg Mason has also been activated and will back up Jim Bowman at that position. . .Greg Moses, a backup wide receiver, will take the place of the injured Jack Conners on punt returns.

Sneak preview of Poly football

Cal Poly, Pomona football enthusiasts will get a sneak preview of the 1974 Bronco squad August 31 (Saturday) when Arizona Western College in Yuma treks to Pomona for a scrimmage session.

An all out "game type scrimmage" will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on the Cal Poly gridiron.

"The only difference between a real game and our night scrimmage will be the fact there won't be a kickoff," Bronco mentor Andy Vinci said. "Other than that it will be full go. It will be a good test of our intensity."

The evening scrimmage will be open to the public with a $1 admission charge for adults and 50 cents for children 12 or under. Cal Poly Gold Card members and Booster Club members will be admitted.

IDLE THREATS?

Ed Garvey (left), executive director of the NFL Players' Association and Alan Page, player representative of the Minnesota Vikings, were outraged Tuesday when Philadelphia ousted Kermit Alexander from its training camp. Garvey threatened to pull all veterans out of training camp.

Garvey says players may walk out again

By United Press International

Ed Garvey is up in arms again and he says National Football League players may be out of camp soon.

Garvey, the executive director of the NFL Players Associaton, was incensed Tuesday when he learned that veteran defensive back Kermit Alexander of Philadelphia, vice president of the union, had been given permission to make a deal for himself with another club.

"If their answer to our cooling off period is to get Kermit Alexander out of the league and attack our leadership, this is going to be a long strike," Garvey said. "We've got enough strength to go back in and come on back out—the players know the strength of their union is at stake."

The union called a 14-day cooling off period and allowed players to report to camp beginning last Wednesday. It said, however, that players would walk out of camp at the end of the two weeks if agreement is not reached with the owners.

Coach Mike McCormack said the Eagles, "haven't waived him Alexander) but he's looking on his own. I looked quite honestly at our defense and there was no way he could make the team or help it. Kermit's standing in the strike had absolutely nothing to do with my decision."

Alexander, who played little since joining the Eagles as a free agent two years ago, said he asked to make a deal for himself last season.

"Obviously they didn't do it then," Alexander said. "But Mike asked to see me. I came in and the talk opened with a statement about what we talked about before and that now I was free to try. If I can't make a deal? I presume I'm cut."

Garvey, a Minneapolis attorney, issued the players' "bottom line" offer, a package which insists players be given a say about where they are traded and whether they want to cancel their contracts if they are put on waivers. It also asks for neutral arbitration of grievances.

Financial arrangements in the offer request that a cost of living increase since 1970 as computed by the consumer price index of the U.S. Department of Labor be added to the contract.

Garvey called the offer "so reasonable that no owner can now be saying we're out to destroy pro football.

"Giving the players a say in trading isn't going to ruin football. It means changing the relationship so that people talk to one another, so that the employer doesn't look at the employe as a piece of property."

Ryan attracting bidders?

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — If the Angels trade Nolan Ryan, which is unlikely, they'll have no trouble finding takers.

A gate attraction and great talent, Ryan nevertheless has been the object of trade rumors of increasing frquency. At a recent outing, 13 scouts were watching him.

The fireballing righhander has not been too happy with some of manager Dick Williams' methods. Pitchers are more prone to confide in other pitchers than writers and a pitcher on another club remarked recently that he had heard that Ryan wants so much to be traded that he is considering taking baseball's reserve clause into court to test it if the Halos don't deal him.

In losing a 1-0 decision to the Detroit Tigers in 11 innings, Tuesday night, Ryan gave up only four singles while striking out 19, 16 of them in nine innings.

The boyish looking speedballer now has struck out 10 or more batters 65 times, 51 of them as an Angel. He set a new record he had shared with Sandy Koufax and Luis Tiant.

No other major league hurler has ever struck out 19 batters more than once. Ryan has done it three times.

"Can you get to sleep after a game like this," a writer wanted to know. "It isn't easy," Ryan answered flashing a tired smile. The Halo meal ticket had thrown 184 pitches, 107 of which were in the strike zone.

After a slow start in which he didn't strike anybody out until two were out in the second inning, Ryan was at his dominating, fireballing best in the sixth, seventh, eighth ninth and tenth innings.

He struck out the side in the sixth and eighth innings and fanned two of three in the ninth and 10th.

"I struggled the first three or four innings until I got my rhythm," Ryan explained. "That took away from my velocity and control. Once I got my rhythm I was okay."

It was a shame anybody had to lose. Ryan (16-13) walked five and gave up widely scattered singles to Tom Veryzer, an infield hit, in the second and Gary Sutherland in the fifth.

The last two, in the 11th, were his undoing.

After two were out in the 11th inning, Ben Oglivie singled and then stole second. Bill Freehan, "trying only to meet the ball," lined a sharp single to right scoring Oglivie.

"He pitched a hell of ball game," commented Williams. "I don't know of anyone who can throw harder than he was throwing in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings."

The Halos got their leadoff hitter on base in six of the 11 innings. But again the big punch, the one that knocks the runner in, was missing.

ANGEL ANGLES — The Tiger series and the homestand wind up tonight with Andy Hassler (2-8) and Larrin LeGrow (7-13) doing the pitching (8-p.m.).

When Lolich struck out Bob Oliver leading off the Angel seventh, it made Ollie the 2,500 victim of Lolich's career.

Lee Stanton's average continues to plummet. Hitless again Tuesday, Stanton's average sank to .282. The Halo rightfielder now has gone hitless in his last 10 at bats.

Is there a scandal?

NEW YORK (UPI) — —The smoke a pro football gambling scandal showed again on Tuesday, but this time there was a tip of flame as well.

A Manhattan Grand Jury indicted two known gamblers, both of whom were reportedly connected with crime syndicates, but added the shocker that the physician for the New York Giants was involved, although not indicted.

Dr. Anthony Pisani, who resigned as team doctor of the National Football League club after serving the Giants for 10 years, was cited in the first charge of the 40-count indictment of Thomas Musto and Michael Astarita.

The indictment alleges that Musto, 64, of New York, and Astarita, 47, of Hillsdale, N.J. handled more than a $1 million in illegal pro football wagerings, and that the two conspired with Dr. Pisani, who was to supply them information on the physical condition of Giant personnel, with distinct mention in the indictment of fullback Ron Johnson, defensive back Carl Lockhart, lineman John Mendenhall, and "other offensive and defensive players of said National Football League team."

A league spokesman would only say that the NFL had been aware of the N.Y. City police investigation for some time, but had been unable to help in the probe.

District Attorney Richard Kuh declined to comment on the failure of the indictment to cite Dr. Pisani. Kuh said "it is not the practice of this office to go beyond the scope of the indictment".

Reaction to this latest hint of wide spread pro football gambling and inside betting information was predictable in NFL cities.

All teams declared their own security arrangements were working well and that all players are made aware of the NFL rules governing gambling information and that such warnings are posted in all locker rooms.

The league policy is to release reports on the injury situations of all clubs, with a final status of injured players released on the Thursday before each game.

Dr. Pisani is a noted orthopedic man, particularly in the treatment of damaged kntes. His techniques have been studied and used by other orthopedists, including some team physicians.

In the charges against Musto and Astarita, the jury said that "on or about Oct. 12, 1973, Thomas Musto refused to discuss the football line with a certain individual, stating 'I want to speak to the doctor first to find out what he knows about injuries.'"

Musto was reportedly a "soldier" in the Vito Genovese crime family, while Astarita was associated with the late Thomas "Tommy Ryan" Eboli.

NFL doesn't think so

By United Press International

NFL owners, alerted by the latest scandal which came about when the New York Giants former team surgeon was found to have passed information on player injuries to known gamblers, issued assurances Tuesday that their security systems are designed to prevent such occurences.

Two men were indicted in New York Tuesday for their part in conspiring to obtain this information from former Giants team physician Dr. Anthony Pisani.

"Every member of the San Francisco 49ers is aware of the National Football League rules with regard to gambling," said club president Lou Spadia. "Notice of these rules is posted prominently in all of our facilities and I feel certain the rules are adhered to by every member of the 49ers organization."

The Chicago Bears say they routinely try to protect against gambilng situations. Nobody is permitted in any treatment room except the trainer. A club spokesman said the Bears team doctor "is absolutely above reproach and makes full disclosure of any injuries."

The Washington Redskins are set to flay their front office personnel with everything short of capital punishment if a news leak is detected. Dave Slattery, a key member of the Redskin brass, insists that "anybody giving out information to the news media, except the Thursday injury report, would be immediately dismissed."

"We have a general security program involving all club personnel, including the front office," was the terse comment from a team spokesman.

San Diego Chargers General Manager Harlan Svare revealed "their is no special precautions other than the no association with known gamblers or undesirables clause stipulated in every contract."

A spokesman for the Pittsburgh Steelers said there was no question that Dr. Pisani wa sa very capable individual at his trade and was surprised at what happened, "but this is something totally unrelated to the Steelers."

BRUSHED BACK — Atlanta catcher Vic Correll catches his helmet which went flying when he got out of the way of a brush pitch by St. Louis pitcher Alan Foster. Correll reclaimed his helmet and bat and singled off Foster as the Braves beat the Cardinals, 8-6, in Tuesday's game.

Reds think of MVP award

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Admittedly, it might be a little premature, but talk of the National League's Most Valuable Player was a major topic of conversation Tuesday night after Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan homered to lead the Reds to a 7-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phils.

The homers were two of Reds' 11 hits as they presented Clay Kirby with his eighth victory against seven losses while staying within 2 ½ games of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West.

"Look, I finished fourth in the voting last year and there's no way I'm going to have a better season than I did in 1973," said Morgan. "So realistically, how can I think about getting the award this year even if we do win the division title?"

"But 10 of the guys who participated in the voting didn't put me among the top 10 on their ballots," he pointed out.

Naturally Morgan covets the honor.

"Who wouldn't?" he asked. "It's the top honor in baseball as far as I'm concerned. But let's face it, four years ago I didn't even give the award a thought."

"As far as Joe's being the league's Most Valuable Player," said Bench, "I'd be the first to jump on his bandwagon."

Bench is the guy Morgan undoubtedly would have to beat out if he were to win the MVP award this season, should the Reds beat out the Dodgers. His 25th homer Tuesday night was a three-run shot in the fifth inning. Morgan hit his 18th.

The Reds wind up their homestand tonight when they send Tom Carroll against Jim Lonborg. Then it's three games with the Expos in Montreal and three more with the Phils in Philadelphia.

"We're getting good consistent hitting from everyone and I hope it continues," said Anderson.

Reliever Juan Pizarro, purchased from the Mexican League Monday, walked Bruce Miller with the bases loaded in the 10th inning to force in the winning run for San Francisco against Pittsburgh. The Giants, trailing 6-2, erupted for five runs in the top of the ninth with Miller's run-scoring single capping the rally but the Pirates tied the game in the bottom of the frame. The victory went to Mike Caldwell, 12-3, in relief.

American League roundup

Bando, Hunter spark A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — Sal Bando will take RBI singles any way he can get them, and if he gets enough, the Oakland A's may stave off the onrushing Kansas City Royals in the tightening American League West race.

Bando singled home Oakland's winning run in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Jim Hunter stopped the Milwaukee Brewers on three hits for a 7-1 victory, Hunter's 18th.

Bando's RBI was his first in five games and only his second since Aug. 10. He still leads Oakland in runs batted in with 82.

"All I care," said Bando, "is that it was a base hit and the go-ahead run scored. That's all I care about."

Bando, Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi, Oakland's big hitters, all have been in slumps lately as Kansas City has crawled to within five games of the A's in the Western Division.

Bando has only seven hits in his last 39 at bats, Jackson is finally coming out of his doldrums (9-for-32), but Rudi has hit safely only twice in his last 31 trips.

Tony Solaita and Fran Healy belted fifth inning home runs off Gaylord Perry and Lindy McDaniel turned in four innings of two-hit relief Tuesday night to spark the Kansas City Royals to a 2-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Solaita drilled his fifth homer of the season over the centerfield fence leading off the fifth and Healy smacked a 3-2 pitch over the lefttfield barrier two outs later.

McDaniel took over for starter Al Fitzmorris who was forced to leave the game with an injury at the start of the sixth and blanked the Indians the rest of the way to pick up his first save of the year.

In other games Baltimore edged Texas 2-1, Boston beat Chicago 8-3, and New York edged Minnesota 2-1.

Mike Cuellar tossed a five-hitter for his 15th win and Brooks Robinson and Mark Belanger drove in second inning runs to lead the Orioles over Texas.

Baltimore scored twice in the second inning off loser Jackie Brown. Don Baylor singled, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on Robinson's double. After Ellie Hendricks singled Robinson to third, Belanger's sacrifice fly chased Robinson home.

Dick Drago's first complete game since July 8 and a 13-hit attack led the Red Sox over Chicago.

The Red Sox pounded an old nemesis, Stan Bahnsen, for six hits and five runs in 4 1-3 innings and continued their barrrage against righthanded reliever Jack Kucek. Rick Miller led the Red Sox' attack with four hits, but the big blow was a three-run double off Bahnsen by Dwight Evans in the third inning.

Bobby Murcer scored from first base on Ron Blomberg's infield single and two errors in the third inning to give the Yankees a victory over Minnesota behind Pat Dobson's seven-hitter.

Murcer drew a walk off Bert Blyleven with one out in the third and Blomberg followed with a grounder that glanced off the pitcher's glove toward shortstop. Murcer went to third when Danny Thompson threw wild to first base and continued on to the plate when it was left uncovered by Blyleven who was charged with an error.

Belkin's shots go to Vilas' backhand

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) —It wasn't that soft-spoken, hardhitting 22-year-old Argentinian Guillermo Vilas planned to race up and down the baseline hitting torrid backhands all afternoon.

It's just that Mike Belkin "was hitting all his shots to my backhand," Vilas said after disposing of his first-round opponent in quick and spectacular fashion, 6-2, 6-2, at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Top-seeded Smith barely worked up a sweat, ousting young Australian Ross Case, 6-0, 6-3. The Dutchman Okker, in contrast, struggled to a 7-6, 6-4 first round win over Torben Ulrich of Denmark, then admitted his 45-year-old opponent "is in good shape, maybe better shape than I."

Spaniard Manuel Orantes, seeded seventh, split the first two sets with Chile's Jaime Pinto-Bravo, winning a tiebreaker, 7-5, then losing, 5-7, before putting his game together, 6-1, in the deciding set.

Eighth-seeded Marty Reissen also took three sets to oust Ivan Molina of Colombia, 6-4, 4-6, 60 and ninth-ranked Czech Jan Kodes won over Pakistan's Haroon Rahim in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3.

Though Vilas has been in the finals of four of his last six tournaments, winning two including last week's Canadian Open, he says, "I never go into a tournament to win. I go to play. If you like to climb a mountain, if you look up at the top, you'd never start."

From La Verne to Scandinavia

Bias goes on tour

La Verne College's basketball coach Art Bias and a team of nine players left California Monday for a two-week clinic and game tour of the Scandinavian countries, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

Originally, the group had planned to play international ball on the Ivory Coast, but those plans had to be scrapped when officials in Abdjian, the capital, failed to follow through with confirmation dates for games, Bias said.

Rather than disappoint the La Verne player, who had been practicing for weeks, and the La Verne College trustees and friends, who had given financial support to the venture, Bias went ahead and quickly made alternative plans with basketball officials in the northern countries. "It's really amazing the reception we got, and on such short notice," Bice said. "They really are anxious for us to visit them—they even have us scheduled to play against their best All Star teams."

Bias said that this tour will give the La Verne team a good opportunity to play international ball against stiff competition.

"We understand that one of the players on the Finnish National team is a 7 foot center and a starter for Brigham Young University, Utah. There's another 6 foot 10 inch forward on the same team who'll also give us a rough time," Bias said.

Players making the trip are Don Carter, Bill Rockwood and Tim Perry from La Verne; Mike Savage and Dan Moon from Redlands; graduates George Agnew of La Verne and Len Jackson and Larry Holiday of the University of Oregon and Mike Washburn of Colorado State.

Bias said it was difficult for the graduates to get sponsors, "but we're happy with the way people responded, especially President Newcomer and the college trustees.

La Verne President Leland B. Newcomer was one of the persons who lent a strong helping hand to he project.

"We're really happy he stepped in," said Bias. "He got sponsors awfully fast. We're really very pleased that he took an interest. Without him we never would have made the trip."

President Newcomer voiced approval of the project and indicated a strong interest in the total program.

"It enables our students to go over there (Norway, Sweden and Denmark) and find out what the world is like," he said. "That works into our total educational program."

The president contacted members of the alumni and trustees and told them about the program and what the college is trying to do. Their endorsement is indicated by their participation and help in obtaining sponsorships.

Coach Bias again has said he will try to make the opportunity to play international ball an annual event.

"We're going to try and work out something that will make it an annual thing, sort of a type of cultural exchange program," he said.

He also said he plans to contact officials on the Ivory Coast for next year. "Maybe, if they have a year to plan a two-week tour, we can carry out our original plans. We would like to bring basketball to the underdeveloped countries."

During the two-week trip, the La Verne All Stars have scheduled three games in Copenhagen, Denmark against All Star teams; two games in Stockholm, Sweden against All Star teams and three games in Helsinki, Finland, one against the National Finnish team and the other two against All Star teams.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — A team from Kao Hsuing, Taiwan, battered New Haven, Conn. 16-0 behind the one-hit pitching of Lin Wen-Hsuing and Tallmadge, Ohio stopped Athens, Greece, 8-0 Tuesday in the first round of the Little League Baseball World Series.

Lin struck out 13 and walked three as his teammates pounded out 10 hits, including four home runs, good for nine runs, by Lin, Wu Mu Tung, Chen Hong-Long and Kao Sun-Teh.

In the second game, Bob Trauger scattered seven singles, struck out 10 and walked none to lead Tallmadge to its victory over Athens, a team comprised of the sons of American military and embassy personnel.

Tallmadge scored three runs in both the third and fourth frames, taking advantage of wildness on the part of Athens pitcher Harry Fugett, who walked 11 batters and threw 10 wild pitches in the game.

The opening round will conclude Wednesday with Esquimalt, British Columbia meeting Red Bluff, Calif. and Maracaibo, Venezuela taking on Jackson, Tenn.

Nationalist Chinese teams have won the title the last three years and have now held the opposition scoreless through 35 innings in two years of World Series play.

Catfish clinic at Puddingstone

Everything you ever wanted to know and might have been afraid to ask about catfish will be explained at the State Department of Fish and Game's first annual catfish clinic, Thursday evening, at Puddingstone Reservoir near Pomona.

Lectures and demonstrations on the catching, cleaning and cooking of catfish will be presented by department personnel and home economists from the National Marine Fisheries Service.

Individual instruction and a question and answer period will conclude the two-hour free clinic which is scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m.

Robert D Montgomery, Southern California regional manager for the Department of Fish and Game, said he had no idea of how many might attend the clinic but that preparations were being made for a large crowd.

"We know there is considerable interest in catfish," he said. "During the past year we have received more than 10,000 requests for copies of a brochure on 21 ways to prepare catfish. Hundreds of these were accompanied by requests for information on where they could be found, how to catch them, what bait to use and what kind of tackle. That's the primary reason for this clinic.

Montgomery said a second major reason for the clinic was the fact that the catfish represented a relatively untapped resource in California.

"We are planting nearly a million channel catfish a year in California waters; but the percentage of catch-out is far less than in our trout program," he said. "This is surprising considering the delicious flavor of the meat and the fun in catching catfish."

Montgomery said persons who attend the Aug. 22 clinic will receive copies of the department's newly revised Catfish ..Manual and Cookbook; which includes a list of waters where they can be found, tips on angling for catfish and 23 recipes.

He also cautioned clinic participants that fishing licenses would be necessary for persons 16 years of age or over who intended to try their luck that evening.

Persons who do not plan to attend the clinic can obtain the catfish Manual and Cookbook by sending 20 cents in stamps to cover postage to Mr. Catfish, P. O. Box 2475; Long Beach, Ca., 90801.

Southland racing

IRWINDALE — Two-time world's champion Ronnie Moore of New Zealand has the Speedway motorcycle racing veterans buzzing at Irwindale Raceway as Moore returns Thursday for his second appearance at the longest circuit in Southern California.

In his first try at the Southern California Speedway tracks last week at Irwindale, the 44-year-old Moore proved he could call on his vast experience and adapt to any size track with ease.

Used to running much longer quarter-mile tracks in England and Europe, Moore turned in several sparkling rides at Irwindale.

CORONA — Many of Southern California's finest flat track and T.T. steeplechase motorcycle riders compete every Wednesday night at Corona Raceway, as some of the best racing in the Southland begins at 7:30 p.m.

Led by Buena Park's Elbert Turner, who is the number one A.M.A. professional novice rider in the West Coast, the best young flat trackers run the short track (quarter-mile) every week with T.T. steeplechase and half-mile alternating every other week. Turner scored two main event victories last Wednesday night aboard his 360cc Gringo machine. The Gringo is made up of Yamaha parts with other added parts. Elbert is one of the smoothest riders ever to ride at Corona and he does remind one of Gary Scott and Danny Hockle in their younger days.

IRVINE — The management of Orange County International Raceway anticipates another capacity crowd for Saturday's "Graffiti Jam," an evening of professional drag racing and live rock music. Over 10,000 spectators jammed the Irvine facility in June for the Nitro Jam, an experiment so successful that Raceway GM Blaine Laux has booked headliner Bo Diddley into Saturday's show.

The evening opens at 7:30 p.m. with a 30-car field of Top Fuel Dragsters. Nitro Jam eliminator champ Bob Williams of Poway heads a roster of returning veterans which includes Tony Nancy (Sherman Oaks); Rance McDaniel (Fresno) and track record-holder James Warren (Bakersfield).

VALENCIA — Mike Bast, United States speedway racing champion, will be a featured performer in a 22-event program for the motorcycles Saturday night (8 p.m.) at Indian Dunes Park near Saugus.

Bast, who resides in Van Nuys, will slide onto the one-sixth mile clay oval during half-time intermission in a special five-lap exhibition run against the clock to establish a track record for the new circuit. His fastest lap will go into the books.

On future Saturdays, three of the professional riders from each program will be selected for attempts at bettering Bast's lap mark, going for a cash purse that will be increased weekly until the record is finally shattered. If, by chance, the record remains unbeaten, then the rider who came the closest to the mark by the end of the racing season will receive the cash that has accumulated in the pot.

SAUGUS — The top D.J.'s of Radio StationKHJ will be cut in full force, led by Top Jock; Stoney Richards to cheer on their favorite Saugus Speedway stars and to kick off the final Championship Drive of the 1974 Olimpic Racing Association season, a season that soon won't be forgotten by the record crowds. It is destined to go down as the wildest slam-banging, fender crunching, nail-biting, closest Championship race in the famed 1-3 mile ovals-long and exciting history.

Off-road race next for Hambleton

RIVERSIDE — What do you do that's new if you have already (a) been a professional boxer with 45 wins in 47 bouts before you were 21; (b) run away from home and put yourself through high school and college; (c) played professional football; (d) worked your way up to vice-presidency of a bank, and (e) become a movie stuntman?

Hambleton, now residing in Fillmore, is one of the early entrants in Mickey Thompson's "AC-Delco World Championship" off-road race, to be held Sept. 28-29 at Riverside International Raceway. He will race a single-seat Sandmaster dune buggy for the Modern Motors Racing Team of Glendale.

As far as a win in this most competitive of all racing classes in the Riverside event, Hambleton is not a favorite. In two races last October he finished 13th and 31st at Riverside.

"I'm what you call a guy who 'over-drives' his car," Hambleton modestly admitted. "One of these days I am going to figure out how to slow myself down so I can make my equipment last, and then maybe I will start winning."

A winner or not, he probably is among the most colorful of entrants for the "AC-Delco World Championships", which is expected to attract upwards of 300 entries.

Leaving his Seattle home at the age of 13, he lied about his age to get a professional boxing license and — fighting under the name of Pat McDuffy — traveled and supported himself for the next seven years as a welterweight prize fighter. In 47 bouts he lost only one and had one draw, but, Hambleton said, he never got anywhere in boxing because he had a poor knockout record.

Winding up in the San Fernando Valley, he entered North Hollywood High School. Successfully concealing his boxing career and professional status, which put food on the table and allowed him to attend school at all, Hambleton turned out for football.

He starred as a fullback and linebacker there, later at Valley College, when it fielded the No. 2 jaycee team in the country, and with a football scholarship at Colorado College.

Hambleton, despite his 200 lb. size, was signed by the San Diego Chargers and served as an outside linebacker on the Chargers' taxi squad during the 1956 and 1957 seasons.

Realizing he'd never be big enough to make a go of pro football, he took a minor job in a bank and rose quickly to the vice-presidency before deciding that business career went contrary to his life ambition.

"I had taken up motorcycle racing," Hambleton said, "and I got to be an expert at TT, flat track, moto-cross, just about everything. I fell off a lot and got up and continued, and I got a reputation for being able to crash and still finish a race. One day I got an invitation to stunt work for movies and TV."

Sports news in brief

NEW YORK (UPI) -- The North American Soccer League today honored Peter Silvester of the Baltimore Comets as its MVP before he returned to England to rejoin Southend United for the nine-month English season.

Silvester, 26, defeated Paul Child of San Jose and Doug McMillan of Los Angeles for MVP honors in his first season in the NASL.

Silvester gained 68 first place votes for a total 381 points against the 14-125 of Child, the league's leading point-scorer during the regular season, and McMillan, 14-123.

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Broncos Tuesday announced the release of seven rookies, bringing their preseason roster to 79.

Coach John Ralston identified the cut players as linebacker Chuck Cordes and wide receiver John Winesberry, both of Standford; offensive tackle Manson Petty of Colorado State; wide receiver Tom Strahan of Mississippi State; running back Steve Buchanan of Holy Cross; running back Al Barrett of Texas-El Paso and defensive tackle Voddie Bauchman of Redlands College.

The young star says she feels her greatest challenge this week will come from England's Virginia Wade and the Soviet Union's Olga Morozova. And, she added, Miss Morozova is the one she fears most.

East Anaheim posts 8-1 win in Babe Ruth

MARION, Illinois (UPI) — Bob Wiginton and Lee Wilcox each hit two-run singles in a five-run seventh inning to pace East Anaheim, Calif., to an 8-1 victory over Mattoon Tuesday night, eliminating the hosts from the Babe Ruth League Tournament of Champions.

Morris County, N. J., handed New Orleans its first loss of the tourney with a 2-1 victory in the nightcap.

Seven teams remain in contention for the title in the double elimination meet. Wednesday, Hamilton, Ohio, takes on Nashville, Tenn., and Kirkland, Wash., plays Sugar Creek, Mo.

Leningrad drunks have last word

MOSCOW (UPI) — Six years ago, the residents of 17 Rishetnikova Street in Leningrad decided to do something about the discarded kitchen tables outside their building.

They fixed up the tables for playing chess, reading, writing or just plain lounging.

Everyone was happy until drinkers in the neighborhood discovered that the tables also made ideal places to rest elbows, glasses and bottles while downing vodka.

Repeated pleading, cajoling and threats failed to dislodge the drunks, according to the newspaper Vecherni Leningrad.

Finally, not long ago, an unknown exasperated resident had all he could take. He made a last effort to eliminate the drunks by taking an ax to the tables, smashing them to bits.

Now there is nowhere for neighbors to sit and read or play chess. But the drunks are still there. They congregate where the tables used to be, drinking standing up until they collapse, the newspaper said.

'The Parallax View'

Conspiracy film just a tall story

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — "The Parallax View" is certain to be one of the most controversial films of the year. People will certainly read things into it, things about the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert Kennedy.

But the man who made the film, director Alan J. Pakula, states flatly that "No message was intended."

The film purports to show a major conspiracy behind the assassination of a U.S. senator, a man much like Bobby Kennedy. It, therefore, gives aid and encouragement to those who have long held that the murders of John and Robert Kennedy were, in fact, conspiracies.

Pakula would like the world to know his movie is "a tall story," that's all. He is not, nor has he ever been, an advocate of any theory about the assassinations.

"As far as the conspiracy theory is concerned," he says, "nobody really knows. Certainly I don't. I would have to classify myself as an agnostic about the conspiracy theory.

"If there is a point at all to the film, other than to entertain, it is simply to make everybody a little more suspicious. I like to think that when you see the film, you're a little more suspicious of the person you came in with."

Inevitably, there is a comparison, at least in terms of content, with an earlier movie, "Executive Action," which was even more strident in its advocacy of the conspiracy theory. (There can be no comparison with the respective artistry of the films. "Parallax" is infinitely superior.)

Pakula says he knew about "Executive Action," but made a point not to read the script or see the movie. Even though "Executive Action" was released long before "Parallax," they were made at roughly the same time.

Actually, they began shooting within a week of each other. But Pakula is a slow and painstaking workman, so his film took much longer to shoot and to edit.

"I think," he says, "that I spend more time in the editing room than most directors spend shooting."

He says he sometimes wishes he could speed himself up. He would like to make more movies — "Parallax" is only his fourth film — but his slowness mitigates that.

MRS. RODNEY LASHER

San Dimas Canyon County Park was the background for the marriage of Judy Lynn Sebring and Larry Corbett. The Rev. Keith Korstjens performed the late-afternoon, double-ring ceremony.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm A. Hern Jr. of Chino was given in marriage by her parents. The groom, who is in the U.S. Army, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corbett of Loomis.

Miss Joan Riggs was maid of honor and Miss Sandra Peich was bridesmaid. Caro Corbett was flower girl.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Nelson of Claremont and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Luettgerodt, also of Claremont.

Mrs. Steven Stern of Santa Monica was matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Candy Pavey of Claremont.

Dr. Reiss Potterveld officiated at the afternoon service. A buffet and reception followed in the refectory of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Luettgerodt will reside in the San Fernando Valley after a 27-day tour of Europe.

The First United Methodist Church of Ontario was the setting for the marriage of Miss Lori Lee Forman and Rodney Phil Lasher.

Officiant for the evening ceremony was the Rev. Delwin Thigpen.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Forman of Montclair was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Gerry Lasher of Montclair.

For her marriage, the bride selected an A-line gown of silk sata peau with imported Belgium lace. Flowers were appliqued on the scooped neckline and sleeves of the gown. A Juliet cap of seed pearls held the bride's long veil of French illusion.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. Denise Bosket, was honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Vicki Voss, sister of the groom, Gale Ryan, Nancy Flemming and Nilda Aponte. The best man was Greg Swarts and ushers were Steve Voss, Ronnie Bosket, George Cockrell and Mark Sorenson.

Michele Boux was in charge of the guest book. The flower girl was Kathy Cissna and the ring bearer was Jeffrey Bosket.

Mr. and Mrs. Lasher are both graduates of Montclair High School. The groom is a member of the Montclair Fire Department.

Five unusual women

She is state education director

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (MW)—"At 40, my head is finally together," says Bernice Moten, an educator who 15 years ago had to fight to get a teaching post in Nevada. Today she's this state's director of Equal Education Opportunities and a member of the district school board — an outspoken gadfly dedicated to keeping school officials on their toes.

"I see my role as first, pulling out the truth when they don't want to tell all of it, and second, making projections for change in our schools," she says. Mrs. Moten keeps a sharp eye out to see that everyone in the state —black or white (Nevada is about 10 percent black), male or female—gets a fair share. "Because I'm black I'm expected to be continuously grumbling," she says, "but I always praise that which is good."

Bernice Moten was appointed to the federally-funded state post in 1970, after 15 years of teaching. She was the first woman, and the first of her race to get the job. When she ran for the school board in January 1973, she won with 82 percent of the vote in a three-way race. Both assignments take her away from home a lot.

"Traveling is rough on my son, Frederic," she says softly. "He's 11 and he understands that in our house we all have to do our share to make our home work. But I think he misses me." Frederic Jr. is often left in the care of neighbors, because Frederic Sr. holds down two jobs—he's a bus driver and is training as a casino dealer.

Mrs. Moten herself was raised in a small town in the South. Her parents instilled a great respect for education in their only child, sacrificing to send her through college and graduate school. "My mother picked cotton to make sure I got my degree." She was also inspired by two absolutely grand" educators from her home town. "Both were strong women, very outspoken, and like me, very obese," she says frankly. "They were my ideals."

But in 1959 when Bernice Moten arrived in Las Vegas with a master's degree (University of Arkansas on a Ford Foundation fellowship), and four years of teaching to her credit, there were no openings for a black woman. To earn money, she worked as a domestic.

"I'd never ironed a shirt in my life," she laughs, recalling how she struggled with household chores. "But my skills got better and better!" Even today, she confesses with a glance around her own lovely livingroom, she loves to cook and decorate—"but I hate to iron and clean!"

Six months of daily calls to the Board of Education produced no classroom assignments until one of her employers pulled some strings. Now she's seeing those first children she taught grow up. "I consider them my major life's accomplishment — next to my son."

Her present administrative job requires her to help schools get needed materials and write up proposals for federal grants. Occasionally she does some demonstration teaching. "I love it when I can get out among the kids and get a chance to "touch hands." Her long-range goal is to effect some basic changes in education.

"Ninety percent of what we teach kids is irrelevant," she declares. Why try to teach multiplication tables and obscure historical facts when almost everyone has access to pocket calculators and resource books? "Kids know plenty when they come to school," Mrs Moten contends, "but we don't tap it."

Lately Bernice Moten has been doing some deep thinking about herself. She keeps a diary and ponders "how I've changed a lot in my life." Yet she says whatever happens to her, she'll always be active somewhere, about something. As she puts it: "I'll be kicking, because there's too much in life to kick about!"

Less calories

Sardines canned in mustard or tomato sauce have far fewer calories than the oil-packed variety. A nutritional information chart prepared for the Maine Sardine Council shows 280 calories for a three and three quarter ounce can of oil packed sardines, compared with 160 calories for the mustard sauced ones or 190 calories for tomato sauced.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHERE IS SULFUR FOUND?"

LORI HORNING
NORTHFIELD, MN

Sulfur is a brittle, yellowish rock that gives off a smell like rotten eggs when it is rubbed or heated.

Most native sulfur comes from thick layers deep underground. The most common method of mining sulfur is by drilling a sulfur well and pumping heated water down a shaft to the sulfur.

The hot water melts the sulfur, which can then be pumped to the surface, where it hardens into blocks.

Sulfur is used in medicines. It is also used in matches, for hardening rubber and in making sulfuric acid. It is also an important part of thousands of other products and manufacturing operations.

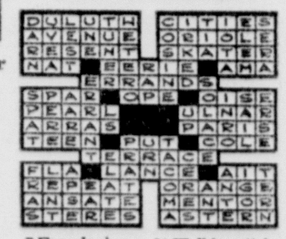

Sulfur is sometimes a nuisance. Sulfur fumes in the air cause silver to tarnish, and some fabrics to rot.

A BRITANNICA Atlas, pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.
